BANKERS ACT TO CURB STOCK PANIC

FALL VERDICT MAY BE GIVEN BY JURY TODAY

Panel Locked Up Last Night on Failure to Decide.

COURT TO BE OPENED AT 10 THIS MORNING

Dohenys and Daughters of Accused Wait in Vain Decision.

FORMER SECRETARY REMAINS AT HOTEL

Defense Counsel in Objection to Charge Outlined by Justice Hitz.

Associated Press.)

The jury charged with determining Albert B. Fall's guilt or innocence of bribery was locked up for the night at 11:08 p. m. after deliberating almost twelve hours without returning a verdict.

The eight men and four women, who have been held in seclusion since the trial began October 7, slept last night in the District Courthouse. They can not report before 10 o'clock this morning at the earliest.

If any decision is reached by the jury in the meantime, it will be sealed until Justice William Hitz opens court this morning. . . .

Jury Gives No Indications.

Since 11:30 a. m. yesterday the jury had been going over the case, but no information was forthcoming whether any progress had been made.

All the while the former Interior Secretary was waiting with Mrs. Fall at his hotel for word to proceed to court. Justice Hitz likewise had held himself in readiness at his home since dinner time, in case the jury desired to report.

Spectators and witnesses in the case, in which the aged defendant was charged with having received $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny for the notorious Elk Hills oil lease, had crowded the courtroom and corridors throughout the evening expecting a verdict.

Mercy Is Ruled Out.

Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Doheny and Mrs. C. C. Chase and Mrs. Jouett Elliott, daughters of Fall With all others, they were asked to leave the courthouse just prior to the locking up of the jury.

(Associated Press.)

The jury received the case after being informed by Justice William Hitz that it was not in its province to extend mercy to a defendant. A jury, he said, must decide impartially the evidence in the case, leave the matter of clemency to the court and must not be swayed by sympathy.

The charge was considered a serious blow by defense counsel, who filed exceptions to it on the ground that it was an invitation to the jury to convict the defendant.

After being given the case, the jury was called back by Justice Hitz at the insistence of the defense. The court had told the jury that the fact that other officials had approved the contracts, which Fall is accused of awarding Doheny's company because of the bribe, was immaterial. When recalled he told the jury that that testimony was material but not conclusive.

Grocer Fined for Sale Of Home-Brewing Malt

Cairo, Ill., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—W. H. Bernhardt, Cairo grocer, was fined $150 for possession and sale of malt in United States District Court here today when Judge Fred L. Wham ruled the selling of malt syrup with knowledge it was to be used in the making of home brewed beer constitutes a violation of the national prohibition act.

Bernhardt pleaded guilty but his attorneye, Asa Wilbourn, urged leniency on the ground that nearly all grocers sell malt syrup in the belief it is not illegal to make beer for home consumption.

DEFENDS LOBBY

JOSEPH R. GRUNDY.

GRUNDY ADMITS AID IN TARIFF FRAMING

Pennsylvanian Says He Has Been Working for High Rates Since 1897.

SEES DUTY TO PLATFORM

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

When "Old Joe" Grundy passes on to the Great Beyond, there is every reason to believe that there will be adequate provision in his will for his alma mater, the tariff lobby—the Dingley bill class of '97—and that the Lindbergh of the tariff-lobbying games, Charles L. Eyanson, will have a scholarship.

Certainly there was a strong intimation of this in his testimony yesterday before the Senate subcommittee investigating lobbyists.

Eyanson is the young $10,000 a year representative of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, who was installed in Senator Bingham's office during the tariff hearings, revealed in the lobby hearings as the Connecticut boy who made good.

"He is one of the brightest young men I have ever met," said Mr. Grundy feelingly, "and I'm darned near 70 years old. I wish I could find 100 like him to come down here and go through the tariff hearings They would be national assets."

With such training, he declared fervently, they could go forth as young evangelists preaching the doctrine of protection, the doctrine that has sustained this country for 60 years.

Mr. Grundy himself, white-haired and white moustache with a reddish face, small of stature and withal belying his near 70 years, looking nearer 50 in fact, while not exactly preaching that doctrine, has been since 1897 doing everything in his power to put it into effect—that and general politics.

And this is virtually all he has done, he said very frankly. He has a business, the wool firm of W. H. Grundy & Co., and a wealth, loosely estimated at $25,000,000 or $30,000,000. But he has not let it take up much of his time. Politics is the business that gets most of his attention. He raises money for the Republicans every two years—been doing it since '97. And why? Because he considers it a good investment.

That Republican platform on the tariff? Why, he wrote it. Or rather, the Pennsylvania delegation at Kansas City wrote a tariff plank and it was sent to Senator Borah, chairman of the resolutions committee, "and I was informed that it was followed in the preparation of the platform." His was "sort of an indirect authorship," Grundy said.

In fact, when the subcommittee got through with Mr. Grundy, it was

POLICE FORCE TUG-O'-WAR IS GIVEN SACKETT

Capper Sheds Blease's Resolution on Pratt With Alacrity.

DOYLE AND ALLEN HIRE ATTORNEYS FOR TRIAL

Formal Charges to Be Completed by Clerk Probably Today.

ALLEN PLAYS TNOTHER TRUMP AS DETECTIVE

Private Has Brand New Case to Be Investigted by District Attorney.

Introduction of a resolution in the Senate by Senator Cole L. Blease, of South Carolina, for the suspension of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, unless he restores to duty both Capt. Robert E. Doyle and Private Robert J. Allen, came yesterday coincidentally with the retention of counsel by both suspended policemen.

In the trial of both before the Police Trial Board on charges arising from Allen's public avowal to investigate the United States district attorney's office, which led Doyle to urge the Police Department to forget their "petty animosities" against the private, the Eighth Precinct captain will be represented by Chapman W. Fowler, a close friend. Allen announced last night that he had engaged as his attorney H. Ralph Burton, a promiaent Washington lawyer and general counsel of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Another surprising development of the day was the announcement from a reliable source that Allen today plans to lay before the district attorney charges that a grand jury in Washington in 1928 concurred in a request made by a certain attorney, representing an elderly woman, to allow his client to accept $7,500 in full payment for a $39,300 obligation he said was due from an investment broker in this city, providing the grand jury did not take action.

Complete Charges Today.

Formal charges against both Doyle and Allen probably will be completed today by Harry N. Luckett, chief clerk of the Police Department, in consultation with Assistant Corporation Counsel Stanley DeNeale, regularly assigned to prosecute charges before the Police Trial Board. Luckett, in the charges, is expected to present the letters written by both Doyle and Allen to Maj. Pratt, who suspended them for what he termed improper conduct.

Allen in his letter admitted to Maj. Pratt that he had publicly declared his intention of investigating the district attorney's office. In the report made by Doyle, the latter told the department commander that it is "high time" for officials of the Police Department to forget their "petty animosities" against Allen, who was a member of his command.

Developments in the Senate yesterday at the introduction of the Blease resolution indicated that it would not get far. When Blease, breaking through the tariff debate, finally put his resolution in, it was referred to the Senate District committee. The chairman of that committee, Senator Capper (Republican),

TIDE IS TURNED WITH QUICK AID OF FINANCIERS

CALM VIEW IS TAKEN AT LEADERS' PARLEY

COURAGE RETURNS WHEN SHORTS COVER

Upturn, However, Fails to Restore Losses That Created Hysteria.

New York, Oct. 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The stock markets of the country tottered on the brink of panic today as a prosperous people, gone suddenly hysterical with fear, attempted simultaneously to sell a record-breaking volume of securities for whatever they would bring.

The result was a financial nightmare, comparable to nothing ever before experienced in Wall street. It rocked the financial district to its foundations, hopelessly overwhelmed its mechanical facilities, chilled its human blood wit' stark terror.

In a society built largely on confidence, with real wealth expressed more or less inaccurately by pieces of paper, the entire fabric of economic stability threatened to come toppling down.

Into the frantic hands of a thousand brokers on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange poured the selling orders of the world. It was sell, sell, sell—hour after desperate hour until 1:30 p. m.

Bankers Turn Tide.

Then, in as dramatic a maneuver as financial history has ever known, the tide was magicaly turned by the organized power of the city's largest banking interests.

With pirces at their worst and a buzz of rumors turning ordinarily sane men silly, a quiet group of financiers gathered in the austere offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., at Wall and Broad streets. They included Thomas W. Lamont, Thomas Cochrane and other Morgan partners; Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank; Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National Bank; W. C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust Co. and others.

No formal statement was issued. To waiting newspapermen Lamont spoke words of reassurance—words dignified and restrained, expressing the calm

GOVERNMENT CALM IN STOCK RAMPAGE

Commerce Agencies Find No Need for Action; Reserve Board Meets Twice.

GENERAL BUSINESS SAFE

(Associated Press.)

In the face of yesterday's astounding overturn in stock markets, Government agencies in touch with banking and business followed developments closely but found necessity neither for action nor for public statement.

Two sessions of the Federal Reserve Bank Board were held, Secretary Mellon attending, and with participants in telephone communication with New York and other centers. The board adjourned, however, without altering rediscount rates or otherwise moving to deal with the situation. In the Senate, the events occasioned renewed mention of proposals by Senator King (Democrat), Utah, to investigate the credit influence on stock market affairs, but dealings with it were not expected before December at the regular session.

In some quarters, the board's action in adjourning without change of the rediscount rates was viewed as an indication either than the crisis was over or that the Government supervisors of banking credit consider the stock market situation as not impinging on the country's general business structure.

Secretary Mellon withheld any statement, but a summary of Treasury officials' views was particularly marked in separating the stock market from consideration in general business studies.

The business of the country in producing and distributing commodities

Four Workmen Killed In Plunge of 160 Feet

Winona, Minn., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Four steel workers fell 160 feet to death today from the top of a tank under construction here. A ladder gave way, plunging them to the ground. The dead are Henry Ellis, La Plata, Mo.; Wayne R. Wetzel, Oklahoma; F. L. Taylor, Grinnell, Iowa, and Fred Compton, Winterset, Iowa.

All were employed by the Pittsburgh Des Moines Steel Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, contractors who were building the new tank, which was to have been completed tomorrow.

WALL STREET HUMS WITH NIGHT TOILERS

CANYON LIGHTS SHINING

New York, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Wall street, normally as silent and deserted after dark as Trinity Church Graveyard, which faces it, was alive with workers and ablaze with light tonight.

In every brokerage office the order had gone down the line that every employe, from junior partners to switchboard girls and messenger boys, must be prepared to work all night, so that the tangled affairs of the financial sector, resulting from the busiest day of trading in the street's history, might be set in order before the beginning of another day on the stock exchange.

Restaurants in the Wall street district which ordinarily are open only six hours a day and serve no meal but lunch to workers in the brokers' offices, hurried in extra stocks of food this afternoon and got ready to serve and send out meals until midnight or later to the more than 50,000 employes kept overtime at their desks.

The standing-room-only sign went out at all the hotels along the Brooklyn waterfront across the East River, soon after midafternoon. Brokers rented whole floors in order that their clerks might get, sometime before 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, an hour or two of hurried sleep One hotel put an extra 100 beds and cots in hallways and parlors to help house those too busy to go home.

Men who have lived and worked in Wall street all their lives said more people thronged today to the intersection of Broad and Wall streets, bounded by the Stock Exchange, the Morgan Bank and the Subtreasury, than ever before.

Most of them, merely curious newspaper and motion picture cameramen who sought places of vantage about the tumultuous corner, were joined by dozens of amateur camera clickers taking views of the extraordinary scene, and occupants of offices in the neighborhood were swarmed upon by visitors asking permission to stand in the windows and look down upon the eddying crowds.

A hundred uniformed police, mounted and afoot, were focussed in the district to keep the crowds moving, and to keep them from clogging the street corners and the broad steps

BROKERS COLLAPSE ON EXCHANGE FLOOR

Uproar Heard for Blocks, Attracting Big Crowd to Building.

TUMULT GREATEST IN SECURITY HISTORY

Bears Reap Millions While Scores of Issues Drop $15 to $70 Each.

New York, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The remarkable era of avid public speculation in stocks which has swept over the country during the past five years came to a climax today in the most terrifying stampede of selling ever experienced on the New York Stock Exchange and other leading security markets.

Not since the war panic which resulted in closing the exchange for seventeen weeks in 1914 has Wall street seen such a dark and trying day, and never in financial history have security markets been thrown into such a tumult.

The stock market in Buffalo was unable to face the situation and trading was suspended, but the New York Stock and Curb Exchanges saw the orders through, although several brokers collapsed and had to be helped from the trading floors.

Bankers Meet Hurridly.

By early afternoon, the situation became so grave that a hurried meeting of leading bankers was called at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., and a reassuring statement issued from the conference by Thomas W. Lamont, one of the Morgan partners, finally checked the sickening drop of stock prices and saved the market from a complete impasse.

Scores of important stocks tumbled from $15 to $70 a share, paper values vanishing at the rate of tens of millions of dollars a minute, until mid afternoon, when the bankers' statement prompted large operators who were reaping millions in selling the market short, to cover their commitments, and prices of many issues rebounded substantially.

Total sales on the stock exchange reached the amazing figure of 12,894,650 shares, surpassing by more than 50 per cent the previous record of 8,246,740 reached on March 26. The ticker quotation service fell hours behind transactions, and traders who were unable to get quotations from the floor through their brokers proceeded blindly, save at intervals when a few stock quotations were sent out through the bond market tickers.

Standard Stocks Also Go.

Standard dividend-paying stocks were thrown overboard along with the more speculative issues. Stocks were sold for what they would bring in blocks of from 1,000 to 150,000 shares. Traders on the floor of the stock exchange shrieked and bowled their offers for desperate minutes before they found takers.

Such a roar arose from the stock exchange floor that it could be heard for blocks up and down Broad and Wall streets. Speculators and sightseers poured in Wall street in such volume that extra traffic police were required to handle them, and the stock exchange gallery, to which spectators are admitted only upon recommendation of a partner in a mem-

52 Die in Lake Storm; Property Loss Huge

Two Vessels Sunk, Four Grounded in Three-Day Battering by Gale-Whipped Waves; Property Damage to Run Into Millions.

Chicago, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—With the lashing storm which whipped at the Great Lakes region for three days abated today, the curtain was lifted on the fate of at least six lake vessels—one, with 52 persons aboard, was at the bottom of Lake Michigan; another sank in Lake Erie and four were grounded.

In addition battered wreckage along lake shore lines indicated property loss that is expected to run into many millions of dollars.

Bodies and wreckage of the car ferry Milwaukee, caught in the storm as it proceeded from Milwaukee toward Grand Haven, Mich., were found today near Kenosha, Wis. They confirmed the belief that the vessel was sunk and gave rise to the fear that all 52 on board were lost.

Persons aboard other distressed vessels either were rescued or reported safe

The freighter Donaldson, overdue at Superior Wis., since Tuesday, arrived there today from Apostle Islands, where it had put in to escape the fury of the storm.

The old wooden freighter H. J. Neasen went to pieces last night on a sand bar off Leamington, Ontario. Its crew of thirteen was rescued. The sand sucker C. W. Caldwell was grounded only 5 miles away, near Point Pelee Lignt. Its crew also was safe.

Twenty-three persons were rescued from the grounded steamer Maple Court, held fast on Magnetic Reef, near Cockburn Island, in upper Lake Huron, by coast guards early today. The ore carrier William B. Pilkey was stranded off Gravel Island, near Detour.

Damage to Chicago breakwaters, boulevard systems and parks was estimated tonight in excess of $2,000,000, with private property loss running $1,000,000 or more. Wisconsin's shore-line loss will amount to more than $1,000,000, it was reported. Green Bay suffered damage approximating $100,000 from flood, and the lashing waves damaged Menominee Harbor to the extent of $75,000. The loss in upper Michigan was estimated at $100,000.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Mute evidence of the fate which befell between 50 and 57 of their mates, the life-belted bodies of two of the crew of the Grand Trunk car ferry Milwaukee, which sank in Lake Michigan, probably Tuesday night, were taken from the lake today.

The motor ship Steel Chemist picked up the bodies 11 miles off Kenosha and 5 miles further out in the lake, the white pilot house, with "Milwaukee" printed on it. The life belts on the bodies bore the name "Milwaukee."

A watch on one of the bodies stopped at 9:35, indicating that the ferry went down Tuesday night, six hours after it steamed out of the

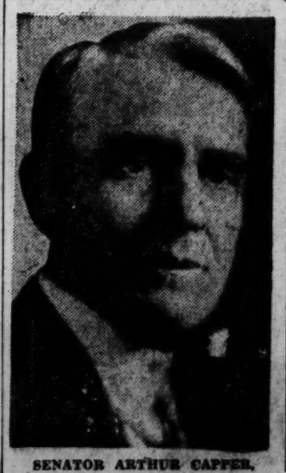
Board Gets Partial Blame For School Crowding Here



SENATOR ARTHUR CAPPER.

Capper Says Estimates of Growth Were Faulty; Favors More Funds.

Failure of school officials to estimate accurately the annual increase in the number of pupils was blamed in part for the shortage of class rooms and facilities here, in a statement issued yesterday by Chairman Capper, of the Senate District committee.

Capper's statement was in answer to statements contained in a letter received by him the day before from Dr. Charles F. Carusi, president of the Board of Education, in which Carusi blamed the delay in the five-year school building program to the failure of Congress to make the necessary appropriations.

"It is quite evident," Capper said, "from the information furnished by Dr. Carusi, that one reason the Na-ter brokerage firm, was closed to the public.

The torrent of selling orders poured into the market over the congested private wire systems of commission houses from all cities of the country, over telephone and telegraph wires, and came from abroad by cable, radio, and transatlantic telephone. Foreign security markets and domestic and foreign commodity markets broke sharply in sympathy with the stock exchange and intensified the terror of speculators.

Turning Point Follows Parley.

The turning point of the day came soon after the heads of the three largest banks of the country were observed, singly, hastening up the steps of the sober, grey stone House of Morgan, at the corner of Broad and Wall streets, during the early afternoon.

Shortly Thomas L. Lamont, senior Morgan partner, consented to see reporters. He stated that the conference, purely informal, had found that no financial house had been placed in critical circumstances. He added:

"We consider the situation on the floor of the stock exchange this morning a technical one rather than a fundamental one, and that it will result in betterment."

The bank heads included Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank; W. C. Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust Co., and A. H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National Bank, three institutions having total resources of more than $5,000,000. Mitchell, who had stated after the bad break in the market Monday that fundamental conditions were sound and that many stocks had probably dropped to unreasonable levels, declared that he still stood by that position.

"I still see nothing to worry about," he added.

Commission Men Meet.

After the close of the market, Col. J. W. Prentice, senior resident partner of Hornblower & Weeks, called a conference of partners of 30 leading commission houses, whose aggregate business accounts for about 75 per cent of the trading on the stock exchange.

Although no formal statement was issued after the close of the conference, the consensus of opinion was informally summarized in words similar to those used by Lamont. Also, the feeling was generally expressed that today's low prices would be the bottom levels for some time to come, that a tremendous amount of stock has passed from weak to strong hands, and that the market was in a much stronger position than it was six weeks ago, or one week ago.

It was stated that while nearly 13,000,000 shares were sold, as many were bought, and the strong character of the buying handled by these houses was described as impressive.

U. S. Steel Leads Recovery.

The final checking of the drop in prices came during the early afternoon, and presented one of the most dramatic moments in the history of the New York Stock Exchange. The movements of United States Steel common have long been watched as a barometer of the market, and this old time favorite was again the field marshal of the movement.

The issue had dropped to $193.50 a share, a loss of $10.50 from the previous day's close, and contrasting with a record high price reached a few weeks ago of $261.75. Suddenly the stock began to climb, a quarter of a point at a time. A long and exultant cheer arose from the floor and there was a rush of traders toward Post No. 2, famous as the headquarters of transactions in Steel common. Cheers arose again and again, as the specialist in Steel clicked off successive gains of a quarter of a point. The old time leader ended the session at $206 a share, a gain of $2 over yesterday.

Stampede Seen as Climax.

The stampede of selling was generally regarded by market observers as an unavoidable climax of the headlong decline which has been gaining momentum since stocks generally reached their record high levels in early September. The situation has been aggravated by a glutting of the securities market by hundreds of millions of dollars worth of new issues of securities, a moderate reaction in business activity from the record levels of recent months and heavy liquidation of stocks held by foreign investors resulting from unsettlement of the London Stock Exchange.

Veterans in Wall street have occasionally issued warnings that stock prices have a fundamental tendency to drop much more rapidly than they rise, and that the record bull markets of the past two years must eventually result in such a drastic collapse of prices as might surpass imagination.

A rapid decline in stock prices, like a stone rolling down hill, rapidly gains momentum, if left to take its course, owing largely to certain technical features of stock trading. As stocks decline, wary holders place stop loss orders a few points under current quotations. The more rapidly the decline progresses, the more rapidly these stop loss orders grow, and as a batch of selling orders at a certain level is executed, it dumps stock on the market in a manner tending to depress the price level to the next batch of stop loss orders.

Margin Accounts Unloaded.

Even more important is the matter of margin calls. A decline in prices results in calls upon brokers' customers trading on margin for more and more funds to protect the broker from loss. For a time traders meet these requests, but, as the decline progresses, an increasing number are unable to, and the brokers sell out the account. Today prices dropped so fast that many brokers rushed to unload weak margin accounts without even waiting for their customers to put up more funds, as values disappeared so fast that time lost might have been very costly.

Another factor contributing to the acceleration of the decline is the investment holder of stock. He is not concerned with ordinary day-to-day fluctuations, particularly in such markets as have been experienced for some time until recently, as stocks bought a year or more ago have generally been selling far above purchase prices. If such holders of stock see their paper profits shrink day after day, however, they are inclined to feel that they should unload for what profit they have left.

A combination of these factors, despite a little change in fundamental economic conditions, may eventually sweep a stock market in a veritable panic of selling.

Reserve Report Watched.

The weekly meeting of the directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank after the close of the market was watched with great interest by Wall street, as well as a simultaneous conference of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington, which was attended by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. The New York directors made no announcement, either regarding the 6 per cent rediscount rate, put up to that level from 5 per cent early in August, or regarding the financial situation.

The weekly Federal Reserve brokerage loan figures published after the close of the market, were more favorable than had been expected, showing a decline of $167,000,000 to a total of $6,634,000,000, as contrasted with the high record of $6,804,000,000 reported as of October 2, and with $4,772,000,060 a year ago. The week's figures, however, cover only the transactions for the seven-day period ended Tuesday.

Credit Market Flooded.

Stock liquidation was in such volume that the credit market was temporarily flooded. Call money was officially quoted on the stock exchange floor as low at 5 per cent, and was being offered outside by money brokers as low as 2 per cent, compared with the 20 per cent rate reached last March.

The day's business news was generally favorable. Bethlehem Steel reported but a slight increase in earnings from the record peace time earnings of the previous quarter. General Motors reported a substantial decline in earnings for the third quarter, but this had long been forshadowed by the curtailment of automobile production. Several earnings statements making their appearance during the day showed substantial increases.

Trading on the New York Curb Exchange was also spectacular and the total volume was 6,148,300 shares, a new high record. It compared with the previous record of 3,713,400 shares, established on Monday. Sales of Cities Service common broke the mark for any one issue, reaching 1,151,900 shares.

French Deputy Asserts He Is to eB Asked to Form Government.

Paris, Oct. 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The figure of Edouard Daladier, pronounced radical, stands silhoueted tonight against the confused French political background as a possible successor to Premier Aristide Briand, wh owas unexpectedly toppled from power Tuesday night.

The short, heavy-set deputy from Orange, who for a year has dominated the councils of the Radical Socialist party, the strongest single group in the Chamber of Deputies, has an appointment to see President Gaston Doumergue at 11:40 a. m. tomorrow. Reached by telephone tonight at Rheims where his party's congress is in progress, he declared that he would be asked to form a government and that he would make the effort to do so.

Daladier will go to the meeting with the President of France with the added prestige of having been unanimously reelected president of his party at today's session of the Rheims congress.

Priest and Four More Doomed in Riot Deaths

Samara, Russia, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Five men, including a priest and two wealthy peasants, were sentenced to death today for murdering two members of the Communist Youth League in a disturbance over the government's grain collecting campaign. It was alleged that the priest incited villagers to kill the youths.

Most of Leading Stocks Above Prices of Year Ago

New York, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The extent of the stock market movement during the last year is indicated by the following table of active stocks with closing prices one year, six months and three months ago, as compared with today's close. In the cases of Radio, General Motors and American International, in which there have been increases in capitalization during the year, all prices are given on the basis of the amount of stock now outstanding.

EXCHANGES PANICKY IN PRINCIPAL CITIES

Wild Scenes Reported From Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco.

CANADA FEELS SLUMP

Chicago, Oct. 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A selling frenzy approaching a panic gripped the Chicago Stock Exchange today and for the first time on record more than one million shares were traded in.

The total was 1,220,000. No attention was paid by panicky sellers to the merits or investment value of stocks. Blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 were thrown on the market at whatever price they would bring. There were drops of from 5 to 60 points, the latter in Auburn Motors.

The investment trusts and Grigsby-Grunow bore the brunt of the attack and melted away 10 to 15 points. Following New York, the market closed on a rally. All the Insull stocks were hammered to shreds.

Insull Utility, recently at $149 a share, fell from 85 to 65. Then support came and whirled it back to 85. Cities Service fell from 60 to 43, but left off with only a 10-point loss.

Bankers and economists here appeared to look upon the smash as due to a technical condition.

Wheat had another big break and the December option is down to $1.20 a bushel, forty cents a bushel under the price at the time the administration started to help the farmer.

Philadelphia 'Change Panicky.

Philadelphia, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The wild scenes on the New York Stock Exchange were reflected on the Philadelphia Exchange today, where stocks fluctuated in keeping with the wide sweeps in New York. Trading records on the local exchange were broken, total sales running up to 422,029 shares, compared with the former record of 350,251 established November 30, last year.

Prices of local stocks dropped anywhere from 2 to 13 points with more than 35 stocks showing a new low before the afternoon support set in.

The board room was jammed with traders and brokers' offices were crowded with anxious men and women among whom mingled calmer patrons looking for bargains.

Canadian Exchange Hit.

Montreal, Que., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The Montreal Stock Exchange broke this morning on a flood of selling orders, but in the afternoon trading nearly every stock on the list recovered part of the morning losses although in no case did the recovery pull the list up to yesterday's close.

Some of the favorites were off from $2 to $6 at the close of the market. Earlier in the day losses had ranged up to 5. Four hundred and seventy thousand shares were traded in, almost doubling the old record.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—After experiencing one of the worst breaks in months, the Toronto Stock Exchange rallied in the last two hours today and a score of issues, which had suffered losses ranging from 1 to 10 points in the early afternoon, reduced their losses by half before the market closed. The total turnover was near 150,000 shares, a record.

Consternation in San Francisco.

San Francisco, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Consternation ruled the San Francisco securities markets today as the bottom fell out of Eastern exchanges, but subsided gradually as the day wore on, and numerous stocks regained much of their early sharp losses, some even closing higher than yesterday. Trans-American Corporation, giant holding company of the Giannini banking houses, was the storm center, and when support held this stock steady, confidence returned to weaker Western listings.

Trans-America absorbed sales of 226,000, almost half of the 454,000 record turnover on the stock exchange here. In the first hour 137,000 shares changed hands, the price falling off 1½ points, hitting a low for the year at 60½. Under diminishing volume the price rose to the opening, at 62, and remained there steady to the close, off 1 for the day.

Wider fluctuations were scored by other issues, 33 new lows being recorded.

Pacific Lighting in Decline.

The greatest individual decline was 9¾ points, by Pacific Lighting. The rally sent this issue to a net gain at the close however, at 98¾.

Curb trading was more orderly than the stock exchange. Only a few issues wavered uncertainly, chiefly Cities Service, which was hard hit in New York, down nearly 15 points. Cities Service rallied 9, then weakened slightly.

Small oil companies were hard hit, some touching new lows.

FINANCIAL SITUATION SOUND, SAY BANKERS

New York Chiefs Confer at Night and Appear to Be Confident.

ALL FIRMS STAND STORM

New York, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—A conference of New York's leading bankers tonight reached the conclusion that the situation affecting the stock market and general business conditions is fundamentally sound.

The same group of the country's leading banking executives who met this morning in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. assembled once more in the same place at the close of the business day.

"No special significance should be attached to these gatehrings," said one spokesman. "It was merely a case of calling each other by telephone to discuss developments, and suggesting that we might exchange information by conference together."

The outstanding bankers who participated in these conferences were Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City Bank; Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Cahse National; William Potter, president of the Guaranty Trust and Thomas Lamont, senior partner of J. P. Morgan & Co.

It was stated on their behalf that they had inquired directly from stock exchange authorities to determine whether or not any member firms were in difficulties. They were told that none was.

"There is little for bankers to say," it was pointed out after the conference. "As far as we have been able to learn margins have been well maintained."

The bankers feel that although there might have been a considerable volume of distress selling before noon, the vigorous rally that carried many issues far above their lows for the day, indicated that there was little ground for a prolonged state of uneasiness.

Unprecedented Volume Discussed.

The bankers said that their main purpose in coming together had been to discuss special problems arising from the unprecedented volume of trading such as deliveries of stock.

They declined to make any comment that might be interpreted as a prediction of how the market will act in the next few days, and would not discuss reports widely circulated in Wall street today that the banks had thrown their resources together to stem the selling tide.

"You know as well as we do what the stock market will do tomorrow," it was stated. "There was a long upward period and now the trend is downward. That is all. The situation that developed today, however, was due largely to technical conditions of trading. Big air holes appeared in the list and no funds were forthcoming immediately to fill them."

BROKERS' AIDS TOIL THROUGHOUT NIGHT

of the Subtreasury. The force included not only the regular Wall street contingent of the police department, but an emergency squad whose duty it was not only to prevent any sidewalk congestion but to reroute and keep in order the abnormal motor traffic.

Much of the motor congestion was the result of emergency calls from eating places in the neighborhood for quantities of additional foodstuffs.

Those who thronged the curbstones and overflowed onto the narrow pavements saw little of the actual excitement of the day, particularly as visitors were barred soon after midday from the gallery of the exchange, where in the first two hours 700 spectators, including Winston Churchill, had looked down upon the scenes of tumult on the floor.

But if they could not see, they heard. They heard the rumbling, echoing roar that issued along the street, a composite shout from a thousand throats of traders on the stock exchange floor. It was like unorganized rooting at a great football game, save that it never rose and ebbed but continued hour after hour unwaning.

Wild Rumors Circulated.

They heard in the street all manner of mad rumors—that the market was closing at 1 o'clock; that panic reigned on the exchange floor; that "already there have been two suicides;" that everybody who owned a seat on the exchange was on the floor.

They heard newsboys shouting "stock market crashes" and pleading hoarsely with patrons not to stop to read their papers on the spot but to move along so others might get close enough to buy.

The crowd in the street grew greatest at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, as the market closed, and police gave up their efforts to keep the multitude off the Subtreasury steps, but when nothing happened the gathering dispersed.

Crowd Finally Disperses.

An hour later the throng was only the normal, hurrying one, and the gray fellow who has earned himself the nickname of "Bishop of Wall Street" was preaching his usual afternoon sermon to the usual throng of loiterers across from the Morgan Bank. His subject this afternoon was the evils of smoking.

Small merchants and shopkeepers in the financial district heard with no qualms the news that the market was boiling as it had never boiled before, and that the bears were in the saddle. Book dealers and haberdashers along the street say their business is always best when prices are going down, because when the market is rising and everybody has his eyes on big money nobody bothers to buy such cheap things as novels and neckties.

EXCHANGE FLOOR FRENZIED, ORDERLY

Brokers Keep Nerve in Mad Session, Even Finding Time to Joke.

MANY CUSTOMERS SAD

New York, Oct. 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The men of the Stock Exchange kept their nerve in the face of threatened disaster today. There was frenzied excitement on the trading floor, but there was no actual disorder.

The members crowded the clamorous vaulted chamber, 1,100 strong. It was as if the bear market had become a living, visible thing. Some traders stood as if bracing themselves against the gusts of selling orders which drove them about the floor. Their faces were white but they could and did smile as the hands of the great clock moved inexorably above them. The yellow ribbon of film crawled across the face of the enlarged ticker at the south end of the room. It was hours behind and nobody ever glanced at it. Its news was as stale as last year's baseball scores.

In the street outside great crowds eddied about. The tilted caps of mounted policemen rode above the sea of upturned faces.

Rumors of suicide and the terror of national collapse surged through the crowds. The men out of sight behind the gray walls of the exchange paid no heed. Selling orders were thrust into their hands. They raised their faces, rich with expensive Florida tan, and called and called again for buyers who did not come. They dangled slips of paper under each other's noses, like anglers tempting trout.

Brokers Do Not Run.

Fear of failure and perhaps dishonor stood at the shoulder blade of some traders in the morning hours. At 11 a. m. the annunciator boards at the north and south ends of the chamber were almost solid with the figures which summon each broker to his telephone to receive orders from his office. The numbers sent forth a continuous rattling click. At Post No. 4, famous as the cardiac center of trading in General Motors stocks, men stood cheek to jowl yelling and waving their hands. Post No. 2, where Steel stock is handled, was the center of a mild sort of madness.

Yet the floor rules of the stock exchange stood the test. A man may not run, push unduly, curse or go coatless on that floor. Fortunes hung in the balance today, but few men ran. They ducked, dodged and danced in a stiff-legged version of a walk, but they did not run. If they cursed, no man heard them. They all wore their coats.

After 1 p. m. there was a lull in the threatened panic. It was known that financial giants were gathered around a table across Broad street. Men leaned up against the tanquails of the horseshoe enclosures about the trading posts and took stock of their losses and, in some instances, of their gains. They smiled at each other and there was much kidding.

Excitement Mounts at Close.

At 2 p. m. the members girded themselves to finish off the day as best they could. The hands of the clock crawled or raced across its face, depending on which side of the market you were on. At 2:30 p. m. the excitement mounted. Hoarse, barking yells sounded above the rumble of ordinary cries. The messengers skipped and pranced to and from the booths like marionettes. Near the Steel post a man broke loose from the crowd and scrambled for the door. His cravat was awry and he was white to the lips. The phones buzzed frantically.

At 2:57 William R. Crawford, superintendent of the reporters' department and the man who rings the gong that opens and closes the exchange slipped out on the balcony at the south end of the chamber His face was expressionless as he watched the scene at his feet. At 2:59 he picked up the gavel with which he rings the gong. The cries merged into a long, rolling yell. At precisely the right second he smote the gong and its clangor cut through the roaring like a knife.

The men below him shouted and flung up their arms. Clerks threw bits of tape into the air until it was filled with fluttering white paper like Broadway during an official welcome.

Outside in the street the crowd caught up the cry. Men who have seen good days and bad on the street said the cry was one of relief and hope. A bad day was over.

Elderly Woman in Tears.

If there was excitement in the Stock Exchange there was grim tragedy in many of the brokerage offices. Men and women sat in the semidarkened rooms hour after hour, their eyes never leaving the boards where the stock prices were listed. They talked in low tones.

An elderly woman and her daughter sat all day in the front row of the stock boardroom in a downtown office. The older woman wept a little. Her daughter comforted her.

Strangers spoke kind words to each other as they were crowded in elevators.

A great throng gathered at Broad and Wall streets as rumors of the impending market break spread. Guardians of the Stock Exchanse's outer gates turned away hundreds who wanted to go up into the visitors' gallery. This gallery was closed at 1 p. m. after more than 700 persons had visited it, a record number.

The crowd was well behaved and orderly, but the police were taking no chances of disorders. They herded the people about with varying ideas about just what should be done.

Pirates Use Airplane To Loot Black Sea Ship

Bucharest, Roumania, Oce. 24 (A.P.).—A dispatch from Constanza today said that the Greek steamer Euripides had arrived at that Black Sea port completely looted by a pirate ship. The crew said that the pirates worked in silence and that consequently their nationality could not be determined.

The pirate vessel was outfitted in a modern manner, the equipment including a hydroairplane used for scouting.

Wheat Traders Go Frantic As Pit Prices Collapse

Chicago, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The bottom dropped out of the wheat pit today in a scene reminiscent of war-panic days. Frantic traders heaped their holdings of wheat into a market already overflowing with selling orders and, under tremendous pressure, support crumbled and prices dropped 12 cents a bushel below yesterday's closing levels.

By noon the avalanche had spent its force and, with the stock markets rebounding, wheat, too, came back, to finish 4⅜ to 5⅜ cents lower than Wednesday.

The final prices were: December wheat, 1.20¾ to 1.20½; March, 1.28⅛ to 1.28⅜, and May, 1.31¼ to 1.31½.

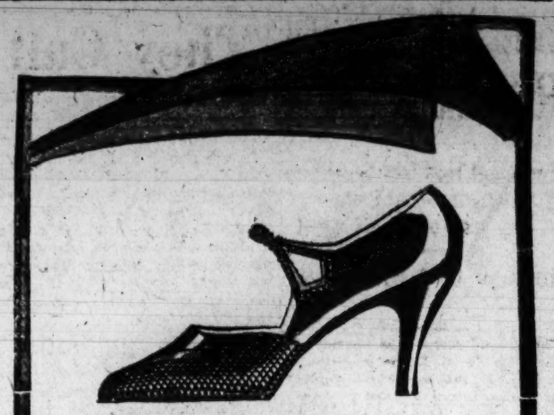
Other gains were strong in contrast, corn recovering from a small decline to end ¾ to 1⅛ cents higher and oats losing only ¼ to ½ cent.

The wheat pit was a maelstrom of panic as millions of bushels were dumped. Traders swarmed, shouted and gesticulated wildly in their effort to unload on the falling market. The pace was too fast to execute stop-loss orders. The flying hands and fingers that signal bids and sales on fluctuations of an eighth or a quarter cent each day were talking of half cents and cents today, and the turn of a finger scaled $1,000,000 from the wheat crop.

The break started early in the day with a drop of 5 cents. Then as the stock market break grew in proportions, embarrassed traders turned loose their offerings at any price and perspiring clerks chalked down the tobogganing quotations on the big board, a cent, a half cent and another cent—as fast at they could write. The second hour saw the bottom reached, the bottom for the day and the year. December wheat touched $1.13¾, March $1.21¼ and May $1.24½.

Then came the rebound. Commission houses buying for the East and for Winnipeg were credited with turning the tide and it came in with a rush, forcing quick short covering. More than 7 cents of the early loss was wiped out.

The ordinary day's run of news was disregarded entirely in the stampede. Liverpool was heavy, Argentina offerings were liberal and export demand was slack. But the stock market situation was paramount in the minds of the traders, and they scrambled to protect marginal accounts in grain and securities marts. There was a good volume of buying on the down grade, but it lent only a momentary check to the flood until May wheat hit its lowest mark, 12⅛ cents under Tuesday.



The silhouette idea has increased its scope to include footwear. This trim strap effect is a notable contribution to a popular vogue. In black or brown kid, trimmed with genuine lizard.

DAWES IS SELECTED FOR LONDON PARLEY

President Has Decided Upon Envoy to Great Britain as Conferee.

NOW IN U. S. ON LEAVE

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover has decided to name Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to Great Britain, as a fourth member of the American delegation to the London naval limitation conference.

Ambassador Dawes is now in this country on leave of absence and is expected to come to Washington for conferences with the President and Secretary Stimson before returning to his post. Stimson will be the chairman of the American delegation.

The President will name either one or two others to the delegation, but has yet to select them. The American commission probably will be composed of six members, particularly if the British plan of six delegates goes through.

Dominions to Have Delegates.

Under the present arrangement of the British foreign office, as outlined by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain would have one delegate and there would be one each for the Irish Free State, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa.

Since the President has selected two senators as delegates—Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and Reed, of Pennsylvania, a member of the foreign relations committee—it is not expected that he will name additional members of the Senate.

Although he has appointed a Democrat to the commission, Hoover does not regard the question of naval limitation as political and it is indicated that the additional selections he will make will not be based upon party affiliations.

Gibson Selection Unlikely.

It is unlikely that Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, who headed the American delegations at both the 1927 tripartite conference and the recent meeting of the League of Nations preparatory commission, will be selected as a delegate. It is the intention, however, to have Ambassador Gibson at London during the conference in an advisory capacity. He acted in this role throughout the negotiations between Ambassador Dawes and Prime Minister MacDonald preceding the visit of the British statesman to the United States.

Admiral William V. Pratt, commander in chief of the United States fleet, and Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, will head the naval advisers at London. Both attended the Civic Leaders Striving for Peace in Kansas City Price Dispute.

Kansas City, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—With peace discussions promised in the near future by civic leaders, sympathizers of striking Kansas City milk producers today continued their milk dumping warfare, undaunted by the arrest yesterday of three of their number.

A band of twenty men in motor cars today built a barricade across a highway near Belton Mo., halted a truck and dumped 150 gallons of milk consigned to a pasteurzation plant.

The three farmers arrested yesterday pleaded not guilty to charges of assault to do bodily harm and were released on bond of $1,500 each this afternoon. All three men live near Lone Jack, Mo. Attitude of persons in the rural sections largely is favorable to the strikers, who originally demanded an increase of 6 cents a gallon on the wholesale price for the products. Because of this situation deputy sheriffs are experiencing difficulties in preventing sabotage.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

FIERY Cole L. Blease, of South Carolina, characteristically put his finger on a very curious angle to the Democratic-Progressive coalition when he told why his Democratic colleagues, on the convening of this session, had not been willing to utilize the combined strength of the two groups to seize control of the Senate organization, name the chairman, dominate the committees and run the show.

"I was told," he said, "not to trust the Progressives, that they could not be trusted; that I was making a mistake in advising making a coalition with them and taking charge of the Senate. Some of the remarks would not be very complimentary if I were to repeat them.

"Yes, the Democratic party is defeated, and she always will be unless she changes her leadership. Why should we come here at one time in a coalition and at another time refuse to carry it out? Why should we switch like a horse's tail from one side to the other? I am tired of it I am absolutely disgusted with it. The people of this country are disgusted with it."

• • • •

ACTUALLY the strategy of the Democratic leaders has changed several times during the progress of the present fight. It has been changed very largely as a result of successes. There was no thought of a Democratic-Progressive coalition in the House. In fact it was generally predicted by Democrats after the bill passed the House that it would be much "worse" when it emerged from the Senate.

Also, at the time Mr. Blease was urging that a coalition take control of the Senate organization, the Democratic leaders wanted the Republicans to take the responsibility for whatever should be passed. Their thought was to make campaign material of the legislative "outrages" that would come to pass.

With the development of strength in the coalition, there came first the desire to kill the bill, and eventually the desire to write a new bill that instead of increasing would reduce the rates in the present law. This, with the administrative changes, including depriving the President of his present power under the flexible provision, would, they think, make a splendid issue.

• • • •

MR. BLEASE regards this as sheer folly. What's the use of wasting time, he wants to know, if the President will veto the result? If they succeed in making the bill "better" than existing law from their standpoint, he insists, the President will not approve it.

Democratic leaders rejected Senator Blease's advice to seize control of the Senate organization, because they remember with bitterness what happened after the coalition of 1922. It neither won them the next congressional election nor the Presidency in 1924. La Follette piled up a big labor vote in the cities, even carrying Cleveland, but he obtained electoral votes only in his own State, Wisconsin. He did not carry a single one of the corn belt States. So that the agrarian revolt, even when added to the "iniquities" of the 1922 tariff bill, did not benefit the Democrats.

Hence their early reluctance in the present tariff fight. But now their objective has changed entirely.

• • • •

"CAN you win an election by virtue of having defeated a tariff bill?" I asked one of the more cynical Democratic leaders.

"Perhaps not," he replied, "but look what we are doing to the Republican party! We are splitting it wider apart than it was in 1912."

The real question confronting the Democratic leaders is whether they can take advantage of this split. As Mr. Blease pointed out, they do not trust the Progressives. The original strategy was to scream to the country while the Republicans forced a "wicked" tariff bill on them. Then, with that bill a law, they could blame the cost of living on it, and capitalize every advancing price.

Now, with the Democratic-Progressive coalition in the saddle, they confidently expect to be able to revise the bill to suit themselves, or else kill it altogether.

GOVERNMENT AGENCIES TAKE NO ACTION ON MARKET CRASH

was specifically declared to be on a sound economic basis, in official view, without any sign of inflation of commodity prices, and with few spots of subnormal prosperity. Indices of several sorts were cited as evidence of this, though on the other hand it was repeated that the stock markets had for months been in a speculative state utterly beyond normal influences.

It was said, however, that stock market situations ordinarily corrected themselves, and that with sound banking and with the stable operation of the Federal Reserve system, action and reaction within security markets could be expected to confine themselves to this zone. It was repeated that all experience had pointed to the coming of the present sort of situation, and that necessary precautions had been taken by all credit institutions months ago.

Grosvenor Jones Optimistic.

It was intimated that if this view proved to be in accordance with the facts, the general public would find little reaction from the market situation, and the conduct of government, even in the matter of anticipated tax reductions, would go on in the fiscal branches in undisturbed fashion.

Though Secretary Lamont was absent from the Commerce Department, Grosvenor M. Jones, chief of the finance division of that Government branch, expressed the opinion that general business would find itself free from market involvements. He added that European conditions, in many respects, were a guarantee of the maintenance of active foreign trade which has been a factor in American markets.

Though the stock market price falls spread quickly to the commodity field, the newly created Federal Farm Loan Board did not find it necessary to intervene further than it has done previously.

Cotton Less Affected.

Cotton prices on exchange markets, to the support of which the board moved early this week, were less affected than some other commodities.

It was clearly indicated that the first possible Government action bearing in any way on the markets lay in the province of the Reserve Board, which controls the level of rediscount rates in all the regional banks. The raising of the New York rediscount rate to 6 per cent last summer was regarded as more or less an accompaniment of the speculative situation and the increased credit demands for carrying stocks on margin. Yesterday the exchanges between the board and representatives of the New York bank over long-distance telephone were frequent, and it is believed that the Washington authorities were in readiness to approve any suggestion made by banking leaders on the ground.

Money Rate Not Factor.

The board's most recent statements, including the weekly summary late yesterday of brokers' loans, which showed one of the sharpest contracts recently registered, have noted that money rates or the possibility of obtaining loans were not a factor in market performance.

An indirect bearing on the situation was the announcement yesterday by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, a former Secretary of the Treasury, that he intended to press as an amendment to the tariff bills his proposals that sales of stock made on exchanges within 60 days of original purchase should be subjected to a 5 per cent tax. He prepared the outlines of his statute on the point last summer, during periods when increasing brokers' loans and Reserve Board policy toward them was under general discussion.

Nothing to Be Done Here.

Chairman Norbeck, of the Senate banking committee, which now has the King resolution, announced he favored the inquiry when the opportunity affords.

Listening carefully to reports throughout the day from the wild market operations, members of the Senate generally agreed that there was nothing to be done about it in Washington.

Senator Glass remarked, "Let Mitchell fix it; he brought it about." He referred to Charles E. Mtchell, president of the National City Bank.

The Virginian has contended that Mitchell defied the Federal Reserve Board last spring in offering money to the call market when the rate jumped to a new high figure. He once asked that Mitchell be removed from councils of the Federal Reserve Board.

"Inevitable," Says Edge.

Senator Edge, of New Jersey, the ranking Republican on the banking committee, said: "It is an unfortunate method of adjustment, to cost thousands of persons their fortunes but it seems to have been inevitable."

"It seems that the main difficulties were over speculation and the indefensible increases in brokers' loans," he continued. "Off hand, it seems impossible to place the responsibility in any particular quarter. Congress can't pass laws to prevent people spending their money. Of course, there are methods to regulate and curb overloaning where the Government has the authority."

Senator Norbeck observed that "it is unfortunate it didn't come earlier."

Fletcher for Inquiry.

Senator Fletcher, of Florida, the ranking Democrat on the banking committee, also is on record in favor of a general investigation into the national financial situation as the best means of affording an opportunity to protect all parties interested.

Senator King said in a statement that in his opinion "When Congress meets in December it will make a searching investigation into our financial system, including the question of credit, the operation of the Federal Reserve System, the field in which investment trusts are operating, the conduct of the New York Stock Exchange and generally those matters which so vitally affect the welfare and prosperity of the people."

Trolley, Auto Crash; Two Women Injured

Two women were injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding and a Washington Railway & Electric Co. street car crashed at Connecticut avenue and H street northwest.

The injured, Mrs. Mary R. Slocum, 65 years old, of 2131 R street northwest, and Miss Virginia Hunter, 70, of the Grafton Hotel, were treated by Dr. I. Rutkoski for minor bruises, lacerations and shock, and their conditions were reported not serious. The automobile, owned by Mrs. Slocum, was driven by Charles King, of the R street address. The street car was in charge of Motorman D. N. Oliver, 22, of 1526 A street northeast, and Conductor O. O. Loving, of 24 Fourteenth street northeast.

BANKERS TURN TIDE AS STOCKS CRASH

SOME CONFIDENCE KEPT

views of men who refused to encourage panic by publicly recognizing it.

Simple Orders Are Given.

Behind the scenes a few simple orders were given, potent in the concentrated force of the money they represented.

On the floor of the stock exchange Rhichard Whitney, of Richard Whitney & Co., a "Morgan broker" and brother of a Morgan partner, walked over to the post at which United States Steel is traded.

"Two hundred and five for 25,000 steel!" he shouted.

And 205 it was for a stock which a moment before had been 190 bid.

He and others similarly bid up the prices of various pivotal issues. American Can, which had gyrated dizzily from 156 down to 131 and back to 40, rebounded 23 points in a single leap to 63. Montgomery Ward spurted 12 points; Radio, 10; Union Carbide, 10; Westinghouse, 15; American Telephone, 18; General Electric, 20.

The news tickers flashed the cheering word, "Steel 205 bid." The recovery was sharper, although less extensive, than the preceding decline. The ebbing courage of Wall street stiffened. Hesitant investors, anxious to obtain bargains but fearful of disaster, took the cue and plunged in.

The bear contingent, literally frightened at the success of its own destructive tactics, decided in unison to cover short contracts. Traders seeking a quick turn climbed aboard the speculative bandwagon.

On all sides word sped that the financial powers that be regarded the storm as over, were determined to see to it that it was over. However, this may be, the consensus of opinion among leading bankers and industrialists this evening was that the deluge of liquidation was essentially a speculative phenomenon, unrelated to the continuing prosperity of business.

Business News Reassuring.

In this connection the head of one of the largest manufacturing corporations informed the Morgan conference that his company had set new records for sales and profits during the past week, and from other business leaders came similarly reassuring reports.

Meanwhile the thousands who handle stock transactions in the packed area at the southern tip of Manhattan had been virtually knocked off their feet by the selling rush, a rush not paralleled even in the panic days of 1907 or in the hectic scenes which accompanied the temporary closing of the Stock Exchange in 1914, incident to the war.

Opening prices were higher, in tremendous activity. For a few minutes it appeared that the bargain hunters, prematurely optimistic after the disorganized, last-hour rout of Wednesday, would snap up all offerings and lift the market back to stability.

12,000,000 Shares Sold.

Transactions for the day amounted to 12,894,600 shares. In the last hour, with the excitement moderating, only 1,464,400 shares changed hands. Against this burden the ticker struggled in futility, spending feverish hours recording transactions which long since had become relatively ancient history.

At 2:50 the ticker was 160 minutes late. It recorded the day's final sale four hours and eight minutes after the close of business.

Identical scenes of confusion prevailed on the New York Curb Exchange, where prices tumbled disastrously in the morning and enjoyed partial recovery in the last hour and a half. Trading there amounted to 6,337,400 shares, a new high record and the tape was 148 minutes late at the close.

At Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Philadelphia, San Francisco and other cities the local disorder was duplicated on a smaller scale. No stock escaped.

London Shares in Excitement.

In London, which received word of the debacle here too late to affect regular trading, street brokers stood in a drenching rain and struggled to execute orders in American shares of international prominence.

For the first time in Wall street's history, a promptly publicized financial disaster attracted crowds rivaling those which flock to fires or scenes of sensational crime. Motion picture camera men thronged the district. At Broad and Wall street hundreds of persons stared somberly at the inscrutable walls of the exchange. Police reserves were called to keep them moving.

They failed to reckon the real extent of the fear which had gripped the public. The countless thousands of inexperienced traders lured to speculate by the bull markets of the last few years had had their first taste of serious trouble. They were concerned only with getting out at any cost.

Values Melt Away.

Under their insistent stream of orders, values melted with a ruthlessness which amazed veteran brokers. Stop-loss orders galore were set off, adding to the havoc. Margins dwindled at a rate suggesting disaster even for commissior firms. In self-defense, which is the cardinal rule of Wall street, thousands of weakened accounts had to be tossed overboard.

Such combined pressure undermined the supports of the entire market structure, sending good, bad and indifferent stocks tumbling down alike. Losses of 10 points were too numerous to excite comment. Various premier issues, sounder intrincically than they have ever been before, lost 20, 25, 35 points. Where the sky had been the limit in the bullish excesses of last summer, there seemed equally little limit to the process of probing bottom.

In the first half hour of trading transactions amounted to the record-breaking total of 1,t.6,300 shares, throwing the quotation tape well behind floor operations. At 1:30 p. m. the turnover had increased to 10,171,900 shares, which in itself was sufficient to exceed the former five-hour record of 8,246,740 shares, established on March 26.

Bratton Favors States Having Surface Rights

(Associated Press.)

Support of President Hoover's proposal to transfer the surface rights of public lands from Federal to State ownership was voiced last night in a radio speech by Senator Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico, who said that continuance of the "present unregulated condition is to invite economic destruction."

Speaking over radio station WMAL, Senator Bratton expressed the opinion that rights to minerals also should be transferred to the States along with the surface rights.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 10 and recessed at 5:50 to 10 today.

Approved an increase to five and one-half cents a pound in the two and one-half cents duty on casein.

Senator King (Democrat, Utah, predicted that his resolution proposing an inquiry into the stock market would be adopted.

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, introduced a bill to create a Federal industrial arts commission to supervise and inquire into the theatrical and motion picture industries.

Secretary of State Stimson told a commerce subcommittee that extension of American coastwise shipping laws to the Philippines would be a grave mistake.

Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, appeared before the lobby investigating committee and told of his activities here in behalf of tariff legislation.

FARM GROUP WINS TARIFF SKIRMISH

Casein Rate Is Increased to 5½ Cents by Vote of 52 to 19.

TWO DEMOCRATS OPPOSE

By the overwhelming vote of 52 to 19 the Senate yesterday approved an increase from 2½ to 5½ cents a pound in the duty on casein and thereby settled the first clear-cut tariff rate issue between agriculture and industry in favor of the farmer.

Casein is produced from powdered skimmed milk and used principally as a glossy coating for highly finished print paper. While the House did not change the existing duty, the Senate finance committee recommended an increase to 3½ cents.

The proposal agreed upon today was a compromise between the committee rate and an 8-cent duty urged by Senator Shortridge, of California, a Republican member of the committee. It was offered by Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, who acquiesced in a suggestion by Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, that he raise his original 5-cent amendment by ½ a cent.

Twenty-seven Democrats and 25 Republicans supported the compromise, while seventeen Republicans and two Democrats voted against it.

Not High Enough for Some.

Some of those voting against the compromise said they did so because they wanted a higher duty, but due to the parliamentary situation could not obtain it unless they first defeated the Blaine amendment. Others voting in the negative contended the proposed committee rate was sufficiently high, while some opposition senators protested against any increase at all.

The two Democrats voting against the compromise were Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Wagner, of New York, the former contending the increase was not justified from the standpoint of the glue manufacturer. The debate developed that 25 per cent of casein production was used to make glue for furniture. Wagner took no part in the debate.

Senators Blaine and Borah led the drive for the proponents of a duty higher than 3½ cents, while Senators Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Gillett, of Massachusetts, both Republicans, opposed an increase on the ground that it would be ruinous to the coated paper manufacturers.

Borah argued that casein was one agricultural item in the tariff bill where an increase in tariff would be effective, as American production was less than consumption. He assailed those who, he said, always fought against higher protection for a farm product on the ground that it would be injurious to an industry using the commodity as a raw material.

Vandenberg Sees Injury.

Blaine calculated 5 cents as a scientific duty based on what he said were actual differences in cost of production in the United States and Argentina, which supplies that part of the domestic demand not met by American dairy farmers.

An 8-cent rate, he argued, would force Argentina to stop making casein and turn to powdered skimmed milk with resultant injury to American cream and cheese producers.

Senator Borah and Senator Howell (Republican), Nebraska, disputed the argument that American processors could not make casein of a quality equal to that of the Argentine. Howell said ten billion pounds of skimmed milk went to waste each year in the United States which could find a market with sufficient protection on casein.

It was impossible to help the farmer by destroying his ultimate consumer, said Vandenberg, whose State produces 25 per cent of the American coated paper output. He contended the only possible relief the farmer could get by a higher casein duty was "relief from 75 per cent of his consuming market at a minimum."

For every 1-cent increase in the duty, he added, the cost of producing coated paper would jump $1.20 a ton. These figures were disputed by Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, who advocated a 6-cent tariff as a minimum.

Five other rates in the chemical schedule were approved before a recess was taken, all without record votes. One, by Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, would cut the duty on carbon tetrachloride from 2½ to 1 cent a pound. The House made no change in this duty, but the finance committee reduced it to 2 cents. This is a highly volatile liquid used as a solvent and as a fire extinguisher.

As a result of this change the duty on chloroform, which the committee proposed to cut from 6 to 5 cents a pound, was reduced to 4 cents.

Dye Fight Expected Today.

The rate on the two organic solvents known as tetrachloroethane and trichlorothylene was reduced to 25 per cent, as recommended by the committee, from the existing and House rate of 35 per cent.

Two other committee amendments approved would place crude chicle, now dutiable at 10 cents a pound, on the free list, and make refined chicle dutiable at 5 cents a pound instead of 15 as at present.

The important dye paragraphs on which a stiff contest is in sight were passed over until today. Opponents of these duties are expected to contest retention in these paragraphs of the method of basing dye rates on American valuation.

PRESIDENT RETURNS SAFELY FROM TRIP

Cold and Rain Have Little Effect on Hoover and First Lady.

REGRET BLAST FATALITY

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was safely back in the White House last night, apparently in excellent physical condition in spite of his strenuous four-day trip in the Middle West.

The continual inclement weather and repeated public appearance in cold and sometimes driving rain seemed to have had no adverse effect on either the President or Mrs. Hoover. The former went immediately to his office upon return to catch up on official business that had accumulated while he was away.

The trip was used by the President to enunciate a program for developing an arterial inland waterway system which is to include improvement of the principal rivers, harbors and canals and a route to the sea via the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence. This program, to cost perhaps several hundred million dollars, was announced at Louisville after a river trip down the Ohio as part of the celebration commemorating the completion of the river's canalization.

Both the President and Mrs. Hoover were greatly distressed by the death of a young national guardsmen at Madison, Ind., from wounds sustained in a premature explosion of gunpowder while a presidential salute was being fired there. The President sent a telegram to the parents of the young man expressing regret of himself and Mrs. Hoover that this accident should have happened and another message to the Mayor of Madison expressing regret at the injury of three other guardsmen.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad last night gave out the following statement:

"Press dispatches from New Albany, Ind., and Louisville, Ky., state that an automobile was placed on the crossing immediately ahead of President Hoover's special train and that the train was halted 18 minutes and Secret Service men and railroad detectives started an investigation which resulted, several hours later in arrests. This is in error. The facts are as follows: The automobile was off the track an hour before the President's special left Louisville and no one on that train knew of the occurrence. At 9 p. m. (Central time) October 23, George Weir, a farmer, near Jeffersonville, Ind., discovered an old automobile on a road about 5 miles north of New Albany, Ind., on the Louisville subdivision.

"He tried to push the car off the track, but was unable to do so. He then discovered that the ignition was unlocked and he got in the car and drove it off the crossing, after which he reported the matter to the county sheriff.

"Train Master Higginbotham, that territory, together with Lieut. Bierman and Patrolman McGurfy, of our police force, on train 56, got off at the point where the automobile was found and started investigation, which resulted in the arrest of two Negroes, Young E. Wright and Charles W. Burlock, one of whom was the owner of the car. They confessed that the car was left on the track for the purpose of being destroyed by train in order that they might collect insurance and avoid a payment due today on the car. They were turned over to Federal authorities."

Auto Crash Death Blamed on Victim

Hyattsville Coroner's Jury Renders Verdict Driver Was Careless.

A coroner's jury at Hyattsville last night returned a verdict that Reginald Shepherd, colored, 20 years old, of Decatur street near Fifth street northeast, came to his death early Monday morning in an automobile crash on the Baltimore boulevard near Berwyn, Md., through his own negligence.

Shepherd received fatal injuries when the machine he was driving overturned three times after scraping fenders with a car operated by George Dougherty, of Fairlawn avenue near Twenty-second street southeast.

Dougherty is to appear in the Prince Georges County Police Court at Hyattsville Wednesday to answer charges of reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident. He is at liberty on $1,500 bond.

At the coroner's inquest Dougherty testified that he did not know he had collided with the other car until he heard the machine overturning. Justice of the Peace H. J. Moffat conducted the inquest.

52 MEN ARE LOST IN SINKING OF CAR FERRY; ONE BODY FOUND

Kinnickinnic River, with 27 loaded freight cars aboard, bound for Grand Haven, Mich. Capt. Robert McKay, Grand Haven, veteran skipper of the Grand Trunk fleet, was in command.

Sailed in Face of Gale.

The Milwaukee sailed in face of a violent gale, which some marine men described as the worst in the last sixteen years.

An investigation into the disaster, the largest on Lake Michigan in 49 years, will be made immediately, Capt. W. A. Collins, Federal steamboat inspector here, said tonight. In 1880 the Alpana sank in midlake with loss of more than 100 lives.

Exactly what happened to the Milwaukee probably will never be known. The ferries are built with the stern end open above the main deck. There is an "apron" which opens and closes, thus permitting railroad cars to be switched onto the four railroad tracks running the length of the main deck.

Marine men here were of the opinion that the Milwaukee, which was 338 feet long and 56 feet wide, with a gross tonnage of 2,983, foundered before it was 25 miles out into the lake. They said it was probable that the 27 freight cars were torn from their moorings. The weight of the shifting cars likely centered on one side of the ship, tipping it just as the boat was caught in the trough of the waves. Once on her beams end, it is believed she went down like a shot, the water pouring into the open stern end.

Number In Crew Uncertain.

It is not definitely known how many men were aboard. Federal regulations provided that the Milwaukee carry a crew of 50. The pay roll of October 16 shows 59 although some of these men are known not to have been on the boat. Whether substitutes for these 3 were aboard, Grand Trunk officials were unable to say.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Two more bodies from the ill-fated car ferry Milwaukee, which sank in Lake Michigan with all hands, were recovered 10 miles off shore tonight by coast guardsmen. Neither could be identified. In the pocket of one was a bank book of the Grand Haven (Mich.) State Bank.

HUMBERT SCORNFUL IN ASSASSIN ATTACK

Heir to Italian Throne Cool in Face of Bullet Fired by Own Countryman.

BRUSSELS MOB FURIOUS

Brussels, Belgium, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—On the day of the official announcement of his engagement to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, Crown Prince Humbert of Italy narrowly escaped death from the bullet of a political assassin from his own country.

As the prince was placing a wreath on the tomb of the Belgian Unknown Soldier this morning, a shot was fired at him. It went wild, and as the assassin prepared to shoot again, two Belgian detectives knocked him down.

According to the official account of the Brussels chief of police, the man ran a few steps forward from the crowd which was waiting to watch the ceremony and fired one shot. Before he could shoot again the detectives were upon him.

Police Save Man From Mob.

The man, who escaped lynching by the protection of the police, told the authorities that he was an Italian named Fernando di Rosa. He affirmed that he had intended only to fire in the air as a protest. He was born at Milan October 9, 1908, and had been living in Paris where he was a law student at the university.

Prince Humbert himself was remarkably cool and contemptuous of Di Rosa's bullets. He quietly intimated to Count de Brocqueville his desire to go on with the ceremony without the slightest interruption of the program.

While bands played Italian anthems he laid his wreath on the tomb and then returned to the Italian Embassy.

The crowd which was slow to realize what had happened, fought the police to get at Di Rosa and shouted "A Mort L'Assassin, a Mort!" in front of the Palais de Justice while he was being questioned.

Police Check on Statement.

The police later gave out additional information, some of which contradicted what Di Rosa had first said. They announced that he had arrived in Brussels on October 22, going to Antwerp to avoid notice and returning to the capital yesterday evening.

They added that Di Rosa admitted he had come to Brussels to kill the prince. He describes himself as a Socialist and a member of the second internationale. He entered Belgium with an out-of-date Swiss passport and a French identity card for foreigners.

The criminal court issued a warrant for his detention on a charge of attempted assassination.

Second Confession Secured.

A Brussels newspaper said this afternoon that a second Italian giving the name of Louis di Pascale, had been arrested and confessed that he also was to have fired a shot at Prince Humbert.

The public rejoicings over the betrothal of Princess Marie and the heir to the Italian throne were changed into consternation by the attempted assassination.

The prince, who has conquered all hearts in Belgium by his modesty and winning ways, has become a political martyr and popular hero.

The populace of Brussels gave spontaneous utterance to its admiration with a loud burst of cheering as the prince returned to the Italian embassy.

A tense scene occurred here between the prince and his fiancee, who threw herself into his arms and sobbed her thankfulness for his escape.

The princess could not control her emotion.

Royal Family Concerned.

King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and other members of the Belgian royal family came to the embassy with the princess and questioned him about his escape.

The prince, who was smiling and apparently not in the least upset, replied, "Perhaps if my parents had not chosen the date of the anniversary of their marriage, I might have had less luck. All's well that ends well, and I have myself informed my mother that nothing happened to her son."

Di Rosa's revolver, which was a modern nickel-plated weapon, was found to contain several unfired cartridges.

The would-be assassin, his face looking like that of a prize fighter who had been badly beaten in the ring, was arraigned this afternoon and assured the authorities that he had no accomplices. The police are inclined to believe this statement, as two Italians who were arrested for attacking the plain clothes motorcycle policeman who seized Dirosa, said they did so because they mistook the officer for the killer.

Wished to Kill Mussolini.

Dirosa said that he was a student of radicalism and that he had long contemplated killing either Premier Mussolini of Italy or some member of the Italian royal family.

He said he came to Brussels with the intention of killing the prince.

"I regret having missed him," he told the court. "I was unable to fire again because my pistol jammed."

The ceremonies in celebration of the betrothal of Prince Humbert and Princess Jose Marie were continued at the palace tonight, a gala dinner being held in the great banqueting hall. The prince looked none the worse for his ordeal and the princess had fully recovered her spirits. She proudly displayed a pearl and diamond betrothal ring.

A regal reception followed the dinner with all branches of the government and with the diplomatic corps and church represented.

MRS. GEORGE EHLE DIES.

Former Washington Resident Succumbs to Operation in New York.

Friends in Washington of the death of Mrs. George Ehle at St. Lake's Hospital in New York on Sunday following an operation. She had been in failing health for a year or two.

For many years Mrs. Ehle made her home in Washington with William Phelps Eno as his hostess and chatelaine of his household and was prominently identified with social and philanthropic activities. Before her marriage she was Miss Frances Robinson, of Minnesota. A sister, Mrs. Joel Heatwole, also well known in Washington, lives in Paris. Mrs. Ehle spent the summer at Saugatuck, Conn., where Mr. Eno has a summer home.

Man Convicted of Drug Sale.

John Marshall, colored, was found guilty by a jury in Criminal Division No. 1 of the District Supreme Court last night on an indictment charging sale of cocaine in violation of the Harrison narcotic act. The Government's case was prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Walter M. Shea.

GRUNDY ADMITS GIVING HELP TO FRAMERS OF TARIFF BILLS

about ready to agree that if it could ever come to accept tariff lobbying as a high form of patriotism, Mr Grundy would, indeed, take the cake.

And the committee concluded with Mr Grundy at a single hearing. There are a lot more questions it could ask him, but its attitude is "What's the use?" He has his views and the subcommittee has theirs. They are as far apart as the poles and in so far as embarrassing Mr Grundy, it can not be done. He is too frank.

Although Mr. Grundy got along all right with the committee, it was not exactly the kind of hearing he would have had had he been conducting it. Because in the midst of his testimony, his prepared statements were passed around as well as lengthy summaries of his appearance before the committee. They had been gotten up well in advance of his appearance.

"Mr. Grundy's opening statement," the prepared summary read, "was that there was 'nothing new or strange' about his being in Washington during a tariff revision, inasmuch as he has been coming here in such periods for the past 32 or 33 years. He reminded the committee that no member thereof was in Congress when he first came to Washington in connection with tariff legislation in 1897, and that as a matter of fact there is but one man now in Congress—Senator Warren, of Wyoming—who was a member that long ago."

"Four Members Hit Squarely."

"The witness then hit squarely at four of the five members of the committee," the summary continued—"Senators Caraway of Arkansas, chairman; Borah of Idaho; Walsh of Montana, and Blaine of Wisconsin—as well as Senators Pat Harrison of Mississippi; Ashurst of Arizona, and McMaster of South Dakota."

At still another point the statement said:

"The witness went directly after Senator Borah, of Idaho."

All this was just Mr. Grundy's anticipation. It was not at all what happened.

Before hearing the veteran the committee whetted its appetite by harassing Frederick H. Meisnest, a youngster who left his job as fish expert with the Tariff Commission to go with the Atlantic Coast Fisheries Co. When Grundy was called the senators and newspapermen as well as spectators straightened up and made ready for business.

"State your name and business for the record," Senator Caraway directed as he headed briskly and gleefuilly into the fray.

"What has been your business down here in the past several months?"

"Assisting in the enactment of the tariff."

"Oh, the tariff was enacted before you were born."

"Then, I was assisting in the re-enactment of it."

"Reenacting it?"

"Yes."

"Yes, reenacting it, strengthening it——"

"Yes," interrupted Mr. Grundy.

"And getting higher rates," continued Senator Caraway.

"Yes," replied Mr. Grundy.

"Yes," agreed Senator Caraway.

"How many times have you been investigated for lobbying?"

"Never."

"Never?" repeated the senator. "When the Mulhall case was up, didn't you testify?"

"No."

Results Called Satisfactory.

The Arkansas senator, however, was stopped for only a second or so.

"Didn't you testify that you raised some money for the Republicans?" he resumed.

"About $700,000, I think," replied Grundy.

"Wasn't it $750,000?" asked Caraway, "or does a little matter of $50,000 mean anything to you?"

"Well, at any rate, the results finally achieved were satisfactory?" Caraway pursued.

"Oh, I wouldn't want to say results that I achieved."

"You are so modest you don't want to claim everything?"

"If you will allow me to overcome my modesty." Grundy agreed, "I'll say that I had a part."

"Yes," said Senator Caraway.

"Yes," agreed Mr. Grundy.

"Well, you were the third house and you wrote the rates," insisted Caraway, referring to the pending Smoot-Hawley bill.

"No, I wouldn't want to say that," replied Grundy. "What is the third house?"

"The people who stay down here and lobby," snapped the voice of the South, in that mood of "Ah, I got you that time."

Says He Pays Expenses.

But the rapid exchange which had up to now lasted hardly more than 5 minutes was perceptibly slowed on the next question:

"Who contributes to your expenses here?"

"Nobody contributes to my expenses and never will."

The Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, which he represents here, has an annual revenue of about $75,000, he said, but he pays his own expenses and draws no salary. His expenses in connection with the present total about $24,000, it was developed. The committee did not go into the expenditures of the American Tariff League, with which Grundy is associated.

"It's just a labor of love with you," Caraway observed.

"We have a right to see that the Republican platform as adopted at Kansas City should be adopted," Grundy said.

"You feel like they had put up the money and ought to get results?" asked Caraway, referring to the $700,000 that Grundy raised in Pennsylvania during the campaign.

"I feel like the party should carry out the mandate of——."

Sees Duty to Assist.

Caraway interrupted and there was another exchange as to Grundy's money-raising activities during the campaign and in past campaigns.

"I was helping in every way I could," agreed Grundy.

"I don't think anybody would accuse you of laying down on the job," retorted Caraway.

"Yes," agreed Grundy.

"Yes," chorused Caraway. "And that's been your activity ever since the Dingley bill (in 1897)?"

"The Government here is run by Congress," said Grundy. "One of the parties is committed to the tariff under which the country has grown prosperous and when it has gone on record it should be assisted in carrying out that policy."

"Yes," said Caraway.

"Yes," agreed Grundy.

And so it went. Caraway wanted to know Grundy's associates here in the tariff lobby and when Grundy hesitated, Caraway said:

"Oh give us a hundred or two of them."

"Maybe I can help you," Caraway continued. "Mr. Burgess—now go ahead, give us the names of those who have been actively assisting you." (Mr. Burgess, former tariff commissioner, is of the same tariff lobbying school as Mr. Grundy but of an earlier class, the class of '94.

Active at Harrisburg.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, again brought up the question of what Mr. Grundy has been doing all of his life.

"Well, I've devoted a good deal of my time to building up Pennsylvania industry and cooperating with the Republican organization," replied Mr. Grundy.

He testified that Congress was not his only place of call. There is the Pennsylvania Legislature at Harrisburg that requires his attention. At Caraway's suggestion, Walsh asked:

"Why, what's the matter with your legislature?"

"You mean the members of the House and Senate?"

"Yes, what's wrong with them?"

"Why, they've done very well."

"You mean with a little steering," Caraway injected.

When Walsh kept asking him about the senators here that he has called upon, Grundy would invariably throw Eyanson's name in.

Grundy Knows His Way.

"Why, I saw Senator Reed, Senator Smoot, Eyanson," he would say.

This finally caused Walsh to ask:

"When I ask you about senators, why do you say Mr. Eyanson?"

"He was in Senator Bingham's office," Grundy replied.

"Yes, but I don't understand. Now, when you would go into Senator Watson's office, would not his secretary show you the senator's office?" persisted Walsh.

"I suppose I knew the way to his office," replied Grundy.

"You knew that path, eh?" chuckled Senator Caraway.

Walsh and Grundy never did get on a common ground about why Grundy always called on Eyanson instead of Bingham, but then the hearing has well developed that Eyanson was the one to see. He is just about 35 years old, too.

Explains Visitors' Aims.

Walsh inquired about A. Boyd Hamilton, secretary of the Republican State committee in Pennsylvania.

"What was his business here?" asked the senator.

"Oh, patronage, I suppose," replied Grundy.

"Do you know James Francis Burke?" asked Walsh.

"Oh, yes."

"What is his business here?"

"I take it that he is on very high terms with the President of the United States," replied Grundy. "I have seen him at the White House."

"You say you went to see him at the White House?"

"Oh, no, I have seen him there while there myself."

"Where did you talk with him?"

"Oh, on one occasion I had lunch with him at the Willard Hotel, which, I understand, is where he lives."

Walsh asked him if the tariff bill as it came from the Senate finance committee was satisfactory.

For Domestic Valuation.

"It had many features that could be recommended," replied Grundy.

Incidentally, he stated that he is not greatly concerned about any of the rates of the bill, but that his concern is the domestic valuation plan.

"I have never understood the difference between them," Walsh observed at one point referring to the two forms of domestic valuation, one the American plan and the other called the United States selling cost plan.

"So I noticed the other day with regret," Grundy replied, referring to the vote in the Senate on the latter plan a few days ago.

Walsh went back to Grundy's expressed unconcern about the rates.

"Nevertheless," he said, "you did get very substantial increases."

Insists Revision Limited.

"Oh, they are so insignificant they don't amount to anything," Grundy said. Whereupon Walsh's hair almost stood up on his head. He went laboriously through a chart and showed that of 65 Pennsylvania industries, increases had been granted on 42 and 8 rates had been reduced.

"Now I want to ask you," he said, "do you regard that as a limited revision?"

"It is limited to the things that are necessary," Grundy replied.

This was too much. The senator stopped and launched into a long argument as to what was Grundy's understanding of a limited revision.

Grundy said a general revision was a change of policy such as the Underwood bill when the Democrats revised the tariff and the Fordney-McCumber bill, which returned to the Republican policy when they were returned to power in 1922.

He insisted that a revision is limited so long it is limited to those rates that are "necessary."

Recalls Democratic Bill.

"Well," said Senator Walsh fairly boiling over, "do you know of a revision where it was unnecessary?"

"Yes, the Wilson-Gormley bill," replied Grundy.

"That's your view," said Walsh.

"Yes," said Grundy.

"Yes," said Walsh.

"Has it ever entered into your head to take into consideration the consumer, Mr. Grundy?" the senator asked.

"Of course, I look at it from the party standpoint——," replied Grundy.

"Well, doesn't your party pay any attention to the consumer?"

Grundy said he assumed all of the consumers belonged to one or the other major parties. Furthermore, he did not think high tariffs increased the cost of living, instead they reduced the cost of living, he said. Referring to the present bill, "I don't think you will ever know the duties went on," he said.

Walsh did some rapid calculation and asked him if it wasn't true that the Pennsylvania increases in the pending bill would add $504,000,000 to the cost of living.

"No. Important if true," replied Grundy.

"Yes," said Walsh.

"Yes," said Grundy.

BLEASE RESOLUTION PUT UP TO SACKETT

of Kansas, promptly referred it to the Sackett subcommittee.

Thus the case of Pratt now has been made a part of the general investigation which the Sackett subcommittee is making into District affairs. Unless the subcommittee makes a favorable report on the resolution the Senate itself can not act on it, and it seems hardly likely that the subcommittee will make such a report on it, if, indeed, it does anything about it.

Text of His Resolution.

It is possible that the subcommittee will hold a meeting late today or tomorrow. The chairman, Senator Sackett (Republican), of Kentucky, is scheduled to return from Louisville this morning.

The Blease resolution reads as follows:

"Resolved: That it is the sense of the Senate that, pending the investigation of the Metropolitan Police Department now being conducted by the subcommittee of the Senate committee of the District of Columbia, that the Messrs Pratt, Doyle, Kelly, Sheiby and Allen be placed in the same position in reference to suspension and pay, and that if any of them is suspended and deprived of his salary pending the outcome of such investigation, each of them should be."

When the Sackett subcommittee meets, it will have before it not only this resolution but four official letters and a great pile of letters from citizens.

Mitchell Answers Request.

The official communications are from Attorney General Mitchell, United States Attorney Rover, Police Court Judge Schuldt and Police Chief Pratt. Mitchell's letter is in response to a request for the loan of Department of Justice agents; Rover explains a delay in bringing in an indictment in the latest Chinese tong murder; Schuldt tells who have permits to carry guns and who have been denied permits, and Pratt tells why Policeman Allen was suspended during the McPherson murder investigation.

The other letters are principally from persons who have grievances against the Police Department or who claim to have information about the death of Headquarters Detective Arthur Scrivener or about other local mysteries.

Yesterday a number of letters were received praising Capt. Doyle, who has been suspended by Maj. Pratt for his defense of Private Allen.

Doyle Approves Judges.

Doyle yesterday indicated that the personnel of the present trial board will be satisfactory to him. The board is composed of Inspector Louis J. Stoll, Capt. Stott, of the Third Precinct, and Capt. Davis, of the Second Precinct.

The personnel of the board, however, is not expected to prove satisfactory to Allen, who is said to be planning to demand trial before a different set of judges. Should he challenge the board, Maj. Pratt will name substitute officers to hear the case.

There will be no undue delay in the trial of the suspended captain and private, it was said. Police regulations require 48 hours' notice be given officers cited before the trial board. Requests by defendants for additional time to prepare their defense are usually granted by the trial board, but Doyle has indicated that additional time will not be needed for him. He seems to take the whole matter complacently enough and, if he is worried, refuses to admit it or to show it.

Minister Praises Him.

Both Doyle and Allen will be charged with conduct prejudicial to the good order and reputation of the Police Department, but the exact specifications have not been completed by Luckett. Should they be found guilty the punishment may range from a warning, a reprimand, a fine or dismissal. The sentence of the Police Trial Board is subject to review by the District Commissioners. Of course, if the trial board does not find the accused policemen guilty that ends the matter.

The Rev. Moses R. Lovell, minister of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, of which Doyle has been a member for 25 years, yesterday lauded the suspended police captain in a public statement.

"For 40 years he has been on the city's police force, serving 24 of them as captain, with hardly a blot on his career," declared the Rev. Mr. Lovell. "Entrusted with a difficult precinct, he met the demands of his office with unusual zeal and honesty.

"For 25 years he has been a member, in excellent standing, of this church, where he has a host of friends who have absolute confidence and faith in the sincerity and uprightness of his intentions.

"As his pastor for some years, I wish to go on record for the man's entirely sterling character. I wish further to speak in behalf of literally hundreds of men and women all over the city who, knowing him equally well, now rise up to demand for him an unbiased hearing and a square deal. We believe that in the reinstatement to his command will not only be found the answer to the demands of present justice, but, more than that, reclaim to the force one whose long years of absolutely proven and efficient service is just the element most needed now in the effective regulation of our city."

SCHOOL CONGESTION BLAME IS SWITCHED

tional Capital does not have proper and adequate school facilities, is failure on the part of Congress to appropriate sufficient money.

"It would be unjust, however, to lay the blame for this condition on the appropriations committees of Congress. They are guided in their decisions by the recommendations of school officials, the District Commissioners, and the Budget Bureau. There is bound to be confusion and uncertainty under such a condition, and the result is that the children of Washington are deprived of the school facilities they ought to have.

"Furthermore, that Congress is not altogether at fault is apparent from the figures submitted by the school authorities. When the five-year school program was adopted, they estimated an annual increase of pupils in the grades of 800.

"As a matter of fact, that estimate was wrong. The actual increase in each of the four years since the program was adopted has averaged 1,143. Instead, therefore, of 80 new classrooms being needed in the four-year period merely to take care of increased enrollment, there were actually 114 needed. The school authorities, therefore, underestimated the grade school needs for new pupils by 34 classrooms.

"Furthermore, it is quite evident that the growth of the city was in directions and localities not anticipated, so that there has had to be adjustment in the building program from time to time, with resultant delays and classroom shortages. On the other hand, the increase in high school enrollment has not been as great as was anticipated in drafting the five-year school program.

"As pointed out by Dr. Carusi, the cost of bringing District school facilities up to a proper standard was estimated originally at $20,000,000. To date, only a little more than $14,000,000 has been appropriated by Congress for school buildings and grounds.

"It seems to me, and to other members of Congress, that our public schools are the last place in the world for 'economizing' for the mere sake of saving money. The proper care and education of the children of the Capital is more important than a so-called 'balanced budget,' or a one-third to two-thirds proportion between school expenditures and other expenditures. Especially is this true when it is considered that the District has a cash surplus of more than $8,500,000 lying idle.

Will Give Letter to Board.

"It is my firm conviction that the thing to do is to spend within the next year whatever amount may be necessary to provide seats in modern, proper school buildings for every child of school age. We do not need a new school program half as much as we need actual appropriations for purchase of grounds and construction of buildings where they are needed now. When we get the present need filled, then we can make proper provision for future needs.

"I am bringing Dr. Carusi's letter to the attention of the Board of Commissioners so that they may take it into consideration in making their own reply to my recent inquiry. I have no doubt their recommendations will be of value to Congress in meeting the school needs of the District.

"I have no doubt, also, that the appropriations subcommittees of the House and Senate will make a detailed, school-to-school investigation of the actual situation, and that the result will be a decided improvement within the next year. My own view is that Congress should appropriate whatever amount is needed to replace all portables, all old, unfit school rooms and buildings, and to assure every child a proper place for schooling by January 1, 1931. This can be done, should be done, and I believe it will be done."

D. J. CALLAHAN QUITS STEAMSHIP OFFICE

W. E. Pearson and B. F. Saul at Same Time Resign as Line Directors.

SILENT AS TO REASONS

D. J. Callahan, general manager and director of the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co., which was organized in 1891 by his father, John Callahan, tendered his resignation, effective November 30, at the board of director's meeting yesterday.

At the same time that Mr. Callahan severad his connections with the company, W. E. Pearson, manager of the Virginia Brick Co., and B. F. Saul, president, of B. F. Saul Co., also resigned as directors of the steamboat company.

Although these resignations were announced by the company, no statement could be elicited as to what prompted their resignations and who would succeed them in their executive capacities.

Clarence F. Norment, sr., is president of the company; Clarence F. Noorment, jr., vice president, and Odell Smith, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Callahan's father, founder of the company, was associated closely in the organization with the late Levi Woodbury, William E. Clarke and George W. Pearson, all of Washington, and William H. White, of Norfolk, Va.

In announcing Mr. Callahan's resignation, it was stated the company had made a splendid record under his careful and efficient management, and that he leaves the company in a more prosperous condition than ever in its history.

Mr. Callahan has held the office of Supreme Treasurer of the Knights of Columbus for 20 years, and was recently reelected for another two-year term. He maintains offices in the Woodward building as the representative of that organization. It was stated that he will leave for Atlantic City in a few days and upon his return will be located in those offices.

Woman Seeks $20,000 In Auto Damage Suit

Elizabeth Kirby, of 1430 G street northeast, filed suit in District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday against Jesse A. Poole, of 123 Sixteenth street northeast, seeking $20,000 damages for alleged personal injuries said to have been suffered in an automobile accident.

The woman tells the court that she was crossing K street at Florida avenue northeast when she was struck down and injured by the defendant's automobile. She is represented by Attorney Raymond Neudecker.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

DEMOCRATS FLAYED BY WISE IN SPEECH

Arlington County G. O. P. Group Holds Rally in Columbia Pike Schoolhouse.

MOORE SPEAKS AT FETE

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Declaring the present gubernatorial campaign in Virginia to be the culmination of the popular revolution induced by "years of maladministration by the Democratic bosses," Col. Jennings C. Wise, noted lawyer of Richmond and Washington and one of the leaders of the coalition forces, speaking at a Republican mass meeting before a capacity audience in the old Columbia Pike schoolhouse in Arlington last night, issued a stirring appeal for support of the ticket headed by Dr. William Moseley Brown. Col. Wise said, in part:

"The present gubernatorial campaign in Virginia is not a mere contest between two political parties, but the culmination of the popular revolution induced by years of maladministration. The coalition party is but the leader of the people against a reactionary system of bossism which popular indifference has allowed to destroy democratic government.

"In all political parties there are some who, busy with money-making, deem themselves aristocrats. With profound indifference to history and their own good, this caste in Virginia is seeking to crush those of us who are trying to give to the popular revolution a conservative leadership.

Byrd's Policies Are Hit.

"Gov. Byrd's cry of economic progress after years of economic lethargy on the part of the Democratic bosses is designed to lure the people away from those moral reforms essential to real prosperity. It is but a smoke screen to cover the real issue. But the masses have seen this and they are demanding moral as well as material progress.

"Let the country be not deceived. The people of Virginia who enacted the first statute of religious liberty, who destroyed the Anticatholic party in 1856, are not bigots.

They are simply Americans who believe in the complete separation of church and State and all the other fundamental principals of Jeffersonian democracy. The outcome of he present campaign is of the utmost importance to the nation.

Virginia Called Moral Leader.

"Virginia is still the moral leader of the South, devoted as her people are to the fundamental institutions of the Republic. In their inherent conservatism should be recognized an effective balance to the growing radicalism of other sections. Therefore, upon her action on November 5, much depends. The breaking of the solid South and the formation of a more perfect Union are at stake.

It is because Mr. Hoover is the first President who has been broad enough to realize this that the coalition party has received his sanction. It will no more destroy the Republican party in Virginia than the alliance of Britain and America. In union there is strength. After the Republicans and Independent Democrats under Brown have restored popular government in Virginia, the two parties will realign, each purified by the ordeal of battle against the common enemy.

"Then the National Republican party must affirmatively help us to upbuild the Republican party in Virginia since without its aid we can not go forward. Virginia is weary of bombarding Fort Sumter. At last we are knocking and knocking loudly at the door of the Union. To the North, I say, continue to exclude us by a narrow policy and the Nation will pay the penalty."

Filling the auditorium of the Ballston Firemen's Hall to capacity last night, the citizens of Ballston celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Citizens Association and the Ballston Volunteer Fire Department.

The ceremonies opened with the invocation given by the Rev. Ira P. Harbaugh, pastor of the Ballston Christian Church which was followed by an address of welcome by Dr. W. C. Welburn, the first president of the Ballston Citizens Association.

Representative R. Walton Moore, the principal speaker, opened his remarks by saying, "This is not a political meeting so I shall not presume to take the liberty of telling you loyal citizens of Ballston how you should vote on Tuesday, November 5, but in passing will say the citizens face a big responsibility."

"Looking back 25 years one can hardly realize the vast changes that come over Arlington County," said Moore.

"Arlington County, the smallest in the State, has increased its population in the last sixteen years and it is still growing and it has been made possible by the work of such organizations that we are here tonight to assist in celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary," he said.

"With the opening of the new Memorial Bridge and the construction of the Mount Vernon boulevard Arlington County faces greater possibilities for development than any other section of the State and I am confident that the citizens of this community and all others in the county will band together and aid in its great future."

"There are no words that I can express that will fully express the great service that the volunteer firemen give to its community.

"They leave their homes at all hours of the day and night, never thinking of their own safety, ut yours and mine; to save our property and every support possible should at all times e given to the volunteer fire deparments," he concluded.

Walter U. Vanrey, president of the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemens Association, the next speaker, said: "I know of no department in Arlington County that gives greater service than the boys of the Ballston Fire Department. They pay their dues in their organization and dig down into their pockets and pay for the gasoline and oil used to operate the apparatus. The county owns the equipment but they feel they are not able to pay the operating bills. If the county bond of supervisors can not pay the gasoline and oil bills I say the voters of this county should put men in office that will pay the bill."

The program included piano solos by Miss Leanora Heslman, vocal solo by Miss Margaret Kilgore and a reading by Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips.

Grover E. Payne, president of the Citizens Association, presided.

Bids for the widening of the Washington-Richmond highway from the District of Columbia line opposite the Southern Oxygen Plant to Four Mile Run, which becomes the new line between Arlington County and the City of Alexandria at midnight on December 31, will be opened by the Virginia State highway department at Richmond Thursday, November 7, according to an announcement given out yesterday by Resident State Engineer Robert I. Mount.

State engineers will meet contractors planning to bid on the job at the Richmond-Fredericksburg & Potomac Railway station in Alexandria at 11 o'clock the morning of October 31, to go over the entire route of the new improvement.

Engineer Mount stated that the specifications call for the widening of the road to 30 feet with concrete shoulders with a sheet asphalt center. The distance is approximately 1½ miles.

The original plan was to carry the improvement to the old limits of the City of Alexandria on North Washington street. Due to annexation proceedings which have given the city a large section of Arlington County and the fact that the State is not building roads within city limits, the improvement is carried only to the limits of Arlington County.

The new American La France compound pumper fire engine was delivered to the Clarendon Fire Department yesterday and is now housed in the old building at the intersection of the Wilson Boulevard and Clarendon avenue.

Accordingto Chief Herbert Smith there will be a special meeting of the board of trustees of the department tonight in the firehouse to complete plans for rushing the completion of the new firehouse located on Lawton avenue in Clarendon.

Gov. Harry F. Byrd has appointed Judge Frederick W. Coleman, of the fifteenth judicial circuit, as special judge to sit at the trial of Harry N. Douthitt, which opens today in the Circuit Court of Arlington County at 10 o'clock.

The appointment of a special judge became necessary due to the fact that Circuit Court Judge Howard W. Smith is the complaining witness.

The indictment, returned at the June term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County, claims that Harry N. Douthitt, former secretary of the Citizens League of the District of Columbia, later the editor of the Clarendon Chronicle and now the editor and publisher of the Washington police journal known as "The Bluecoat," wrote a letter to Judge Smith offering him the sum of $500 to decide in Douthitt's favor in a suit instituted by hm against Morris A. Beale, his erstwhile business associate.

Douthitt admitted the signature as his, but flatly denies any knowledge of the letter. Doubthitt has been out on $1,500 bond. He will be represented by State Senator Frank L. Bial. Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth will prosecute the case.

With flags flying from buildings along hte Wilson boulevard through the business section of Clarendon, all is ready now for the Mardi Gras to mark the opening of the first section of the boulevard, which starts promptly tonight at 7 o'clock.

General Chairman H. B. Mitchell announces that arrangements have been completed with the military authorities at Fort Myer to have a field piece on the scene, which will be fired at the stroke of 7 tonight to start the grand march, led by the "Miss Arlington" title winners of the past four years, te Ballston Independent Band and the drum and bugle corps of Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion.

The committee announces that an elaborate program has been arranged, which includes a number of vaudeville acts from a Washington theater. Dancing will start at 9 o'clock.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the outbuilding at the home of J. E. Pearson, on Columbia pike, last night with an estimated damage of $500.

Engines from Arlington, Ballston, Jefferson District and Clarendon responded and soon had the fire under control, saving much adjoining property.

The Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County held its monthly dinner meeting last night at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

Under the direction of Mrs. Pearl W. Sharp, chairman of the membership committee, a membership drive was launched, and the chairman, in an interesting talk, asked the cooperation of all members in this drive. She outlined the work of the club, emphasizing strongly the idea of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, namely, "Better business woman for a better business world."

Because of the timely interest in the coming election, Mrs. N. Rex Hunt spoke of the importance and duty of every business and professional woman of exercising her rights of citizenship by casting her vote.

Mrs. Albert H. Cohen, president of the club, read a report on the recent State board meeting held at Martinsville, and outlined the duties of the various committees. The legislative committee, she said, should keep up with the issues that come up for attention in Congress pertaining to women. The Business and Professional Women's Clubs are cooperating with the National Education Association in trying to create in the President's Cabinet a Department of Education, with a woman at its head. The aim of the club is high school education for every girl, with a college education wherever possible.

FAIRFAX RED CROSS NAMES GIBBS CHIEF

Chapter Meets to Plan County-Wide Roll Call; Treasurer Resigns.

FAIR BOARD CONSULTS

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
Vienna, Va.

The Fairfax Chapter of the American Red Cross held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the county health office, F. C. Gibbs, of Mount Vernon, was appointed county roll call chairman. This was a meeting of the chairmen of committees in each of the districts and towns recently appointed by Mrs. Russell Lynn, of Herndon.

Plans were formulated for the county-wide annual roll call which is to be held next month. They will insist that every resident of the county who joins chapters in Washington give their county address so the local chapters will receive 50 cents of each $1 contributed.

The county chapters have pledged themselves to contribute $1,000 this year toward the maintenance of a full-time health unit for this county. The Rev. William C. Marshall, treasurer, presented his resignation, as he is going to St. John's Episcopal Church, Bedford, Va. Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, of Merrifield, was elected to fill the vacancy. The chairmen are as follows: Mount Vernon, Mrs. J. W. Cox; Drainsville, Mrs. George R. Bready; Providence, J. W. Scholls, Mrs. U. S. Walters, Mrs. J. W. Mitchell; Lee, M. M. Barnard Lorton; Falls Church, Mrs. E. D. Vosbury.

A meeting of the board of directors of the County Fair Association was held recently in the office of the secretary, Robert D. Graham. The financial affairs were discussed, several of the second trust notes now held against the association being retired and the rest renewed for two more years. It was also decided to issue new stock certificates and it is requested that all stockholders return their old certificates for new ones.

The directors amended the by-laws of the association so that the annual meeting of stockholders will be held on the last Monday in November each year. This was done in order that the new officers will have more time in which to arrange for the fair.

Thomas B. Mullahey, convicted at the September term of court, was caught yesterday in Laurel. Sheriff E. P. Kirby went to Laurel yesterday and brought the prisoner back to the Fairfax Jail. Mullahey was convicted for driving while drunk and fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail, although he was not in court at the time. The motion to forfeit bail made by the Commonwealth's attorney on that date was continued until the November term of court to allow Mullahey to surrender himself. He was arrested on a bench warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice.

The councils of the Daughters of America will hold their quarterly meeting tonight at Fairfax in Robry Hall. The councils of the district include the chapters in Alexandria City and Arlington and Fairfax Counties.

Mrs. Ethel Williams, Mrs. Flora King and Mrs. Alma Dewey are the committee which was appointed by the local chapter, which will be in charge of the entertainment that will follow the business session.

The Fairfax Baptist Church will celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of its founding and the second anniversary of the new church building, tonight. The program has been arranged by the Woman's Missionary Society, of which Mrs. John Barbour and Mrs. C. T. Rice are in charge. Mr. and Mrs. James Way, of Washington, founders of the church here, will give a history of the work up to the time of their leaving. The story will then be taken up by John Barbour, of Fairfax. The Rev. H. W. Millington, first pastor of the church, will be unable to attend. Rev. S. Y Craig, present pastor, has invited members of the Baptist churches in this section to attend. The Rev. U S. Knox, pastor of the Columbia Baptist Church in Falls Church, and the Rev. C. W. Trainham, secretary of the Baptist association, will address the meeting. Special music has been arranged by the committee, of which Mrs. J. A. Hallman is chairman.

A movement is under way in this county to have Judge Howard W. Smith appoint a new county welfare board. Mrs. Leon Mangum, of Franklin Park, has been mentioned for chairman. She has been doing welfare work on her own initiative for several years and is acquainted with the needs of this county.

The Ayr Hill Garden Club will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Fouche in Vienna. The subject of today will be "The Planting and Care of Chrysanthemums."

NINE ARE SET FREE IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Carolina Grand Jury Fails to Indict Men Arrested as Strike Mob Killers.

WHIP CASES DROPPED

Gastonia, N. C., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The nine men arrested in connection with the killing of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, and the seven men arrested after the kidnaping of three National Textile Workers Union organizers were freed today by a Gaston County grand jury. No true bills were found against any of the sixteen after the indictment had been asked yesterday by Solicitor General Carpenter.

The killing of Mrs. Wiggins occurred near Bessemer City on September 14, when an alleged anti-Communist mob turned back a truckload of Bessemer City cotton mill strikers en route to a meeting in Gastonia, followed them and later fired into the group, one of the bullets striking her and killing her almost instantly. Two sessions of a coroner's jury were held after which the nine men were ordered held. The jurors did not place the blame for firing the fatal shot on any of them, however.

The kidnaping and subsequent flogging of one of the three men captured took place September 9. A mob entered a Gastonia boarding houe, seized Ben Wells, who was later beaten, and C. M. Lell and C. D. Saylors, taking them to Cabarrits County, almost 50 miles distant. Four of the nine men were tried in a Cabarrits court last week but were acquitted.

ROAD BOARD SEEKS BIDS ON FOUR JOBS

Six Virginia Bridges Are Included in Projects Costing $118,000.

PAVING FOR ARLINGTON

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The State highway department is asking for bids on four projects, estimated to cost $118,000, to be received at offices here November 17.

Six bridges are included in the four projects. Four bridges are to span Cove Creek within twelve miles of Bristol. Three will be 40-foot reinforced concrete structures, and one will be a steel truss. Six hundred and three and eight-tenths cubic yards of "B" concrete and 219.8 cubic yards of "A" concrete will be required in construction.

A 75-foot span is to be built across Willis River six miles from Rosney, requiring 46 cubic yards of "A" concrete and 77,925 pounds of structural steel.

Another 75-foot bridge is to be built across Powell River, near Blackwood, in Wise County, with the requirements of construction as follows: 279.4 cubic yards of "B" concrete, 47.2 cubic yards of "A" concrete, 10,000 pounds of reinforced steel, 77,000 pounds of structural steel, and 450 cubic yards of excavation.

Two miles of sheet asphalt paving will be laid in Arlington County up to the District of Columbia line. The normal 18-foot paved roadway will be supplemented by 12 additional feet, ordered on account of the unusually heavy traffic near District line.

New Militia Bureau Chief Arrives Here

Maj. Gen. William G. Everson, recently appointed chief of the Militia Bureau, arrived in Washington last night to take over the duties of his new office today. Gen. Everson's home is in Muncie, Ind., where he is a minister.

A reception will be held in his office this morning at 10 o'clock in order that he may become acquainted with the various officers of the bureau.

Woman Reports $36 Theft.

Mrs. Estelle Hadaway, of 2364½ Twelfth place northeast, told police yesterday that $33 in bills was stolen from her home. A youth, who resides in the neighborhood and who left a note saying he was going to Baltimore, is being sought by police in connection with the incident.

JURY'S PLEA DENIED IN PRINCE GEORGES

Commissioners Have No Idea of Adding Officers to Police Force.

BETTER ROAD IS SOUGHT

Despite the recommendation of the county grand jury that two additional policemen be added to the county force, the Prince Georges County Commissioners do not plan any such action, they said yesterday.

The commissioners feel that the revenue derived from the county police court would not be sufficient to provide for the salaries of the additional policemen and say that they can not add additional expenses before the next levy, even if they wished to concur in the grand jury recommendation.

The commissioners also feel that two men would not be able to make much impression in patrolling the sections the grand jury felt needed additional police protection. They do not feel inclined to add the policeen anyway, having consistently ignored the recommendation of every grand jury which has met since the creation of the police force, save one, that additional policemen be added to the force.

Each of these grand juries has made the recommendation and urged the additional policemen, but the commissioners have shelved the idea immediately in each case.

The Bowie road district committee has filed a request that the county commissioners grant authority to the committee to secure rights of way for the improvement of Duvalls Mill road and part of the Lemona Bridge road with James C. Blackwell, clerk to the county commissioners.

A statement signed by 62 residents who have lived in the vicinity of the road for from 9 to 50 years declaring that they have always understood that the road is a county road, accompanied the request. There is some controversy as to whether the road is a county or private property.

The petition declares that the use and improvement of the road is necessary for the progress of the community.

Sister Ill, Priest Flies to Buffalo

Rev. John F. Donoghue Hastens to Bedside of Kin by Rail and Air.

Rushed to Buffalo, N. Y., by fast train and airplane, the Rev. John F. Donoghue, pursuing special studies at Catholic University, yesterday was able to reach the bedside of his sister, who is critically ill and believed to be dying.

The Rev. Mr. Donoghue is specializing in canon law at Catholic University following his ordination three years ago. Yesterday morning he received word that his sister was ill following the birth of a child a week ago. The priest boarded a train at once but while he was on the first lap of the journey his sister became much worse.

Relatives in Buffalo wired the Ludington (Philadelphia) Flying Service and the Rev. Mr. Donoghue was intercepted at Wayne Junction, Pa., hurried to Pitcairn Field and aboard a plane piloted by William Day. The plane was successful in its efforts to reach Buffalo that the priest might be with his sister while she lived.

ORANGE COUNTY FAIR OPENS AMID DELUGE

Sun Breaks Through Clouds, However, and Activity Soon Starts.

SOME WINNERS NAMED

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., Oct. 24.—The opening of the nineteenth annual exhibition of the Orange County Fair Association was marked with a deluge of rain that for a while cast a damper over the fair spirit, but shortly after noon the sun broke through the enveloping clouds, enthusiasm again arose and the various departments were soon teeming with activity as last-minute exhibits were arranged.

The exhibit of Orange County schools under the supervision of Mrs. S. D. Bray, rural supervisor, is of a very high class. Mrs. Bray was assisted in the arrangement of the exhibit by faculty members and by Miss Anne Allyson, of the Richmond art department. In the High School department Gordonsville won first place, scoring 20 points above the closest competitor. In the grades, Cavalry School won first in the one and two room schools, and Lahore won first in the three and four room schools. Judges of the school department were Miss Hallie Hughes, State Girls Club agent; Miss Florence Stubbs, head of rural department, Farmville, and Miss Roxie Martin, supervisor of primary department, Richmond.

In the home-demonstration exhibits, in which 4-H Clubs, of Madison and Greene, competed with Orange, the latter made a good showing in view of the fact that the work was organized in Orange County only on July 1. Miss Anne Garrett is the Orange County agent and the Misses Agnes Maupin and Madge Gardner, agents of Greene and Madison Counties, respectively.

The Boys 4-H Clubs, under County Agent T. T. Curtis, and the county vocational agricultural classes, under J. Frank Coleman, agricultural instructor of the Unionville High School, have won numerous blue ribbons, although competing with clubs of Madison, Greene, Albemarle and Louisa Counties. District Agent W. C. Shackleford judged the corn and garden exhibit of the clubs, Orange winning first and Unionville second. H. L. Moore, poultry specialist, of Blacksburg, judged the 4-H Poultry Clubs department. In the class of Rhode Island Reds, Ruby Amos won first, Nellie Gray Gobson, second, and Frank Gibson, third, all of Madison Run. In the Barred Rock class, Jessie B. Downer, of Daniel, won first, and in the Buff Orpington class Harry Pendleton, Orange, won first. William Stewart, Unionville, won first on corn.

Judging has not yet been completed in all classes. George Cary, of the Virginia Seed Service, Richmond, will judge dairy cattle and George Harring, swine specialist, Blacksburg, will judge sheep, swine and beef cattle.

Legation Employe Sits Atop Stop Sign; Held

Lewis Rablis, colored, 35 years old, of U street near Eighteenth northwest, who Fourteenth Precinct police said was a chauffeur at the Hungarian Legation, was arrested early last night at Connecticut avenue and Woodley road northwest for mental observation and later sent to Gallinger Hospital.

Police declared that they took the man in custody sitting atop a small street car stop sign after the man had leaped from a moving taxicab and a short time later had attempted to eject the driver of a Washington Railway & Electric Co. bus from his seat.

Industrial Prosperity Depends Upon Agriculture

"Parity" for Agriculture Means Billions for Industry—

"Let us keep our pledges to the farmer"

The Republican Party's Promises to Agriculture

A protective tariff is as vital to American agriculture as it is to American manufacturing. The Republican party believes that the home market, built up under the protective policy, belongs to the American farmer, and it pledges its support of legislation which will give this market to him to the full extent of his ability to supply it.

We favor adequate tariff protection to such of our agricultural products as are affected by foreign competition.

The Republican party pledges itself to the development and enactment of measures which will place the agricultural interests of America on a basis of economic equality with other industries to insure its prosperity and success.

Extracts from the Republican platform, adopted at Kansas City, June 12-15, 1928.

Editorial in the Minneapolis Tribune, October 12, 1929

American industry is crying that it must have new outlets abroad.

Has it ever occurred to industry that the greatest and richest potential market in the world lies in the interior of a country called the United States and along a valley called the Mississippi?

Has it ever occurred to industry that a doubling of the buying power of this region would do more to assure industry's continued expansion and prosperity than almost anything else the human mind could conceive?

And has it further ever occurred to industry that the direct, immediate, and logical way to increase the buying power of this region is to put its shoulder behind the movement to hold the Republican party to its pledges to agriculture?

A literal fulfillment of the Republican party's pledges would mean a substantial increase in the buying power of the agricultural area of the United States.

The present income enjoyed by agricultural America is approximately 12 billion dollars.

Were agriculture enjoying the same proportionate income that the rest of the United States is enjoying that income would be 18 billion dollars.

"Parity" for agriculture means just that: an added annual income of roughly 6 billion dollars.

Were this ideal realized, who would get the additional 6 billion dollars—agriculture or industry?

Obviously, both.

Agriculture would promptly turn over the bulk of the sum to industry, in exchange for the products which industry has to sell.

Industry would profit by the increased buying power of American agriculture just as it has already profited by the increased buying power of American labor.

"Parity" for agriculture means nothing more and nothing less than enormously increased sales for industry.

Why, then, shouldn't industry exert all the vast influence it has at its command to hold the tariff revision to the purposes outlined by President Hoover?

Widen the spread between agriculture's costs and prices by $1,000 per individual farmer per year, and you place at industry's disposal the colossal added buying power of 7 billion dollars per year.

Where else in the world has industry the target of a 7 billion dollar market to shoot at?

The tariff can be so revised as further to weaken agriculture's buying power or it can be so revised as greatly to expand it.

Surely industry should be able to see that a weakened buying power on the part of agriculture would represent to industry a calamity of the first magnitude.

Surely it should be able to see that its interests all lie on the side of expanding agriculture's buying power via the plan of tariff revision originally sketched in the Republican party platform.

Why should industry worry itself about foreign markets when the world's greatest market lies right at its door?

Iowa is a better market than India, Kansas is better than Kamchatka, and Minnesota is better than Mesopotamia.

The will to buy is in the west. There no want needs to be created, no racial prejudice needs to be broken down, no old-age habit needs to be overcome.

There sales-resistance is at its lowest, and there foreign competition is virtually non-existent.

There no anti-American legislation needs to be feared.

There no salesman has to be taught a new language, and no adjustment has to be made to strange commercial practices.

Industry should acquaint itself with the fact that the "greatest foreign market" in the world lies along the Mississippi valley.

Nor should it lose sight of the fact that every added billion dollars a year for agriculture means an added billion dollars a year for industry.

"Parity" for agriculture means billions for industry.

Isn't it time that industry began to see straight on this matter?

Isn't it time that it caught the idea that instead of opposing agriculture's case before congress it should be agriculture's most vigorous champion and special pleader?

Industry's Interest in the Home Market Pledge

Now American Industry Suffers From Unrepresentative Representation

Editorial in the Minneapolis Tribune, October 14, 1929

Industry's stake in the Republican party's famous "home market pledge" (reproduced at the head of this column) is as pronounced as agriculture's.

At present the American people pay about a billion dollars a year to foreigners for agricultural products which American agriculture could quite as satisfactorily produce.

Through the home market pledge the Republican party promised to exclude from American shores this annual billion dollars' worth of imported agricultural products and so to turn that billion dollar market over to the American farmer.

The exclusion was to be accomplished by a tariff revision which would wall off that inflow of competitive agricultural products.

This particular billion dollars of American money spent on agricultural products is now passing outside the boundaries of continental United States, and traveling to the Argentine, Cuba, the Philippines, the West Indies, the East Indies, Java, the Hawaiian islands, Germany, Holland, Porto Rico, and countless other far places.

How much good to American industry is a billion dollars of American money scattered over the four corners of the globe?

Perhaps some small fraction of it may be recovered by the American automobile manufacturer and the American movie corporation, but the bulk of it, obviously, is lost to American industry.

Consider now what would happen if that billion dollars, instead of being disbursed abroad, were disbursed among the American farmers living on the mainland of the United States.

The largest part of the sum would inevitably linger but a short time in the hands of the American farmers. It would quickly be turned over to the American manufacturers in exchange for products which the manufacturers have to sell.

Thus that billion dollars might be likened to a football which the United States government would toss to agriculture, and which agriculture, in turn, would toss to industry.

Logically, therefore, industry should be fighting as hard as agriculture to see the transfer of that billion dollar market effected.

Yet here we are confronted by the paradox that industry is opposing the fulfillment of the home market pledge instead of championing it. Here we are confronted by the paradox that industry is making extra and special efforts to escape the annual billion dollars' worth of sales freely offered it.

What causes industry to stand in its own light, to range itself against its own interests, to block its own advancement?

One need not hunt long to discover why.

The individual American industry is well-organized, but American industry as a whole is not.

It so happens that the interests of the individual American industry are often diametrically opposed to the interests of American industry as a whole.

Thus, while a fulfillment of the home market pledge in terms of casein might be harmful to one individual American industry, it would be helpful to American industry as a whole.

Or while a fulfillment of the home market pledge in terms of vegetable oils and fats might be harmful to one individual American industry, it would be helpful to American industry as a whole.

Or while a fulfillment of the home market pledge in terms of blackstrap molasses might be harmful to one individual American industry, it would be helpful to American industry as a whole.

Hence this strange situation develops: When a concrete issue is under fire, the one adversely affected industry, that is to say the one unrepresentative industry, is certain to speak for industry as a whole.

Industry as a whole, being unorganized, is inarticulate.

It remains silent and indifferent while the one individual industry which is really fighting its best interests volunteers to act as its spokesman.

In other words, industry as a whole is the victim of unrepresentative representatives.

Were industry organized as a solid unit, did it have a supreme directorate let us say, this sort of thing could never happen. The directorate would put all its power and weight and authority behind every move intended to fulfill the home market pledge made agriculture. The false credentials of the individual, vocal and unrepresentative industry would be exposed.

Surely it is high time that industry as a whole began to organize in its own defense.

A failure to redeem the home market pledge will cheat industry out of an annual billion dollars' worth of sales quite as certainly as it will do the same thing to agriculture. Agriculture's loss will be industry's and industry's will be agriculture's; the two are one and coterminous. Cannot American industry as a whole see the damage it is likely to suffer unless it finds some method of stamping out this evil of unrepresentative representation?

Editorial in the Minneapolis Tribune, October 25.

An Appalling Disparity

Since 1919 the income of American industry has increased from fifty billion to seventy-six billion dollars a year.

Industry's income in that period has increased 52 per cent since 1919. Agriculture's income has decreased from fifteen to twelve billion dollars.

In the same period that industry's income increased 52 per cent, agriculture's income decreased 20 per cent.

This appalling disparity may well give pause to any one forecasting the future prosperity of the nation.

The basis of wealth of the nation lies in a sound and prosperous agriculture.

The wiping out of billions of dollars of paper profits in the last few days irresistibly brings this fact home.

If this disparity between the incomes of agriculture and industry continues, agriculture finally will collapse. The collapse of agriculture means eventual disaster to industry.

THE MARKET COLLAPSE.

Those economists who have held that "excessive speculation contains its own cure within itself" can point to the collapse of the stock market as verification of their theory. The chief cause of the collapse was excessive speculation, and the collapse is the cure.

Unfortunately a collapse of the stock market has wider effects than the checking of unwarranted speculation. It adversely affects business that is not subjected to speculation. It gives rise to doubt and fear as to the future of business, and in connection with the reckless attempt to tear down the protective tariff the market collapse will probably bring about at least a temporary shrinkage of both production and consumption. This shrinkage will reduce incomes and cause unemployment to an extent that can not be estimated, but which will inevitably make itself manifest in reduced revenue from income taxes. Whether the sum total will be so large as to make tax reduction impossible can not be foreseen now, but it is safe to predict that the Treasury and Congress will not consider tax reduction unless the present financial paroxysm disappears without leaving permanent damage to prosperity.

No doubt the Senate's action in wrecking the tariff bill will be regarded by many observers as the chief reason for the market's collapse. This view is hardly tenable unless it is also admitted that the market was grotesquely inflated and thereby rendered unduly sensitive to adverse influences. If stocks had been selling at figures reasonably related to actual earnings it is not probable that the wrecking of the tariff bill would have precipitated a break. But speculation had boosted the price of stocks to insane figures, without regard to earnings. Tens of thousands of speculators bought stocks on margin for the purpose of making a turn, not knowing or caring what actual values lay buried beneath the fancy prices. The crash was overdue. Now that it has come speculators can not establish an alibi by blaming their folly upon others.

Some of the blame for the wreck can be laid at the doors of financiers who knew they were encouraging ruinous speculation. Bankers who should have kept funds employed in industry diverted these funds to Wall street. One or two outstanding bankers denounced the Federal Reserve Board a few months ago for trying to hold down brokers' loans. The tendency to indulge in wild speculation was deliberately encouraged by many bankers throughout the country. Some corporations that used funds for speculation instead of employing them in their own business will now be fortunate if they escape bankruptcy.

There need be no fear of a collapse of legitimate business and commerce. The country is economically healthy, and the readjustment of stock prices to a point where they more nearly represent actual earnings will not be injurious in the long run. The readjustment has come as a violent shock, but it should not be mistaken for the collapse of prosperity itself.

HELP FOR THE CRIPPLED.

Gov. Roosevelt of New York is taking the leadership in a movement to make natural springs of hot mineralized water available to victims of infantile paralysis. In instituting a colony of his own for this purpose, he is inviting philanthropists all over the country to give attention to the needs of cripples.

Medical science has not yet learned a way to cure infantile paralysis. From 5,000 to 10,000 persons suffer from the disease each year. Many of these people can be restored to health and usefulness through proper treatment, for which mineralized water is necessary. It is estimated that more than 500,000 cripples in the United States might be benefited in this way. Gov. Roosevelt hopes to interest wealthy persons in carrying the plan to all parts of the country.

"I think," said Gov. Roosevelt, "that cripples, children or adult, are worth taking an interest in. Economically, restorative work is sound; humanely, it is right. It is reaching out to a field which no other agency is now caring for adequately." He has launched a worthy undertaking which should have the support of philanthropists.

THE NATION'S WATERWAYS.

In his Louisville speech, delivered during the celebration marking the completion of the Ohio River improvement project, President Hoover definitely committed his administration to the development of the rivers, lakes and harbors of the United States into a coordinated arterial waterway transportation system. "As a general and broad policy," he said, "I favor modernizing of every part of our waterways which will show economic justification in aid of our farmers and industry." The influence of the President should go far in rallying for the development of waterways.

The first active work for controlling the Ohio and making it navigable on a year-round basis was undertaken in August, 1878, with the Davis Island Dam, a few miles below Pittsburgh. In the intervening 50 years, $125,000,000 has been expended on the project. Fifty dams are located in the 1,000-mile stretch between Pittsburgh and Cairo, and a uniform 9-foot channel is available 365 days of the year. Prior to construction of locks and dams the maximum number of days of coal navigation stage in any one year was 212, or 7 months, and the minimum was 69 days, or 2⅓ months. As sectional improvements were completed the volume of freight carried steadily increased, until in 1928 it totaled almost 21,000,000 tons. And it is only now that the Ohio waterway has been connected with the lower Mississippi system, the main trunk line.

As the other projects enumerated by the President are carried through to completion, facilities for cheap transportation of primary materials will reflect in lowered production costs throughout all industry. The organization for carrying forward the work has been made available. Under the newly appointed chief of engineers there has been assigned to each of the major projects a competent officer who will be held responsible for the success of the undertaking. Appropriations in excess of the $85,000,000 annual average that has been expended upon river and harbor improvement will be needed, but in view of the benefits that will accrue from the development there should be no disposition in Congress to withhold the necessary funds.

MEDICAL CARE FOR ALL.

Secretary Wilbur has made known his sympathy with the movement to put expert medical care at the disposal of all people, regardless of their economic status. Speaking at the dedication exercises for the new medical building of the University of Virginia, he called upon the medical profession to face the "great new responsibility forced upon it by the rapid evolution of a new economic order." Readjustment is inevitable, he said, and the necessary shifts should be made under the leadership of the profession.

Medical men have given their attention almost wholly to diagnosis and cure of bodily ills. In this respect notable progress has been made. Through the generosity of philanthropists, civic organizations and public institutions the advantages of medical care have been extended to a large percentage of indigent persons. The problem that has become acute is providing medical care for the millions in moderate circumstances to whom physicians' fees and hospital expenses are a burden. The people know, Secretary Wilbur pointed out, that they are not getting full advantage of all the forces that are available. "We have the facts," he said, "we have the trained physicians and nurses, but we have not as yet been able to meet the ideal of seeing that each member of civilized society obtains that advantage which is possible to him if he can get his share from the great pool of scientific medicine."

Whether or not the medical profession is responsible for this condition, it is generally agreed that it can be best remedied under the leadership of the profession. Secretary Wilbur, who is a member of the profession, is convinced that the situation calls for united action on the part of medical men. Physicians can not prosper and the people can not receive the benefits they should until an economic organization has been perfected, in his opinion. Many other prominent medical men share this opinion. The profession could well afford to divert the attention of some of its most brilliant thinkers from problems of research to those universally applying what is already known. Perhaps no greater service could be rendered to medicine and humanity than an acceptable plan to make medical treatment available to all.

IN AFGHANISTAN.

Having tired several months ago of reading about the rapid succession of kings in Afghanistan, the public will be relieved to know that Bacha Sakao, the young man who rose from the lowly estate of a water boy to that of a monarch, has surrendered with his 1,000 loyal adherents, and the country is again at peace. Eleven months ago the advent of a new king would have meant only a new turn in the insurrection. But it appears that the mountain tribes have had all they want of civil war, and are ready to welcome peace under any monarch strong enough to maintain it.

Nadir Khan, a former loyal supporter of King Amanullah, captured the capital at Kabul nearly two weeks ago, and was immediately proclaimed king. The water-boy king took refuge in Fortress Djebul-Serabj, but decided to surrender after a week's siege, on condition that all of his followers would be granted amnesty. Now, it appears, political affairs are in about the same state as when the tradition-loving tribes rebelled against King Amanullah's western reforms. Nadir Khan has assured the former monarch, who is now exiled in Rome, that the Amanullah era will be "engraved in golden letters in the history of Afghanistan." The new government, he adds, will "follow loyally the path traced by you."

In spite of these intimations that the eleven months of civil war have been in vain, the people are reported to be rejoicing over the triumph of Nadir Khan. Merchants throughout the country are collecting funds to support him, and he is receiving innumerable congratulations. Whether or not the new king will go as far as Amanullah in the introduction of western ideas and customs is problematical, but at any rate the tribesmen seem to have decided that civil war can be even more annoying than tailored trousers and shaven beards. However, the inconvenience of war can be easily forgotten in Afghanistan, and the reconciliation between tradition and modern civilization may not be as enduring as the present enthusiasm suggests.

APPOINTMENTS TO OFFICE.

President Hoover is to be congratulated upon the stand against indiscriminate distribution of patronage. Immediately after his inauguration he made it plain that nominees recommended to him for Federal appointments must measure up to high standards of public service. The dispute over appointment of District Attorney Hughes in Florida indicates that the work of reorganizing patronage dispensing machinery in the South is not yet complete, but the President's attitude has not changed.

A number of candidates recommended by the Florida organization were investigated by the Department of Justice and none of them proved suitable. Mr. Hoover acted on the theory that the "appointive responsibility rests in the President, not in any organization" and selected a district attorney of his own. In response to demands that the organization be allowed to dictate appointments irrespective of merit or presidential responsibility and threats of an attack on the administration if the demands were not complied with Mr. Hoover replied that "the success of the Republican party rests upon good government, not on patronage."

The President will have the support of the people in this position. He stands to gain far more popularity by fearless appointments of capable men than he ever could by distributing Federal offices as political plums. In judicial appointments, particularly, the President is morally bound to ignore political considerations in choosing the best and most upright judges he can find.

Six tons of old-style currency are being burned daily. Seems like a pity, when so many people could make use of it.

Guess that fellow who is boasting that chemistry will make war impossible has never heard of Ramsay MacDonald.

THE NAVAL QUESTION

By Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, U. S. N., Retired, in Plain Talk.

The difficulty in agreeing in regard to parity is not in the agreement that we shall have parity but as to how parity can be attained. The difficulty arises from the extreme complexity of the composition of every navy and from the great differences that now exist between the various arms of the American and British navies. These difficulties are caused by the different conditions which these two navies have to meet. The main difference is in the fact that Britain has many outlying stations and is a small island, whereas the United States has fewer outlying possessions and has a large self-contained area. Also, Britain has many naval bases, and we have almost none worthy of the name. This brings about the situation that the British need a much greater number of cruisers than we do, but do not need such large ones. The amount of property to be protected in both cases is about the same. It is easily seen that the difficulties of adjusting the various arms so as to achieve parity between the navies themselves are very great.

Clearly, the problem divides itself into three parts: 1. Parity between the American and British fleets. 2. Parity between the American and British merchant marines. 3. Parity between the American and British naval bases.

We should of course realize that if parity could be attained in each of these three arms of naval strength complete parity would be attained.

Some of us would doubtless object that it would be unnecessary to achieve parity in each arm; provided that parity would be attained in the totality of the arms. To this objection it is highly probable that some member of our supposititious commission would ask the innocent question "How?"

Now such a question would be distinctly unkind; because it would (if seriously entertained) put the commission in a hole. If so many battleships were known to equal so many merchant liners, or so many naval bases; and if so many cruisers were known to be equal to so many battleships; and if a battleship two years old was known to be equal to so many battleships three years old; and if the ratio of value was known between any ship of so many guns and so much speed and another ship of the same tonnage but with a different number of guns and different speed; and if the ratio of value between a naval base 1,000 miles away from its country and a naval base of exactly equal size and age but 2,000 miles away from its country was known, we might be able to translate one arm into another; just as any bank can, on any day, change pounds sterling into dollars and cents after looking at the day's quotations.

But we should soon see that no such "quotations" as to the relative values of the units of the three arms exist. No recognized laws exist even as to how any evaluation could be worked out. No data exist on which any system of evaluation could be based. And if we had such data today the "quotations" would have to be rejected just as soon as any important new invention or novel ship appeared. The new German cruiser Preussen, for instance, has disturbed, and perhaps destroyed, whatever ideas of relative naval values we held a year ago. How great this effect will finally be found to be we can only guess; but that it will be far-reaching and profound there can be no question.

If all women loved Jimmy and all men loved Jane
This world were a battlefield strewn with the slain.

If what May sees in Joseph all women could see
What a terrible mess would this life of ours be.

If what Frank sees in Clara all other men saw
We'd have bloodshed and murder in spite of the law.

So when Arthur goes courting his Annabelle fair
It is well that the rest of the world doesn't care.

If you can't see what love in another can see
Just be glad that you can't, for that's how it should be.

An Ounce of Poison Is Just as Poison As a Quart.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ONE of the popular magazines recently printed an article captioned: "Has an unmarried woman the right to a child?"

It made sensational reading; it offended the staid, the orthodox and the rigidly moral; it caused much talk.

And thus it justified itself as a magazine feature, for the business of a magazine is to get itself sold.

But the article had no other justification, and doubtless had done and will do incalculable harm.

To ask whether an unmarried woman has the right to bear a child is like asking whether a private individual has the right to make counterfeit money.

What is right?

Certainly there is no moral wrong in making a steel plate, covering it with ink and pressing it against a piece of paper.

And if the work is so perfectly done that no expert can detect the counterfeit and the money passes as legal tender until it is worn out, so that no individual suffers loss, it is clearly apparent that no wrong has been done and where no wrong is done, there is no immorality.

Yet the fact remains that the individual has no right to make counterfeit, for the work never is perfect; the fraud is detected, and somebody suffers loss.

Moreover, if many individuals made counterfeits, even perfect ones, money would lose its value and everybody would suffer.

The unmarried woman's right to a child is denied by the same obvious logic.

It can be argued that child-bearing is the purpose of mating; that mating is ordained by nature to preserve the species; that women mated and bore children before state or church existed to restrain and direct; that what is moral and necessary in nature can not be made immoral by man-made definition of morality.

But the fact remains that organized society must, for the sake of mother and child alike, fix the conditions under which the child can be borne.

If all should bear children without the law's consent, fathers would shed responsibility as cattle do and mothers and children would suffer.

That is the answer. No one individual can have a right that is not common to all, and if a thing is harmful and immoral when done by all members of society, it is wrong when done by one individual.

Standards of morality change with time and place, but there is no right for Peter that is wrong for Paul.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

PERILS OF THE AIR.

A German airplane has made a flight with 169 persons. This is the first case of mass flying in history and confirms the world's worst fears. It just goes to show that even by climbing into an airplane it is going to be impossible to get away from crowds.

• • • •

Why should anybody want to fly in a plane with 168 other passengers? It must be practically the same as catching a subway train.

• • • •

There has heretofore been something unique about flying. A trip by air meant privacy; it brought a measure of distinction; it carried a guarantee that you wouldn't get stepped on, poked in the ribs or knocked down by a man with an armful of bundles.

• • • •

A lady tourist knew she could travel by air and not have a stranger sit down in her lap going around a curve.

• • • •

She knew no passengers would dislocate her arm going in or wrench her shoulders getting out. Flying had its dangers, but it was safer than the subway.

• • • •

When the Graf-Zep came along with the first list of bunched passengers some misgivings were felt, but the worst was not feared until the world got the news that the Dornier had taken 169 passengers for a sky-ride. After that anything can happen.

• • • •

Making that kind of flight has a major disadvantage at the very start. What cigarette company can pay for 169 indorsements?

• • • •

What is going to be the satisfaction of boasting that you have just made a transatlantic flight if 168 other people are all shouting the same thing at the same time?

• • • •

And what about writing for the newspapers? No one is going to sign up 169 writers to cover one airship trip.

• • • •

If these big passenger planes are perfected and put into operation it will mean that passengers will be faced with all the confusion and turmoil of a holiday trip home from a vacation resort. All the seats will be taken and a passenger with a stateroom ticket will open the door and find it occupied by a family of Polish acrobats.

• • • •

IS THERE A VILLAGE RUMPOT IN THE HOUSE?

Mr. Ford has put about everything old-fashioned into that reproduction of an early American town, but it will not have exactly the right touch until it has a cider-mill, a soldiers' monument, a haunted house, a village bandstand with a terrible cornetist at his worst and a barber shop with the village drunkard asleep on the bottom step.

• • • •

The position of village drunkard at the Ford town has not been filled. It is getting more and more difficult to find a good sample, agents report. Most of those now in existence are mere tipplers and are even sober Sundays. To find a good old-fashioned town sot is a pretty difficult task. Henry may have to reproduce one.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Violations of Traffic Signal Lights Winked At—Traffic Police Should Be Eliminated.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Ever since the authorities have winked at the electric traffic signal system to the extent of allowing traffic to cross on the yellow light, crossings have been growing perilous.

The sooner we get automatic signals at the important as well as semi-important crossings, the sooner all will get a square deal, and much of the so-called "problems" of traffic congestion will disappear. The real problem is to get the traffic system free of the "human" inefficiency, which makes crossing so varied and uncertain at present. The use of police at crossings is an economic waste to the community and very inhuman to the men forced to do such duty. It does not take a "traffic expert" to see this. W. E. ALLEN.

World Traveler, an Englishman, Comments on American Naval Defense.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A German newspaper states that ten United States battleships, which will become obsolete in 1932, are to be scrapped upon that date, and not replaced, thus reducing the strength of the United States Navy by ten battleships.

I can hardly believe this statement. Such a reduction of America's defenses would be suicidal.

BERTRAND SHADWELL.

THE ORIGINAL FORGE SITE.

The Valley Forge Park Commission may be congratulated upon discovering, after many months of excavating, the site of the original forge for which the shrine was named. There were at least three, and possibly four, forges in the vicinity, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, but exploration has been chiefly interested in the one which was burned by the British prior to the American Encampment at Valley Forge. Although often called the Mount Joy forge, the designation in some records, such as wills, appears to have been Valley Forge, and that name was adopted for its successor.

Valley Forge has enjoyed a place apart in American history, because it differs from most shrines in commemorating no physical battle, victory or defeat, but a testing time that tried men's souls. It was a struggle against starvation and climatic elements, against discouragement, against an enemy more formidable than human power could place in the field. As a military exploit it lacked glamour; as a tragedy it was classically perfect.

The present archeological activity, therefore, will probably add little to our knowledge of the military side of those stirring events. But more fitting to the modern conception of history, the research enlarges our view of the economic and social conditions in this region at that time. Before anthracite culm had turned the Schuylkill a Stygian hue the banks of the lower river glowed with the flames of Vulcan and a thriving iron industry. The ore was found not far away, and abundant timber land supplied the fuel. Franklin stoves were made at Valley Forge, as was other hardware essential to home and farm. The British destroyed the plant to curtail the output of revolutionary munitions. Today Conshohocken and Phoenixville are reminders of the Schuylkill's iron age.

In the same connection may be noted the fact that minerals have been unearthed at Valley Forge in a variety rivaling that known anywhere in the State. Of course, they do not exist in paying quantity. Even if they did they would hardly be smelted so far from the sources of fuel. The steel industry followed the course of empire westward to the coal regions. But it is interesting to learn that Valley Forge is a link to Philadelphia's industrial past as well as to its military glories.

FOOLISH CENSORSHIP.

Won't some metaphysician with a fine legal mind, asks the Boston Herald, or some lawyer with a metaphysical background please try to explain the recent course of banning in Boston

Scribner's Magazine of May contained the first installment of Ernest Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms." Nobody seems to have objected. When the June number appeared, the police suppressed it on complaint of somebody whose identity has not been made known. The Watch and Ward Society suppressed the July, August, September and October numbers of the magazine. The story appeared in book form on September 27. The Herald reviewed it last Saturday. Neither the police nor the Watch and Ward Society has moved to suppress the volume. That is commendable inaction, but why, if the book itself is unobjectionable to our two censorship agencies, did they suppress five out of six installments?

The Watch and Ward Society announced yesterday in the Herald that the unexpurgated book version of "Strange Interlude" is unobjectionable. The expurgated stage version was banned in Boston by the mayor. Just where are we at?

SUNDAES IN AFRICA

The American ice cream soda has proved delectable to the palates of residents of Accra, capital of the African Gold Coast, according to the Wall Street Journal, where a lone soda fountain is doing a notable business.

Extension of the typically American soda fountain to Africa recalls other pioneer merchandising done by Americans in foreign countries. A noteworthy example was the Boston merchant's venture in the sale of ice cream in India and other Far Eastern countries. Ships laden with cakes, housed and frozen solid in the hold before the windjammers set out from port, sailed from Massachusets bay, bringing ice to cool the drinks of expatriated Englishmen. Brother merchants called the venture foolhardy, but changed their tune when their confreres began to reap a harvest of profits.

2,500 Present At Exhibition Of Belgian Art

Brilliant Company Sees Formal Opening at Corcoran Gallery.

By JEAN ELIOT.

SPONSORED by the President of the United States and the king of the Belgians, an exhibition of contemporary Belgian art and its formal opening last night at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, with 2,500 guests from official, diplomatic and resident society invited to this private view.

Most of them seemed to be present—to judge from the brilliant company which thronged the two large rooms in the older portion of the gallery, in which the pictures are hung, and overflowed into the great hallway, where the sculpture and drawings of the collection are shown. There was no formal receiving line, but the trustees of the Corcoran Gallery of Art, with its director, Mr. C. Powell Minnigerode, were present to welcome the guests and to see that they had a comprehensive—and comprehending—view of the exhibits. Many from the Diplomatic Corps were present, as well as Cabinet members, representatives of other official groups and members of the various art organizations of the city.

They broke up into animated groups, examining the pictures and chatting with friends, until the reception took on much the atmosphere of a "varnishing day" in a London or Paris gallery.

The exhibition, which will be on public view from today until November 30, is being held under the auspices of the European and American art committees. In contrast with the rather radical work of a score of famous Belgian artists of today, a collection of paintings and sculpture by Meunier, all in the traditional manner, is being shown. For the rest the exhibition is composed entirely of work done within the last 25 years. Among the famous artists represented are Anto Carte, Fritz van den Berghe, James Ensor, Eugene Laermans, Georges Latinis, Edgard Tytgat, Jan Brusselmans and Gustave de Swet, all ultramodern in their approach.

The Belgian Ambassador and Princess de Ligne, who have been enthusiastic in their interest in the exhibition, attended the reception with guests from the dinner party which they gave preceding the fete. They entertained a large and distinguished company. The Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, was present, as were Mr. Frederick Starr president of the European and American art committee; M. Louis Pierard, of Brussels, who came over to install the exhibition, and Dr. Christian Brinton, who aided in its preparation.

This afternoon M. Pierard will give a lecture at the gallery on "Past and Present Belgian Art."

Swiss Envoy Host At Luncheon Today.

The Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Peter will entertain at luncheon at the legation today.

Mr. Carol A. Davilla, Minister of Roumania, was the guest in whose honor Maj. Radu Irimesco gave a dinner Wednesday night at the Ritz-Carlton in New York. In the party were Mrs. Irimesco, Miss Rose Bullard, Miss Betty Byrne, Mr. Frederic C. Nano, First Secretary of the Legation, and Mr. George Bonesco, Financial Counselor of the Legation.

Mr. David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aviation, and Mrs. Ingalls, are in town after having been at the Homestead at Hot Springs.

Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom will entertain at dinner on Sunday evening, taking their guests later to see the premiere on Anne Nichols' play, "She Walked Home," at Poli's Theater. Among their guests will be the Counselor of the Austrian Embassy and Baroness Hauenschild and Mr. Stanley Hornbeck. Representative Ruth Bryan Owen and Representative Ruth Baker Pratt will also entertain guests for the opening of this new play by the creator of "Abie's Irish Rose."

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, past president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, entertained at dinner in the crystal room of the Willard last night. Mrs. Brosseau will leave for Hot Springs the end of the week.

Bulend Bey, Second Secretary of the Turkish Embassy, has taken an apartment at the Hay-Adams House.

Waggamans Hosts To Son and Fiancee.

Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman entertained last evening for their son, Mr. Ennalls Waggaman, jr., and his fiancee, Miss Virginia Belt, the dinner following the rehearsal for their wedding, which will be solemnized tomorrow. The guests were members of the bridal party. Tonight Mr. Waggaman will give his bachelor dinner at his parents' residence in Kalorama road.

Miss Florence Wetherill and Mr. Albert Walker, whose marriage will take place tomorrow, were the guests for whom Mr. and Mrs. John E. Parker entertained at dinner last evening at the Club Chantecler, the company remaining to dance. There were 30 guests, among them the bridal party.

Lady Fairhaven, of London, who is at the Savoy-Plaza in New York for the early season, left Wednesday for a few days in Fairhaven, Mass., the birthplace of her father, the late Col. Henry Huddleston Rogers.

Peruvian Diva Will Sing at Concert Here

Mme. d'Alvarez Is to Be Guest Artist at Pan-American.

The invitations which Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, has issued for a concert of Latin-American music at the Pan-American Union on December 16, bring the welcome news that Mme. Margarita d'Alvarez is to be the guest artist. This famous Peruvian contralto, who has won laurels as an opera and concert singer all over the world, is known to us here socially as a sister of Senor J. Alvarez de Beunavista, the popular Secretary of the Peruvian Embassy.

Mme. d'Alvarez once sang the role of Delilah very thrillingly in a production of "Samson and Delilah," presented by the Washington Opera Company in Baltimore. She has occasionally appeared in Washington in concert and from time to time friends of Senor Alvarez de Beunavista have had opportunity to hear his sister's glorious voice in intimate recitals at his apartment.

At the concert at the Pan-American Union, the artist will be assisted by the United Service Orchestra. The concert is one of a series, prolonged over several years, which the Pan-American Union sponsors as a means of familiarizing the people of the United States with the music of Latin America. The programs are always broadcast over a nation-wide hook-up.

Families Are Together Only a Few Years . . .

And then the children leave. They grow up and go out into the world to fight life's battle for themselves. And this is right, if they are to be the men and women you would have them be. But there's a certain sadness, too, in seeing them so capable, so self-sufficient. And then it is that an Underwood portrait of the group as they were when they were so dependent approaches its splendid solemn value.

Saturday is children's day at the Studio! Let us photograph you all together.

SCIENTIFIC BASIS FOR LAW IS URGED

Bar Group Joins Medical Men in Backing Psychiatric Examinations.

POLITICS HELD OBSTACLE

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The evolution of medicine and engineering which brought those fields to a standard based on scientific principles is needed for the field of the law, the American Association, spokesman for the 30,000 lawyers, voted today in accepting a report of its section on criminal law.

Restatement of the law, a work which the American Law Institute started in 1920, and hopes to complete by 1940, is not sufficient for an intensive reexamination of every principle of criminal law to determine if the legal leaders in the days of witchcraft built conclusively and definitely enough for modern usage, Justin Miller, dean of the Law School of Southern California, and chairman of the criminal law section, told the convention.

Mr. Miller, in his report, which was adopted, said "ephemeral politically controlled commissions" can not hope to parallel the work of the laboratory conditioned scientific experimenter."

Medical Men Supported.

The association adopted the following resolutions, long advocated by the American Medical Association and the American Psychiatric Association:

"That there be available to every juvenile and criminal court a psychiatric service.

"That no criminal be sentenced for any felony in any case where the judge has any discretion as to the sentence until a psychiatric report is filed.

"That a psychiatric report be made on every prisoner before release.

"That each State establish a system of administrative transfer and parole, and that no decision of a parole or transfer be made without a psychiatric report."

No Bankruptcy Action.

Mr. Miller advocated before his section that bootlegging be made a misdemeanor, but the suggestion was not included in the section's report.

Recent New York City bankruptcy cases claimed attention of the lawyers during the report of the commercial law section. The bar took no action, however, agreeing to await completion of the official investigations. The association adopted the report which stated that the bankruptcy law of 1898 was ideal in principle, but that its administration sometimes is faulty because judges show favoritism on occasions in selection of receivers. The point of law that receivers are not always necessary in bankruptcy cases was stressed.

Soviet Aviators Arrive in Chicago

300 Greet Plane From Moscow on Its Way to New York.

Chicago, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—En route to New York on their projected round-the-world flight, the four Russian fliers in the monoplane Land of the Soviets arrived at Curtiss Airport at 3 o'clock today after a nonstop trip from North Platte, Nebr.

Greeted by a crowd of about 300 civic leaders, army men and aviation enthusiasts, the fliers were driven to Chicago and went to the hotel, which will be their headquarters tomorrow. Formal greetings of the city will be extended at a luncheon in their honor. They were welcomed by Capt. W. W. Duncan, air corps officer for this area, who was designated to extend full military courtesies.

The fliers followed the air mail route from Oakland, Calif., to Chicago, by way of North Platte. They expect to hop off for New York Monday.

Memorial Rites Held For Czar and Family

A memorial service in commemoration of the Russian imperial family and those who perished in the World War was held last night at the Epiphany Church, 1317 G street northwest, by the congregation of St. Alexander's Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church. The service was performed by the Rev. Viachislav Gindlin, rector of St. Alexander's.

The Rev. Robert Shores, of St. Margaret's Church, outlined the history of the Russian Orthodox Catholic Church; the struggle for existence the church and Christian people had in Russia; the campaign of extermination which bathed the nation in blood; the order of the Soviet government ending in the killing of the czar, and the destruction of 10,000,000 persons.

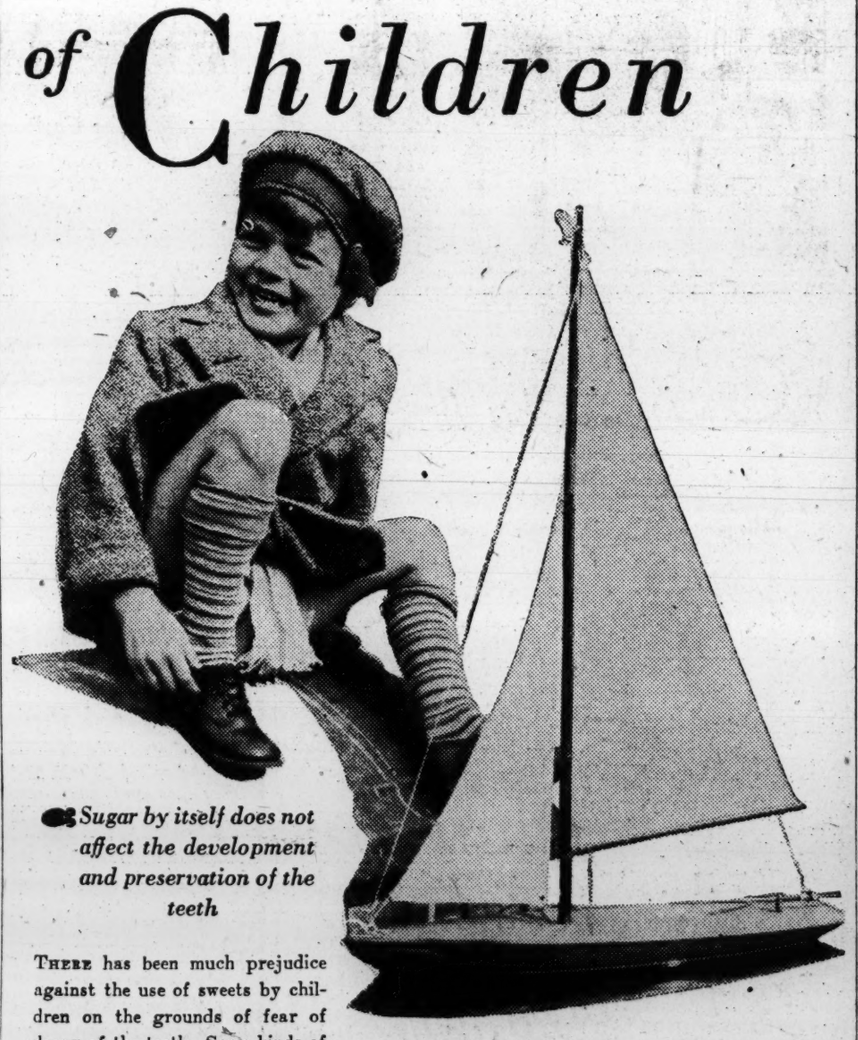
Sugar & the TEETH of Children



Sugar by itself does not affect the development and preservation of the teeth

THERE has been much prejudice against the use of sweets by children on the grounds of fear of decay of the teeth. Some kinds of candy collect around the teeth as do many other foodstuffs. The remedy is to keep the teeth clean—not to avoid the foodstuffs in question.

Sugar by itself does not affect the development and preservation of the teeth. The healthy development of the teeth depends upon the minerals and vitamins in the diet, and the sunshine which the child enjoys. In the variety of foods required by the child, a reasonable amount of sugar offers advantageous use. Sugar makes fruits, vegetables and cereals appetizing and attractive.

The craving for sweets is natural to the growing child. With the proper selection of foodstuffs, seasoned with sugar, this craving will be met. The bones and teeth will be properly formed. The muscles will be ruggedly developed and all the essential processes of nutrition will be maintained.

Added to a properly selected diet, no hygienic reason can be urged against the use of sugar by children, including candy at the end of a meal. Scientific reasons are, in fact, in favor of such use.

Guard the health of growing children through a variety of foods made palatable by sugar used as a flavor. The Sugar Institute.

KIDNAPED BOY FOUND AS SEVEN ARE HELD

Three Weeks' Search Ends as Detroit Police Raid Suspected House.

RANSOM NOTES MARKED

Detroit, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—A three weeks' search for 5-year-old Jackie Thompson was at an end tonight with five men and two women in jail as suspects in connection with the kidnaping of the child September 30. Jackie was returned to his home by police last night, apparently none the worse for his experience.

The first arrests were made last night by police who raided a small house 20 minutes after Henry S. Thompson, the child's father, had paid two men $25,000 ransom in marked money.

The suspects are James Fernando, 39, in whose home the child was found; his wife, Anna, 23; Emil Saove, 23, found in the Fernando home; Anthony Daguanno, 28, and his wife, Mary, 19.

Abbruzzi and DeGeorge were arrested late today when they appeared separated at the house where the boy was found last night. A patrolman who had been left on guard made the arrests.

Boy Is Found Playing.

Fernando, Daguanno and Saove are charged with kidnaping, while Abruzzi, De George and the two women are held for investigation. The women were arrested last night when they appeared at headquarters to inquire about Fernando and Saove. Daguanno was arrested today when he appeared at the Fernando home. Jackie was found playing in the house when the police arrived. Fernando, entering soon thereafter, was arrested.

Police said they found $5,000 of the ransom money in his possession.

The payment of the ransom early last night followed nearly three weeks of negotiations between the kidnapers and Thompson, police said. Two abortive attempts were made to pay the ransom during the past fortnight. Police said Thompson received the first communication from the kidnapers soon after Jackie's disappearance.

Seven Notes Received.

An anonymous telephone call informed him of a letter addressed to him which might be had at the general delivery window of a postal substation. Altogether seven notes were received by Thompson, police said. The initial demand was for $35,000 and included a threat to cut off the child's head unless the sum was furnished.

Although police knew of the negotiations, they said they took no steps until last night for fear of bringing harm to the child.

Police said Thompson paid two emissaries of the kidnapers $17,000 in marked $20, $50 and $100 bills and then gave them four $2,000 notes for the balance.

Special Operatives Used.

The Detroit News said today it had learned local authorities were augmented by special operatives from New York and New Jersey, employed by a private organization. According to the News, some of the negotiations with the kidnapers were carried on by these operatives. One attempt to pay the ransom failed and $20,000 was returned to Thompson when the money was paid the wrong men, the story said.

On another occasion the transaction failed to come off when detectives insisted on being witnesses. According to the News, it was the outside agency which started the negotiations which ended in the marked money being paid last night.

District Men Cleared In Automobile Death

George Dougherty and Joseph E. Lowe, both of this city, were exonerated by a coroner's jury last night in the Prince Georges County Police Court at Hyattsville, Md., at an inquest into the death Sunday of Reginald Shepherd, colored, 48 years old.

The jury found that Shepherd came to his death as a result of his own negligence. Testimony developed that an automobile, operated by Dougherty and owned by Lowe, and another car driven by the negro crashed on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard near Berwyn. Shepherd, it was said, was driving at an excessive rate of speed. Justice of the Peace Herbert J. Moffatt presided at the inquest.

Train Crashes Truck; Overturns; Three Dead

Walton, Ky., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—A Louisville and Nashville passenger train struck a truck at a crossing here today. The locomotive turned over and the engineer, fireman and driver of the truck were killed.

Four baggage cars and a mail car were derailed and went down a 10-foot embankment without overturning, the crews in them escaping injury. No passengers were reported hurt. The engineer, Kelly W. Frazier, Louisville, and the truck driver, John English, Walton, were killed instantly. Thomas M. Burns, Louisville, the fireman, died half an hour after the wreck.

Atlanta Banker Gets Seven Years in Prison

Atlanta, Oct. 24 A.P.).—W. D. Manley, former president of the defunct Bankers Trust Co. and head of a chain of more than 80 banks in Florida and Georgia, which failed, today was found guilty of using the mails to defraud by a jury in Federal district court here and was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary and fined $10,000.

Officers Minus Warrants Search J. Lister Hill's Car

Alabama Representative Is Halted on Night Ride Near Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Representative J. Lister Hill, of Montgomery, reported today that his car was searched for liquor last Friday night by State officers who were without search warrants.

Hill said he and an uncle, W. W. Hill, Montgomery attorney, were returning from Greenville when an automobile which was parked near a bridge railing suddenly blocked the highway.

The representative said he brought his machine to a halt and a man stepped to the left side of the car, not showing a badge or announcing that he was an officer. When asked what h wanted, Mr. Hill said, the man inspected the car closely and after remarking that the occupants did not look like liquor runners, waved them ahead.

Alex Roquemore, Montgomery gravel dealer, complained today that his automobile was searched near the same place last night. He said the men who stopped him told him they were State officers.

Law enforcement officers said today they had searched numerous cars in this vicinity recently in a drive against rum runners. They said the incidents involving Representative Hill and Mr. Roquemore were cases of mistaken identity.

M Street Doctor Held in Drug Case

Dr. Frederick Yates Is Accused of Selling Morphine; Held in $2,500 Bail.

Dr. Frederick Yates, of M street northwest, near Ninth street, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on a charge of sale of morphine and ordered held under $2,500 bond.

Yates pleaded not guilty and will be given a hearing this morning. He declared that in 25 years of practice as a physician he had never sold or used morphine illegally.

The pyhsician was arrested on a warrant sworn to by Federal Narcotic Inspector John W. McDonald. Alfred W. Judson, who was arraigned before the commissioner earlier in the week on a charge of forging narcotic prescriptions, was named on the warrant as a Government witness.

Four Mexicans Killed In Dynamite Explosion

Houston, Tex., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Four unidentified Mexicans were blown to bits this afternoon near Sugar Land, 24 miles from here, when several cases of dynamite exploded.

The four men, members of a dredging crew of the Sugar Land Industries, were eating their lunches while seated on cases containing the explosive.

New Heart Attack Hits Clemenceau

Camphor Injections Aid War-Time Premier to Go Through Mail.

Paris, Oct. 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Former Premier Georges Clemenceau suffered another heart attack early this morning similar to that which caused national anxiety Sunday night.

Camphor injections restored his heart action to normal and a few hours later he sat up and went through his morning mail. He was obliged to renounce work on his memoirs for the day.

Dr. Degennes, leaving "the Tiger's" flat in the Rue Franklin after his last visit there, said: "Things are not going so badly now. He is much better than he was during the night, but the threatened lung congestion has been absorbed. But still, because of his great age (the French war-time premier is 88) one must write a guarded prediction."

The condition of former Premier Raymond Poincare, recuperating from a pelvis operation, is reported tonight to be "more satisfactory."

New Law Gives Mexicans Right to Murder and Rob

Slayer of Untrue Mate Not to Be Punished if Victim Is His First One; Alienists Substituted for Juries.

Mexico City, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Publication in the official gazette of the new penal code to take effect December 15 has aroused a storm of criticism of the measure, which has been termed "ridiculous ideal" and "a monstrous absurdity."

Chief among the clauses criticized are those permitting robbery "once" to satisfy hunger, and stipulating that a father will not be punished for killing his daughter and her seducer in case they are caught in an act, or about to commit an act, which would involve sacrifice of her honor, and allowing man or woman to slay the mate who commits adultery.

In the last-mentioned case the code provides that the slayer will not be punished if it is the first time he has killed. In addition to slaying his mate he or she would be given the right to take the life of the other party involved in adultery.

Opponents of the measure assert it amounts to sanction of murder and opens a loophole for escaping punishment when punishment is deserved. The robbery-to-satisfy-hunger clause also is impracticable, they hold, and say that the code will increase rather than fulfill its purpose of lessening it.

The code does away with the jury system and substitutes in its stead trial by bodies of alienists and other experts. It abolishes the death penalty and sets up a "tribunal of honor" to which persons involved in disputes threatening a duel are obliged to go for arbitration.

President Portes Gil signed the code under special powers granted him by Congress.

Woman Captured In Rum-Laden Car

Mrs. Dolores Hoffman's Arrest Follows Chase Along Bladensburg Road.

Captured in an automobile chase of more than a mile along Bladensburg road northeast yesterday, Mrs. Dolores Hoffman, 40 years old, of K street northeast, near Eleventh street, wife of Dr. L. Ellis W. Hoffman, who is serving a 30-year prison term for the killing of Miss Eleanor Lehman two years ago, was arrested yesterday.

Prior to being registered at the police station on charges of transporting and possessing liquor, Mrs. Hoffman was treated at Sibley Hospital for bruises.

According to police, Patrolman John H. Major, of the Twelfth Precinct, was patroling Bladensburg road in a police car when he gave chase to a speeding automobile.

After the two cars had coursed a mile, Major reported, the pursued car came to a stop and a man fled from the vehicle. Mrs. Hoffman, in an attempt to escape, fell and injured herself. Police reported that 144 quarts of whisky were found in the car.

BEAN HOLE BEANS

Far in the forests of Maine you will find beans like them. The North Woods cook could show you how the great, iron bean pot was filled with layers of beans and sugar-cured pork, sweetened with sugar and molasses, sealed with clay and buried in fragrant, smouldering embers thru the night in his earthen "bean hole."

No wonder they're so good

All the tang of the deep forests—all the brawn-building food of woodsmen—all the delicious, distinctive taste and "baked outdoors" flavor—different and better than any beans you ever bought—Bean Hole Beans.

It's so easy to try them tonight. Turn the can in a buttered baking dish and put them in the oven for 15 or 20 minutes. See what your family says about the "baked-in-the-ground" flavor of piping hot, crispy, crackly, brown Bean Hole Beans. Two sizes, medium, 15c; large, 25c.

Damrosch to Direct Over Radio Today

Stringed Instruments and Classic Suite on Program This Morning. Garber Orchestra in Dance Music on WMAL.

The study of the stringed instruments and the classic suite will be directed by Walter Damrosch, dean of American conductors, in the third of the NBC music appreciation hours and the second in series "A" and series "B," which will be presented over a nation-wide network of the National Broadcasting Co. system, including WRC, at 11 o'clock this morning. The program details follow:

First half hour—Stringed instruments: Air for the G string, J. S. Bach; violin solo by Mr. Gusikoff; violoncello solo by Mr. Kirsch, and "Molly on the Shore," Grainger.

Second half hour—Classic suite: Suite in C, J. S. Bach, arranged by Damrosch: 1, overture; 2, Courante; 3, Garotte; 4, Forlane; 5, Minuet; 6, Bouree; 7, Passepied.

Gov. Bibb Graves, of Alabama, a visitor in New York, will speak during the Evening Star's program, which will be dedicated to Station WAPI, Birmingham, at 12:10 o'clock from Station WRC. The chief executive of Alabama will talk for 10 minutes, delivering a message to his own Commonwealth and the Nation. Walter N. Campbell, manager of WAPI, will be guest announcer for the program which originates in the studios of WEAF.

Billy Artz, who directed the Rose Room Orchestra in the old Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, will return to the radio at 10 o'clock tonight in the premiere of a new weekly series of novelty presentations entitled "Planters' Pickers."

Such popular numbers as "Here Comes the Show Boat" and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" will introduce a typically Southern presentation. Other Negro spirituals will be sung by the Hallelujah Singers, a Negro male quartet.

The presentation arranged by Rosario Bourdon for the Cities Service concert is as follows:

Fete Boheme, from "Scenes Pittoresques," Massenet; and "Trees," Rasbach-Bourdon, orchestra; selection by Cavaliers; gems from "Dream Girl," Herbert, orchestra; medley of hits of long ago, Cavaliers; "Fireflies," orchestra; tenor solo by Leo O'Rourke; "Three Frivolities," Fletcher; selection by Cavaliers; "Dance Hongroise," Hubay, violin solo, Sascha Fidelman; "Mandolinata" Paladihle, orchestra; "Kentucky Babe," Cavaliers; "The Village Dance," Burleigh, orchestra; and "Roses Bring Dreams of You," Cavaliers and orchestra.

Beginning with the "Toreador March" from "Carmen," a program of the works of Bizet and Strauss will be offered by the Black and Gold Room Orchestra at 6 o'clock from WRC, directed by Ludwig Laurier. The program will continue with the overture to "Die Fledermaus," Strauss; "Agnus Dei," Bizet; "Tales From Vienna Woods," Strauss; and Suite from "L'Arlesienne," Bizet.

Jan Garber and his orchestra will be featured in an hour of dance music by Station WMAL between 11 o'clock and midnight. This program will be preceded by a half-hour recital by Jesse Crawford, organist.

Other features from WMAL include Daguerreotypes, The Penmen, and Bremer-Tully Time.

The Family Market Basket talk from WOL, which heretofore has been presented at 6:15 o'clock each Friday evening will be presented Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The talk is prepared by an expert of the Department of Agriculture and broadcast in the form of a letter to Peggy Clarke, studio manager of WOL, who reads the letter to listeners.

Two hours of dance music will be featured by WOL between 10 o'clock and midnight.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

OCTOBER 25.

MARIA JANE JEWSBURY, the noted English author and sister of the noted novelist, Geraldine Endsor Jewsbury was born this day, 1800.

Her first verse was published when she was 18, and she then adopted literature as a profession. When she was 32 years old, she married a missionary, William K. Fletcher. Fourteen months after her marriage she was stricken with cholera and died.

The author's works include "Phantasmagoria, or Sketches of Life and Character," issued in two volumes; "Lays of Leisure Hours" and "The Three Histories: the History of an Enthusiast; the History of a Nonchalant; the History of a Realist." Her talent won her the admiring friendship of Wordsworth and other famous writers.

Elizabeth Farnese, Queen of Spain, was born this day, 1692. On becoming the wife of Philip V, she surprised those against the marriage by assuming practical control of the kingdom. She was a woman of consummate ambitions and her attempts to put her sons, Carlos and Phillip, in power in Italy disturbed the whole of Europe.

WORK'S BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

CONTINUING our series of explanations of take-outs of partner's No Trump at Contract, we come today to the subject of when to overcall partner's two No Trumps with a suitable bid.

After a partner has bid two No Trumps, but little strength is needed to jump to three; and even if that strength be all embodied in one five-card major suit, the jump to a game in No Trumps is comparatively safe and unquestionably sound.

With a strong six-card major and nothing elsewhere, a bid of four of the major can be made safely, so with a strong major the bid is obvious; but when the hand is not strong enough to warrant a jump to three No Trumps (that is, when it does not contain a No Trump count of 6) but does contain a six-card weak major, it is wise to bid three of that major. This is a situation that occurs more or less frequently and it should be understood. As has been shown above, there is no need of bidding three of a major over two No Trumps to tell the partner to choose between the major and the No Trump. When the hand has the strength for that, the safe bid is three No Trumps; there is a big difference between this situation and the one in which the partner has bid one No Trump. So the take-out of two No Trumps with three of a major suit shows length and weakness. The No Trumper, knowing the meaning of the bid, can decide whether to pass conservatively or bid for game either in the major or No Trump in spite of the announced weakness. Of course this three-bid should be made only with a dependable partner who understands the modern safety conventions invented for protective purposes.

The two types of hand which justify three of a major over partner's two No Trumps are: (a) six weak cards in the major and no material side strength; (b) five cards in the major with a No Trump count of not more than 3 or 4 for major honors and no help on the side.

The following hands would justify bids of three of a major over partner's two No Trumps:

Straton, Ill, Reported By Aid to Be "Worse"

New York, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The condition of the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church and widely known fundamentalist, who is ill in a sanitarium at Clifton Springs, N. Y., has taken a turn for the worse, his secretary, M. L. Germany, said today.

Art Interprets the Mode

Lavishly furred is this high-collared, large-sleeved coat for fall and winter. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

To mention two interesting models: A graceful frock of gray crepe de chine buttons in the back from the waist to the high collar, and has a wispy skirt formed of pleated panels placed diagonally all around.

Louis XV gown closely follows the line of the old court costumes, done in crinkly taffeta, with panniers and an attached panel in the back. Several evening gowns have trailing fish-tails at one side.

When Bernard et Cie. gives us coats, they have the subtle lines of the one illustrated for you today. This is lavishly trimmed with fur and has the flaring lines characteristic of the new mode, for those who like them—we do!

Once you know how to handle the felt, the making of those so awfully smart and, sh-h-h-h-h, expensive, molded-to-the-head hats is scarcely any trick at all. Not that "ennybody" can do it—but you can, because we tell you so exactly how in this week's illustrated leaflet, for which you have but to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. To tell you the truth, we had to beard our printer man in his lair again and get a lot of extra leaflets printed and even these second ones are getting low—so better hurry!

Attention, Clever Fingers!

Not so many hundred letters left to read, so we just think we are going to announce the winners of the clever fingers contest next Monday! Nat that it's going to be so easy to do—because so many of the ideas have been SO good.

Watch for the announcement of the winners Monday or Tuesday.

Week-ending is a year-round problem, happily—or most unhappily if you haven't the knack of it! For it does mean careful planning! Just so many things to do, crowded into 48 hours or so, with just so many things to wear while you're doing them. Lingerie, two changes with an extra special filmsy dainty piece, which goes under the evening gown and then is tucked away in your bag. Can't play tennis in those so you take your Dah-ray designed lingerie shorts. Tailored, form-fitting and sports-comfortable!

Boudoir slippers! Daytime frocks, depending on your program, a dinner dress.

Must we remind you again of the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Sunday Post? It's worth looking for.

Au Revior!

SOME years ago we would have expected nothing so mundane and practical from the house of Poiret as servicable suits. But times have changed, and fashions with it, and the Poiret creations, which seemed so extreme yesterday, pass unremarked today . . . much of which is due to the influence of Paul Poiret.

But getting back to suits, of which we find a number in the current collection, one of the most charming notes is the use of a crossover sleeveless vest under the jacquette.

The coats shown are rather long, coming to the calf, and many of them are very tightly fitted to the waist and have circular skirts. Some of the models button, others have fancy buckles. One interesting model has a wide pleat forming a bloused effect over the belt.

Looking at the collection generally, we find brown much in evidence, as well as a deep yellow. Green is popular for day coats, and paler shades find extensive use for evening wear. A striking combination is cherry red and purple.

Madam's Dinner Gown

Subtly sophisticated . . . this Patou model attains a lissom grace . . . Black and white satin sweeping into subtle godet flares in front and two-pointed back . . . laced with white satin.

A FASHION INSTITUTION

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

Irving S. Finn, the actor, manages to get to Washington whenever the troupe he plays with is within touching distance. This week in Baltimore, with the Mae West Co., in "Diamond Lil," Mr. Finn and his toy bull, "Topsy," yesterday came over to the city he considers the most beautiful in all the United States. As he jogged down Pennsylvania avenue, a woman in a limousine stopped her car, stepped out, and asked if she could take a picture of the dog. "Now that's something the average person in the average city in the land wouldn't do," comments Mr. Finn, who rushed to the office to tell about it. "It just goes to show that Washington people are friendly and, furthermore, appreciative of a good dog, nay, a great dog. 'Topsy' is a prize winner amongst theatrical canines."

"You are sure the lady didn't want to take your picture?" asked one who overheard this narrative.

"Positive," said Mr. Finn, "Nobody, nowadays, is interested in actors—except, of course, the actors' families and their tailors."

Good news comes from the offices of A. L. Erlanger and George C. Tyler, producers, who announce the return to the stage of William Gillette in a farewell tour of his famous creation, "Sherlock Holmes." After an absence unbroken for many years, Mr. Gillette will put on the grease paint again, for the first time, on the night of Tuesday, November 15, in Springfield, Mass., and will then work, by easy stages, to an engagement at the National Theater—in December. In the supporting cast, it may interest Washingtonians to know, will be Charles Hampden, formerly of the National Theater Players, and his son, Burford Hampden. From the records, it is learned that "Sherlock Holmes" was produced at the Garrick Theater, New York, in 1899—the first of the psychological detective plays of the last three decades. The play is the joint work of the actor and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. Not a dramatization of any of the previous Doyle stories, it sets forth an original adventure of the great detective never told in print or on the screen. Old-timers, naturally, will look forward to this revival as one of the real events of current theater.

They threw a party, as the saying goes, out Wardman Park way last night, with Roger Miller, the former newspaperman and now host of the rancho, in the capacity of official boniface. Most of the dramatic reviewers were there with their wives and sweethearts, and from all reports a fair time was had by all. The occasion, something in the way of theatricals, was the engagement of the Jan Garber highpowered orchestra which brings its own show with it. The booking of this bunch of entertainers is for a goodly period, so 'tis said, and Mr. Miller hastens to say that some night, in the not far distant future, he hopes to have a regular old-fashioned newspaper party, with reporters, and managing editors and all the other boys who help get out the daily papers. Tomorrow is especially set aside as Fraternity Night, with each succeeding Friday designated under the same title. Well, it ought to be good. They certainly know how to strut their stuff out there on the banks of Rock Creek Park.

Fritz Williams, who is the ambassador in "Berkley Square," Gilbert Miller's offering at the Belasco the coming week, is well known to Washington audiences, having served the drama for over thirty years. He was in the original productions of Pinero's "The Amazons," at the old Lyceum in New York, and also in the revival of the play, when Billie Burke was starred in it by Mr. Charles Frohman. This was just a few weeks before Mr. Frohman's demise. Fritz Williams holds the office of "shepherd," or president, of the Lambs Club in New York, the biggest and most prominent club of actors in the world.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF October 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6 a. m. to 8:40 a. m., from noon to 2 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger period is from 4:45 p. m. to 7 p. m.

Honest effort will be rewarded on this date, and material progress is predicted. The use of your own power brings some distinction. Guard your health, as the influences are not good in this respect.

Children born on this October 25 will be easily swayed by those about them. They should be taught punctuality and the necessity of keeping promises, as they will have a tendency to be lax in these respects. They will be exceedingly nervous and restless, and should lead simple, wholesome lives.

You are a creature of fluctuating emotions, a victim of those parasites called "moods," which attach themselves to their victims at will. When you are in an unhappy mood, you find grievances out of the smallest happenings, and the tiniest cloud obstructs the sunshine—you are a cold, miserable being. You feel sad, abused and friendless.

When you are in a happy mood, you find joy and happiness everywhere, and you are a delight to yourself and others. Nothing daunts your spirit, and you take a great deal of life's banter without becoming annoyed. You are cheerful, courageous, optimistic and happy. You love everybody and everything. When you have conquered your moods, you will have destroyed your worst enemy, and you will begin to live a rational life.

If you be a man, the walk of life you adopt is of paramount importance—if you are a round peg in a square hole, you are out of tune with the world, and you will have a chronically jaundiced outlook. You have deep tendencies and desires, the outlet of which should be found in your particular form of occupation. Follow your natural bent, and you will be successful. Take up the career which appeals to your heart, regardless of outside influences, and you will be happy.

Radium—A Strange Metal.

HOW would you like to have a stove which would keep going all your life, which would cook your food and keep you warm without your ever adding any new fuel?

Such a stove does not exist at the present time, but there is a kind of metal which gives a hint that some day it might be made. I am thinking of "radium," a marvelous substance which was discovered by Madame Curie 31 years ago.

Radium is one of the strangest things scientists have ever shown to the world. It is a metal of silver white color, and is obtained from uranium ore. To obtain one ounce of radium, about 110 tons of the ore need to be treated.

The strange part about radium is that it gives off heat day after day, week after week, month after month. A tiny amount, as small as a pea, will do this for years and will seem to remain the same size.

In the darkness, radium will glow. You have no doubt seen watches with figures which can be made out in the dark. Years ago a method was learned to treat zinc sulphide with radium, and this gave the power of glowing to the zinc sulphide. A very tiny amount of radium will give this power to a large amount of zinc sulphide.

Hospitals use radium salts to some extent for the treatment of disease. Efforts have been made to cure tumors and cancer by this means. Great pains must be taken to use radium in just the right way, for it has the power to cause burns of the most terrible sort.

We might say that radium will go on giving off heat forever, but we must remember that forever is a long time. The chances are that radium will at last burn itself out, no matter how long it takes to do so.

The world's supply of radium is very small, and the metal is extremely costly. An amount smaller than a grain of corn has been sold for thousands of dollars. New and better ways of taking radium from ore will no doubt bring down the cost.

How to Keep Well

INSECTS GAINING ON MEN.

IT is almost necessary to spray fruits and vegetables for the purpose of killing insects, otherwise there is nothing to market. There are authorities who claim that insects are gaining on man in the age old conflict between them. Some of these authorities think that in the long run insects will conquer and this will finally become an insect dominated manless world. They say that while man has the better brain, he has poorer instincts. While he has more adaptability, insects ar the better breeders. This may or may not be true and if it is true there is time enough to prepare.

Meanwhile, foods must conform to certain standards else they can not be sold. To meet those standards they must be protected against insects. Spraying is a necessary protective measure. The farmer must spray his crops if he is to produce profitably and with reasonable security. The sprays used are poisonous to man and animals as well as to insects. In order that they may not be washed off by rains many of those used on fruits especially are composed of arsenic mixed with some almost insoluble material.

Health departments are complaining that fruits and some vegetables as marketed contain a dangerous dose of arsenic. They report cases of fatal arsenic poisoning and still more cases of nonfatal illnes due to eating fruits and, in some cases, vegetables that have been so sprayed. To remove all danger it is advised that fruit be dipped for five minutes in a weak solution of muriatic acid (1 part acid to 200 to 300 parts water) and then rinsed in water to remove the acid and the poison it may have dissolved It is not necessary to give this acid bath to oranges, lemons, bananas and other fruits the rinds of which are thick and inedible. It is especially necessary where the peels are to be eaten.

Arsenic is widely distributed in nature. Practically every soil contains some and some of it is contained in all soil water. Some is taken up by the roots of plants and finds its way into the leaf and all other parts. Therefore, some arsenic is found in the vegetables we eat. It is accepted that when the drug is sprayed on the leaves none enters to be incorporated in their substance.

However, any that washes to the ground may find its way into the roots and thus finally reach the substances of the stalks, leaves and seed. However, up to date there has been no proof that the arsenic which gets into plants through their roots is ever present in dosage great enough to be dangerous.

HOW TO GAIN WEIGHT.

W. F. B. writes: 1. I am a fellow 19 years old and my height is 5 feet 6 inches. I weigh 120 pounds. How can I gain weight?

2. Will I grow taller?

1. You are about 20 pounds underweight. Gain weight by going to bed regularly at an early hour and sleeping nine hours. Sleep one-half hour after lunch. Eat a bowl of milk and sugared toast at bed time. Cultivate calm.

2. No.

SHOULD SEE A PHYSICIAN. . . .

F. A. writes:

1. How much should a baby 3½ years weigh? She is 41½ inches tall and weighs 56 pounds.

2. If she is too heavy, please state how to reduce her.

REPLY.

1. Your child is nearly 4 inches above the average in height and 25 pounds above in weight.

2. She may be unusually healthy. If so, let nature take its course. Or, she may have some endocrine disturbance. What does your physician think?

My guess is that you should not try to reduce her weight.

"POISON PEN" LETTERS.

DEAR Miss McDonald: I value your opinion greatly. Will you help me? Will you tell me and every one who reads your splendid column your candid opinion of a person who sends anonymously through the mails clippings and letters to one whose heart has been broken by personal sorrow. The "clippings" don't in any way whatsoever concern my own life, but they are insulting and meant to keep open a wound I am trying hard to heal.

I get them through the mails every once in a while. My address is "typed" or printed.

I am just tired of it and hope you may suggest a way to put a stop to it. I have always considered a person guilty of such an act of cowardice the smallest of things that crawl I have information as to the sender.

Please may I hope to find your answer soon.

"Gratefully, MARY."

I'll tell you, Mary, dear, this person who does this sort of thing is to be pitied because there is a certain definite infirmity that causes them to do it. Bearing that in mind, can't you be big enough to just drop the envelopes unopened into the trash basket, or the fire?

Of course you can, not only stop the annoyance but punish the perpetrator by bringing the letter to the postoffice. But this seems cruel when you are dealing with some one whose relatives and friends would suffer keenly and innocently in their punishment. It is so much better to rise above such paltry trivialities.

Politicians, movie stars, prize-fighters, column writers, practically every one who is in any measure in the public eye is a natural target for cranks of all kinds, and such people receive daily all sorts of weird communications, sometimes incoherent, usually insulting but all of them treated like just so much trash. No one takes these things seriously. Why should you? Give yourself this test of will power: Never open another one of these letters! Consign them to the fire that purifies even the anonymous! Who knows what fires of suffering may have caused your poor annoyer to become so infirm as to yield to this weapon that could so easily be turned upon herself, to the shame of all those who love her, and every one is dear to some one, you know.

Be big, Mary. Be generous to the weak. Be strong. When the next one arrives, smile and say "Here goes! Frances says you must burn, so burn you do!" And then sit down and tell me how much better you feel!

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

SOPHOMORE RISKS DEATH IN CLIMB

vantage of the night was that the furnace fires were low.

With his companion, Burr first went to the gymnasium, where he put on his gym suit. Then, with a wet towel in hand, they went to the heating plant, opened the chimney door on the ground level, and let the wind blow through several minutes in an effort to dislodge the towering flue of its accumulation of soot. Burr then climbed in and started mounting the inside ladder, the rungs of which were massed with soot.

Although he had the wet towel wrapped tightly around his head and face, Burr said the fumes and smoke almost stifled him at the start. But he struggled on up, and as he climbed higher, the fumes and smoke became less malodorous and sickening. Finally he gained the top of the chimney, which is between 100 and 150 feet in height. With the rope and banner already fixed for mooring, Burr tied the rope securely around the chimney and loosed his flag to the breeze.

His descent was much easier, Burr says, but he was glad enough to climb out the door to the ground and into the pure air again.

Although reticent and unwilling to discuss his feat, Burr admits his feat was somewhat hazardous and he is not anxious to try it again, even for the glory of his class. He also advises against others trying the stunt.

"Those fumes from the furnace," Burr says, "are just as poisonous as carbon monoxide gas from an automobile exhaust. With a big fire in the furnace, it would be impossible for a fellow to scale the inside of the chimney, and it is exceedingly dangerous at any time."

Dutch Radio Program May Be Heard in U. S.

New York, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The National Broadcasting Co. announced today that an effort will be made Saturday noon to pick up and broadcast in this country over its chain a program being presented in Holland.

The Holland station, which said it was preparing a program "especially for the American audience" is Phi of Huizen, Holland. The broadcast will be picked up on this side by the RCA experimental station at Riverhead, Long Island, brought into the NBC studios here over land wires, and sent out over the chain.

We asked an even thousand motorists a single question....

"WHAT DO YOU EXPECT A GASOLINE TO DO?"

A thousand different replies—but they all boiled down to these six composite requirements:

"To start quicker"

"To give quicker pickup"

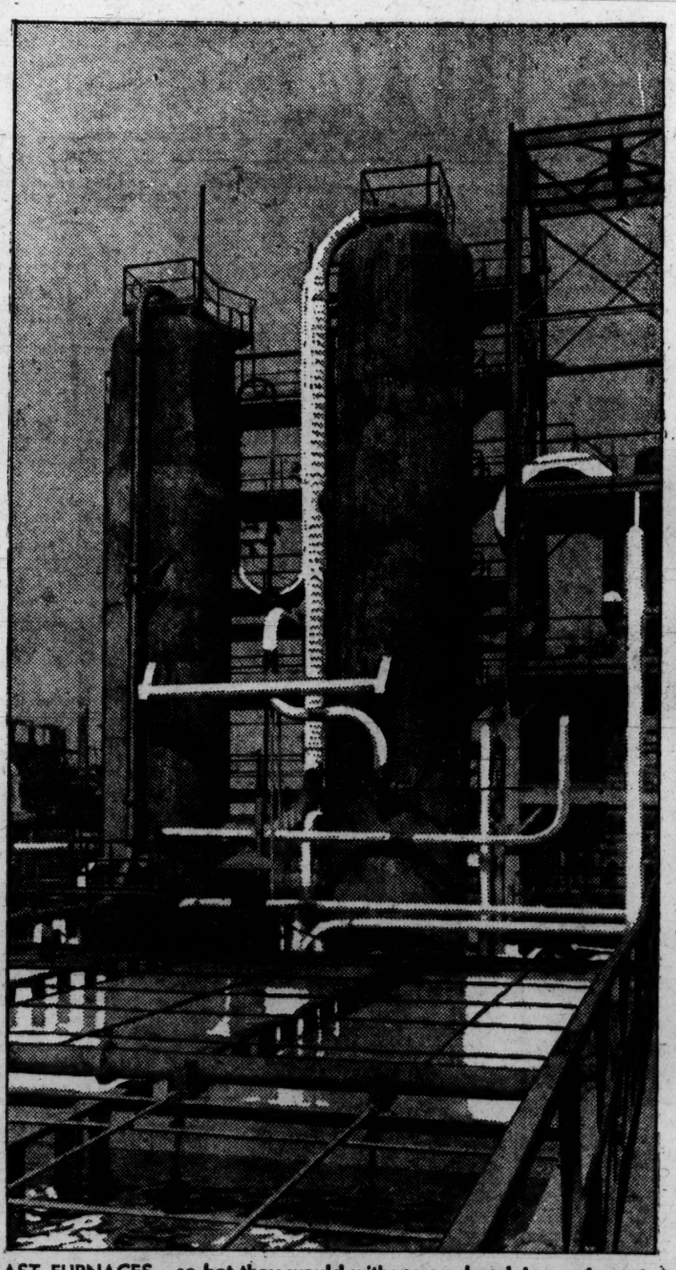
"To supply the greatest possible amount of smoother power"

"To reduce knocking"

"To lessen gear shifting"

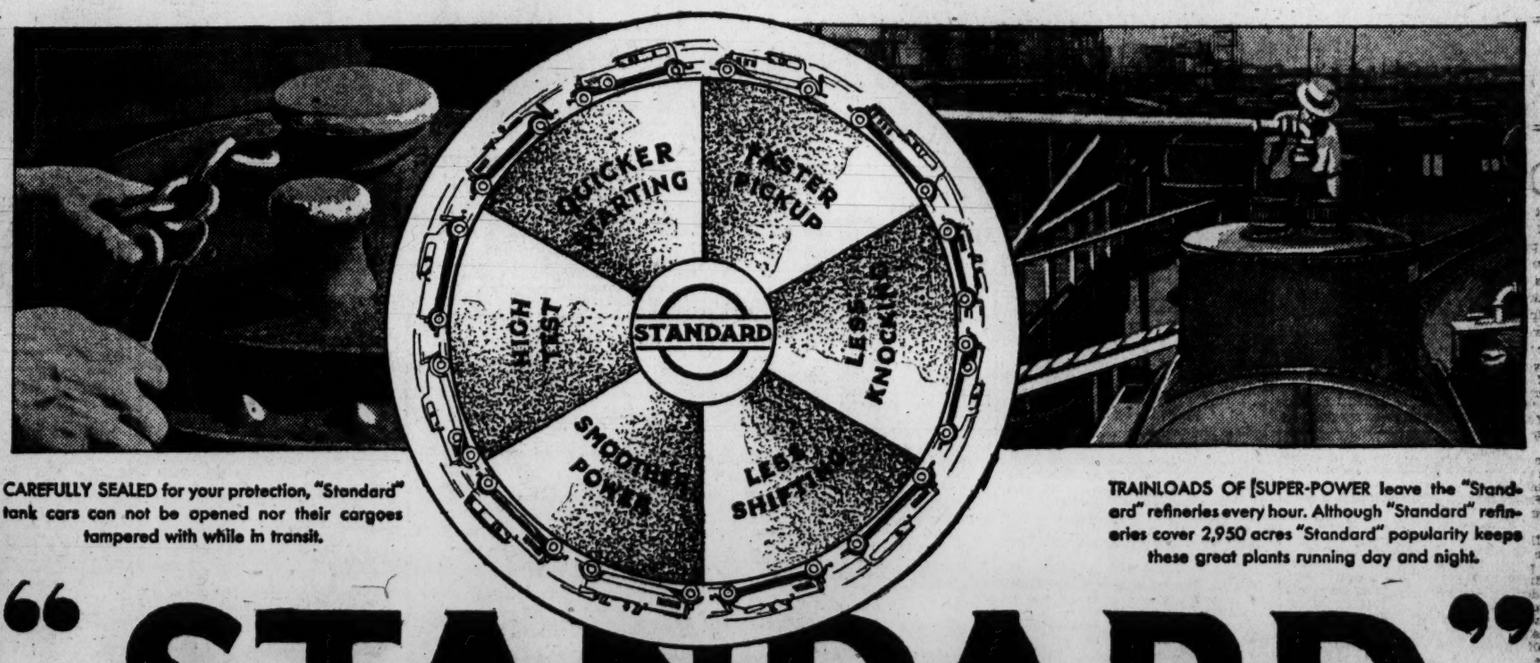
"To possess high-test qualities at no advance in price"

AND THEN WE PRODUCED THE NEW-PROCESSED "STANDARD" GASOLINE..AN IDEAL ALL 'ROUND GASOLINE



BLAST FURNACES—so hot they would wither your hand in an instant—heat the raw stock before it passes into these huge towers to be literally wrung clean of its pure, crystal-clear high-test gasoline.

More efficient. A fuel designed deliberately to give a wider, more flexible performance range. The best popular-priced gasoline on the market. To make it, our experts installed a new cracking process. In itself the very latest word in refining methods. In all, it took almost a year of patient experimentation and work—countless laboratory and road tests—before a single drop of the new-processed "Standard" was put on sale. The laboratory tests were excellent. But the road tests are truly amazing. We knew it was a good gasoline. But we didn't know how good. And now we want YOU to find out for yourself its superiority. Test it on any one or all counts against any other "non-premium" gasoline on the market. Regardless of weather conditions, of roads, traffic, long or short trips, we want you to try it. We know you will find this a truly remarkable "smoother" gasoline. On sale today. Everywhere at the "Standard" pumps. No advance in price.



CAREFULLY SEALED for your protection, "Standard" tank cars can not be opened nor their cargoes tampered with while in transit.

RADIO FILM WORTH $500,000 BURNED

Opening of Movie Vault May Disclose Additional Damages.

MAN DIES OF INJURY

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—William Lebaron, vice president in charge of production of Radio Pictures, subsidiary of R K O Productions, Inc., told the Associated Press today that at least $500,000 worth of film of his company alone was lost in the fire which early today damaged the Consolidated Film Industries laboratory.

One man died of burns and two women and another man were slightly burned. The remainder of the 50 men and women working in the night shift of the motion picture film production factory escaped with injuries.

Albert Lund, working in the assembly room where the blaze resulted from two explosions, died in a hospital. Albert Walker, Mrs. Irene Beardsley and Mrs. Ada Wilson were slightly burned. The explosion followed sparks developing from a film polishing machine.

"Our known loss represents about $500,000 in money," Lebaron said. "If the film in the vault has been destroyed, this amount will be increased to at least $1,500,000. These losses are fully covered by insurance."

The film known to have been destroyed, Lebaron said, involved several pictures which had not been completed. Seven other productions starring some of Hollywood's best-known actors and actresses are in the vault and what damage was done to them has not been determined.

J. W. Yates, general manager of Consolidated, said late today that the plant would be a complete loss, but refused to disclose the monetary damage. He said approximately 1,000,000 feet of film were known to have been destroyed in the cutting room. The value of this was not estimated because it could not be determined for the present what pictures the film represented.

The vault, Yates said, can not be opened until tomorrow. Premature opening of it, he said, probably would destroy the film if it has not already been harmed due to the contact of cold air with the heated interior.

Officials of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc., said a considerable amount of their film was in the vault, but refused to name a damage estimate.

Union Pacific to Start Long-Distance Bus Line

$1,000 for Legation Maid.

Mary Callahan, a kitchen maid at the Canadian Legation until several weeks ago when she left her place because of a poisoned hand, received $1,000 of the estate of the late John W. A. Davis, which was filed for appraisal at the New York State transfer tax department, in New York City, yesterday. The estate of Davis, who died September 19, shows a net value of $1,693,199. The woman's present address was declared by the legation to be unknown.

Plane Is Missing In Channel Storm

Party of Five Lost on Trip With African Colony as Destination.

London, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—A great gale, accompanied by rain, which swept Great Britain today, swallowed up an airplane which left Croydon for Nairobi, Kenya Colony, Africa, with five persons aboard. The machine was not reported after it passed over the coast heading for the channel. Its first stopping place should have been Le Bourget, near Paris.

The wind reached 60 miles an hour over the channel, driving many vessels to shelter. Great apprehension was felt for the plane, and the French authorities have broadcast appeals for news of it.

Here in England the storm caused much property damage. Rivers went out of their banks and many bridges were wrecked.

Nikolas Horthy Recovering.

Budapest, Hungary, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Nikolas Horthy, eldest son of the Hungarian regent, Admiral Horthy, recovered consciousness today for the first time since he was injured in a polo match on Tuesday. His physicians said his condition was satisfactory.

Catts Counterfeit Trial Nearing End

Diaz Testifies Former Governor Offered $5,000 Loan for Bogus Bills.

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The Government today virtually completed its case against former Gov. Sidney J. Catts on counterfeiting charges with Julian Diaz, now serving a prison sentence for alleged leadership of a $100,000 counterfeiting ring, on the stand most of the day and testifying that Catts had volunteered to lend him $5,000 for $25,000 in fraudulent bills.

The 67-year-old former governor is accused of being the financier of the ring that Diaz, a former Tampa attorney headed. Diaz was followed to the stand by secret service operatives and other witnesses, and Government counsel said that although one or two more witnesses may be presented tomorrow, they may rest their case without further testimony.

Diaz traced his friendship with Catts through several years of what he described as "very, very friendly acquaintance," and said he helped Catts in his efforts to return to the governor's chair in 1928 by assistance in organization of a fraternal order called "Guardians of Liberty."

STAMPEDE BREAKS WALL ST. RECORD

12,894,600 Shares Thrown on Market in Worst Upset of History.

BIG FIRMS STEM PANIC

New York, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Wall street was thrown into a stock selling panic today of the gigantic and overwhelming proportions that the enormous growth of speculative activity in recent years had predicated.

All trading records on the stock and curb exchanges were smashed, and stock prices tumbled with the most dizzy swiftness yet witnessed, until reassuring statements from bankers in the early afternoon checked the drop, and an enormous short covering movement set in which cut in half scores of losses running from $15 to $40 a share in important stocks.

Sales on the New York Stock Exchange reached the amazing total of 12,894,600 shares, and the ticker ran for four hours and eight minutes after the closing gong. This turnover exceeds by 50 per cent the previous record of March 26. Utter turmoil reigned on the floor of the exchange, and it appeared for a time that it might be necessary to suspend trading.

Stampede Hits All Lines.

This stampede of selling was a continuation of the flood of liquidation which swept into the market in the last hour yesterday, when trading for a brief time was equal to today's terrifying pace. It culminates a downward movement which has been growing more and more decisive since early September.

The huge number of speculators who have been attracted to the market during its almost steady rise of the past five years had their first taste of an old-fashioned, disastrous break, and naturally were panic stricken. Good and bad stocks were dumped overboard together.

As an indication of the scare which the public received, good bonds were sold in some volume and the bond market closed lower. Foreign exchanges continued to mount in the highest levels for many months, indicating that much selling has come from abroad.

Call Money 2 Per Cent.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent and went no lower than 5 at the money post, but was offered in the outside market as low as 2 per cent, as a flood of money was released in the stock liquidation. Time money and bankers' acceptances eased notably.

Informal but highly reassuring statements were issued from conferences of bankers at J. P. Morgan & Co.'s, after the close, from a conference of partners of leading commission houses held at Hornblower & Weeks. It was generally agreed that the decline had strengthened the market's position, and no important brokerage house was found to have been severely damaged in the break.

The brokerage loan figures after the close showed an unexpectedly gratifying drop of $167,000,000, despite the fact that that figure failed to include the liquidation of yesterday and today. No change was made in the 6 per cent rediscount. The day's news included important earnings statements, but they were ignored in the wild speculative conditions. Bethlehem Steel net for the third quarter very nearly approximated that of the record second.

Few Stocks Make Gain.

A few leading stocks such as U. S. Steel and American Can closed 2 or 3 points higher, and Kennecott closed up 8. Although at bottom levels of the day, the decline represented the most precipitous ever seen in a single day, the rally was so vigorous that net losses were much less severe than yesterday's. American and Foreign Power closed off 14, and one of the most severe losses was in radio, off more than 10. Johns Manville dropped 40 points and rallied 30. Standard Gas dropped 27. Utilities were the most vulnerable, the general list showing acute weakness, even Standard of New Jersey selling off more than 10 points for a time.

The commodity markets were likewise under severe pressure, in selling largely in sympathy with the break in stocks. Wheat futures closed off about 5 cents a bushel after selling down 11 to 12. Corn closed steady on killing frosts, and cotton closed firm after absorbing considerable selling.

In the foreign exchanges, sterling cables, French francs, marks and guilders reached new high levels for the year or longer, the first named touching $4.88 1-16.

BOND LISTS WAVER ON HARD POUNDING

Three Weeks of Steady Gain Halted by Turmoil in Market.

SALES SET NEW MARK

New York, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The bond market turned sharply irregular today after nearly three weeks of rising prices. With confidence in all security markets shaken by the drastic break in stock prices, the list of fixed-charge obligations was subjected to some pressure, and a large number of issues which have been advancing steadily turned reactionary. Sales approximated $21,000,000, the largest in about two years.

United States Treasuries and Liberty bonds, together with prominent low-coupon rails, maintained their forward move, but it was apparent that investors were rather timid in making commitments, even in bonds of the best grade.

Convertibles Plunge.

Convertibles dropped dizzily during the height of the decline in stocks, but finished substantially above the lows for the day. International Telephone 4½s plunged down to 130, more than 40 points below the Wednesday final. However, the close found them back to 165 for a net decline of 5½. American Telephone 4½s dropped to 170, off 22 points, but rallied to 184, representing a net dip of 9 points. Net declines of 1½ to 6½ points were registered in American I. G. Chemical 5½s, Alleghany 5s, Atchison 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5½s, Reading Coal & Iron 6s and Baltimore & Ohio 4½s. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s lost 22 points on a small sale.

The railroad group, which has been leading the market's recovery, developed numerous weak spots, especially in the higher coupon and semispeculative issues. Declines of 1 to 3 points developed in Baltimore & Ohio first 5s, Canadian Pacific 5s, Chicago, Terre Haute refunding 5s, Denver & Rio Grande Western refunding 5s, Missouri, Kansas & Texas prior lien 5s, Great Northern 5s, Kansas City Southern 5s, Northern Pacific 4s, Seaboard Air Line 5s and 6s, Nickel Plate 5½s and Wabash 5s and 5½s. In addition, St. Louis, San Francisco prior lien 4s, Missouri Pacific general 4s, Southern Railway general 4s, Rock Island 4s, Union Pacific 4½s, Illinois Central 4¾s, and Erie refunding 5s showed heaviness.

Even Leaders Drop.

The New York Central group was strong and moderately higher prices resulted from fair buying in Atchison general 4s, Denver & Rio Grande Western refunding 5s, Great Northern 4½s, International Great Northern adjustment 6s, Kansas City Southern first 3s, Missouri Pacific 5s, series G; Pennsylvania general 4½s, St. Louis Southwestern 5s, and Union Pacific first 4s.

Some of the recent leaders in the industrial group also sold off. Armour Real Estate 4½s lost a point, Calle Copper 5s declined 3/4. Goodyear Tire & Rubber 5s lost 1½, Inland Steel 4½s sagged 3/4, and Liggett & Myers Tobacco 5s dropped 3. National Dairy 5½s lost 1.

Pressure in the utilities was directed against Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, off 1 3-8; International Telephone debenture 4½s, off 2¼, and North American Edison 5½s, off 1. Denver Gas & Electric 5s, New England Telephone 5s gained a point each.

There was brisk buying of Liberty fourth 4¼s and Treasury 4s, but advances in the United States Government list, although general, were small.

French Republic 7½s lost about 2½ points. The foreign section was irregularly lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Giant swings in price both down and up came with bewildering swiftness in the wheat market today duplicating the wild course of stock-exchange values. Transactions in wheat mounted far up into millions of bushels, with Europe reported a big buyer here of future delivries of wheat after the market had collapsed under panicky selling 12¼c a bushel today to the lowest level yet this season. Subsequent rallies amounting to as much as 7¼c a bushel took place to the accompaniment of sudden huge purchasing that whirled the market upward almost as excitedly as an hour previous it had plunged headlong down.

On the late rebound, wheat closed nervous, 4¾c to ¾c below yesterday's finish. Corn closed at ¾c to 1½c net gain, oats showing ¼c to ½c net decline, and provisions ranging from 12c setback to a rise of 2c.

Contrasting in striking fashion with the lightning-like wide fluctuations that later developed, the wheat market today opened in some cases at only ¼c difference from last night. It was not long, however, before execution of an immense pile of orders to sell out and put a stop to losses of wheat owners put a staggering load on the pit. A crash of about 5c a bushel resulted and yet the market recovered somewhat. Then came a new onslaught of selling and brought about a nearly perpendicular fresh drop of 8c, with the market reeling downward so quick that ½c to 1c smashes ensued before brokers could pencil the figures on their trading cards. At the bottom point reached, wheat was 22½c a bushel under last week's top level. Meanwhile stock exchange values were crumbling fast and dispatches were at hand telling of large offerings of Argentine wheat to Europe at cheap prices.

Eclipsing all other developments, though, as the day progressed in the wheat pit was word of sharp recoveries in prices of securities. It was at this stage also that the flood of wheat selling orders which had surged in from Eastern sources in particular was transformed into a rush of buying instructions. During the last part of the day the ensuing upward flight of wheat prices was heloed in at least some degree by assertions that export buying of North American wheat for shipment to Europe showed more or less improvement, and that as a propitious circumstance sterling exchange had reached the highest point since June, 1928, a fact likely to promote wheat export business from this country and Canada as well.

Corn owed its advance chiefly to absence of any important selling except for a brief interval when wheat weakness was most acute. Oats derived relative steadiness from the surprising firmness of the corn market.

Provisions were unsettled by the rapidly changing action both of grain and of stocks.

Treasury Officials See Market Upheaval as Cleaning-Up Process.

WILL NOT HIT TAX CUT

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The stock crash is not caused by any decline in general business conditions but is a technical reaction of the market, Treasury officials believe, adding the present recession is correcting a situation wherein speculation has been carried to excess.

How far the recession should continue is a matter of conjecture with them but they see nothing alarming in the general condition of business which is proceeding on strong levels with tax revenues higher than a year ago.

The drop of the stock market, they explained, will not affect the prospects of a tax reduction as this will be determined by the trend of business conditions for the next two years and not by a temporary market setback.

Brokers' loans which advanced $68,000,000 in the week of September 16, receded $167,000,000 as of October 23, the Federal Reserve Board's weekly report showed yesterday. Their total was $6,634,000,000 and decreases were shown in the three subdivisions.

Loans Fall Sharply.

Loans for account of others were $3,823,000,000 or $52,000,000 lower than last week; loans for account of out-of-town banks, $1,733,000,000, a falling off of $98,000,000; and loans for own account, $1,077,000,000, a loss of $18,000,000.

The board's consolidated statement of condition of Federal Reserve banks showed decreases for the week of $52,600,000 in holdings of discounted bills and of $1,900,000 in Government securities and an increase of $19,300,000 in bills bought in open market.

Member bank reserve deposits declined $30,400,000, Government deposits, $9,500,000 and Federal Reserve note circulation, $2,300,000, while cash reserves increased $31,500,000. Total bills and securities were $33,800,000 below the amount reported a week ago.

Yesterday's market, predominantly a receding one, was the busiest on the Washington Stock Exchange for the present week. Seven bank stocks were out all selling "off" with the exception of Lincoln National, registering a 15-point rise on a four-share sale. Riggs National Bank fell back 8 points on a single transfer at 601.

The bond division business maintained its activity of the previous day, sales volume of $24,400 being a $1,400 advance over Wednesday. The stock turnover, 658 shares, bettered Wednesday's aggregate by 148. Capital Traction 5s, Chestnut Farms Dairy 6½s, Potomac Electric 5s, Barber & Ross 6½s, were the favored bond issues, $9,500 of the first-named being the division leader.

Woman Banker to Speak.

Interested in the important advance of women in business, the Continental Trust Co. has inaugurated through its secretary, Miss Mary Jane Winfree, leading woman bank official of Washington, an educational campaign for women in matters of finance.

This will consist of three lectures by financial authorities, the first of which will be an illustrated one on the New York Stock Exchange, delivered by Jason Westerfield, publicity manager of that institution, on the morning of November 4 at 10:30 o'clock at the Mayflower Hotel. Fifteen hundred women are expected to be in attendance at the lecture course.

Commenting on the first lecture President Wade H. Cooper, of the Continental Trust Co., said that in presenting it some may think the plan has started backward, but the knowledge that women are interested in stocks and will buy stocks and the desire of his institution to help them make investments, not speculations, prompts the selection of the opening talk.

The fact that women now control 41 per cent of the Nation's wealth and have become a factor to be considered in the business world shows the campaign of the Continental Trust Co to be one well worth while, and the initiative of Miss Winfree and the company in meeting this modern situation is to be commended.

Rails in Good Shape.

For the nine months ended September 30, 1929, the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. shows gross revenues of $96,323,117, an increase of $4,-998,595. Operating expenses were $63,792,003, an increase of $1,287,270. Net railway operating income was $27,984,235, an increase of $2,755,213. Net income after all charges is $23,-382,909, an increase of $3,839,912, compared with corresponding period for 1928. The operating ratio for the period is 66.2 per cent, a decrease of 2.6 per cent as compared with the same period a year ago.

Consolidated income statement of the North American Co. and subsidiary companies for the twelve months ended September 30, 1929, shows $26,-952,012.07 for common stock after all operating expenses, interest charges, depreciation and all other reserves and preferred dividends.

These earnings are an increase of $0.40 per cent over those for the twelve months ended September 30, 1928, and are equal to $5.17 per share on the average number of shares of North American common stock outstanding during the twelve months ended September 30, 1929, compared with $4.40 per share on the average number of shares outstanding during the preceding twelve months period.

Class 1 railroads of this country on October 1 had 7,668 locomotives in need of repair, or 13.5 per cent of the number on lines, according to reports just filed by the carriers with the car service division of the American Railway Association. This was a decrease of 86 compared with the number in need of repair on September 15, at which time there were 7,754, or 13.6 per cent.

Bankers Will Frolic.

The Halloween dance and card party of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, will be held October 30, at L'Aiglon. Music will be furnished by the Paragon Orchestra and there will be fortune telling also. There are prizes in the card contest and for the most unique costume; but "costume or not," the chapter's notice reads, members are invited to come and bring their friends. Tickets are obtainable through member bank consuls.

The women's committee in charge of the party is composed of Miss Mildred C. Woodcock, American Security & Trust Co., chairman; Miss Mary Craven, District National Bank, secretary; Miss Lois A. White, Federal-American National Bank; Miss Mabel W. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; Miss Catherine M. Krieg, Riggs National Bank; Miss Winifred Burwell, National Metropolitan Bank; Miss Eleanor Dankmeyer, Security Savings & Commercial Bank; Miss Ellen Crawford, American Security & Trust Co.; Miss Anne Crawford, McLachlen Banking Corporation; Miss Helen Goodin, National Savings & Trust Co.; Mrs. Eunice Dampier, Departmental Bank; Miss Alice Whitton, First National Bank of Alexandria; Mrs. Marjorie Tucker, Continental Trust Co.; Miss Hattie Potter, Second National Bank; Mrs. Edna Lunsford, American Security & Trust Co.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1929. 19

CARNEGIE SURVEY ATTACKED AND PRAISED BY COLLEGES; TECH-CENTRAL TO CLASH TODAY IN 27TH ANNUAL GAME

School Rivals In Series Classic

Battle to Have Great Bearing on Title, Is Indication.

Tech Faces Task of Halting Pinckney, Central Ace.

WHEN eleven Blue and White football players line up against eleven Maroon and Gray-clad gridmen this afternoon at Central High School stadium, only the shrill of Maggie Magoffin's whistle at 3:30 o'clock will be needed to send between 12,000 and 15,000 onlookers into hysteria as Central and Tech, the two greatest rivals of local scholastic gridiron history, come to grips in their twenty-seventh annual game, which promises to be one of the most decisive combats ever staged between the opposing institutions.

Beginning in 1902, the rivals have fought year in and year out for supremacy, with the exception of 1918, and the number of triumphs won by each school is separated but by one game. Altogether, Central has won eleven times with the Manual Trainers emerging victorious in ten games. Five times the schools have battled to a deadlock.

Annually the most attractive feature of the interhigh series, the game this afternoon is even more so as the two rivals, possessing without doubt, the strongest teams of the high school league, clash in what promises to be the deciding game of the present scholastic year.

Tech Victory Would End Race.

For Tech, a victory would virtually assure Hap Hardell's henchmen of their second consecutive title, as with both Eastern and Central out of the way, only Business and Western would remain on the Manual Trainers' schedule. For Central, a victory would send that team off to a flying start and leave the championship still open to any one of the five schools. It is therefore up to the Blue and White team to prevent the race from being decided before the first week of the season has passed.

With so much depending on a Central victory, therefore, it is small wonder that the support of four schools will be behind the men whom Coach "Ty" Rauber sends onto the field of battle this afternoon. Tech, on the other hand, will be without support as its gallant warriors surge forth to defend a championship, of which its followers had little hope of retaining this season.

BIG EMERSON TEAM ROUTS EASTERN

Scores 21-0 Victory by Furious Attack in Final Periods.

EASTERN HIGH'S football team tasted defeat for the third successive game yesterday when a stronger and heavier Emerson Institute Team walked out of the Lincoln Park stadium with a 21 to 0 victory under its belt. The triumph gave Coach Canborn's men their second victory in two starts over high school teams of this city, the winners having previously taken a 27-to-0 verdict from the Business Eleven earlier in the season.

Although held to a scoreless tie throughout the first half, it seemed that the prepmen should eventually triumph. Possessing some of the biggest players seen in schlostic ranks this season, the winners exhibited a powerful driving attack which penetrated the Light Blue and White defense with little difficulty.

The Eastern Team was materially

Changed V. M. I. Eleven To Oppose Maryland

Lexington, Va., Oct. 24.—Thirty players, headed by Capt. Hawkins, will be in the V. M. I. football party that leaves Lexington by bus Friday morning for Richmond, where the Flying Squadron will meet the Maryland Old Liners Saturday. Coaches Raftery, Hess, and Binish, Athletic Director Blandy Clarkson, Trainer Patchin, Cadet Manager Saunders, and Cadet Representative Porter McCray will accompany the team.

The Cadets have been showing steady improvement in practice this week, and some of the second-stringers have fought so hard for starting berths that there are several probable changes in the line-up. Virgil Grow is a fixture at center, this 157-pound star having more than held his own offensively and defensively with every opponent this season, though generally outweighed from 15 to 25 pounds. Bill Haase will be at one guard, and Basis Gravatt, 195-pound tackle, will probably be shifted to the other guard, so that Phil Willard can enjoy a much-needed rest.

Louis Chadwick and Ben Smith, V. M. I.'s fast and aggressive tackles, and the two sterling ends, Tommie Scott and Jo Moody, are almost sure starters, with Aubrey Grow and George Shell, tackles, and Randolph Gregory, end, as likely substitutes during the game.

In the back field, Capt. Hawkins will call the signals, but Roy Dunn, at full back, who was held out of the Citadel clash and allowed to play only part of the Virginia game, will give way to Buck Wright. Bernard McCray will be in at half back to continue his great punting, and Johnnie Biggs will probably relieve Lefty Williams at the other half.

A stiff scrimmage yesterday and a long defensive workout today ended the regular training for the week, but the Cadets will stop en route to Richmond in order to put on the finishing touches before tackling the Old Liners.

BROOKLAND A. C. DRILLS.

Undefeated in their first two games, the Brookland A. C., 150 pounders, will hold a stiff drill Sunday on Brookland Field at 1:30 p. m. in preparation for their game with the strong St. Stephen's Team on November 3. Coaches McNally and Molster have asked that all Brookland players be present in uniform for the Sunday workout.

Georgetown-Navy Seats Ready Sunday

Tickets for the Georgetown-Navy football game at Annapolis on November 9 will be ready for distribution Sunday morning in the athletic office at the Hilltop. A limited number are available.

G. U. FINISHES WORK FOR LEBANON

Schmid and Dubofsky Are Likely Starters Tomorrow.

AN hour's scrimmage, in which the freshmen furnished the opposition, using Lebanon Valley plays, yesterday concluded Georgetown's hard work in preparation for the game Saturday with the Pennsylvania Preachers at Griffith Stadium.

Lebanon Valley, much stronger than in 1928, employs the forward pass extensively, according to Georgetown scouts. In Albright, quarter back, the visiting club will present a star in the overhead game, it is said. Mindful of this information, Head Coach Little spent much of his time yesterday in perfecting the Hilltop's aerial defense.

The freshmen enjoyed some success at the start of the scrimmage but failed to sustain this when the varsity solved the Lebanon passes. Laterals form a considerable part of the Lebanon attack, as uncovered by the freshmen, and only the greatest vigilance on the part of the opposing secondary defense will stop the Pennsylvanians on this style.

Schmid Likely Choice For End.

It is highly probable that Ben Schmidt, formerly a half back, will hold down the left end position in tomorrow's game. The Kalamazoo veteran has an edge in experience on the other aspirants for the job vacated by the injured Provincial. One other change in the line is likely, that of Maurice Dubofsky, 205-pound sophomore guard, substituting for Paul Liston, the veteran who has a sore shoulder.

Provincial, hero of Georgetown's 7-2 victory over New York U. last year, is slowly recovering from a chipped shoulder bone, but he is now taking light workouts and hopes to be ready for the 1929 clash with the Violets, scheduled November 2. Bob Gehringer, the other end, who suffered a broken hand in the St. Louis game, also is exercising lightly but is not expected to resume real action for two weeks or more.

Navy Copies Notre Dame's Trousers for Tiger Battle

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 24.—When the Navy football players romp into the arena of Palmer Stadium at Princeton on Saturday for the clash with the Tigers, they will be clad in entirely new raiment, trousers of a golden brown hue, and helmets of dark tan. The "loud" trousers are a combination of silk and khaki.

Coaches explained that the new togs were designed not only for greater comfort to the players, but admittedly to make tackling by the opposition more difficult, because of their slippery surface.

Thirty of the players broke out the new uniforms in today's practice session, much to the surprise of loyal fans gathered about Farragut Field, and it was some time before this, or that man could be identified, except by the standard numerals.

Similar Trousers Worn By Notre Dame.

Notre Dame players wore similar trousers in the game with the Middies in Baltimore, and they proved their worth in making the ball carriers more elusive. Whether the Navy athletic powers took the cue from Rockne's pupils is not known, but certain it is that the new gridiron armor is a decided novelty at the naval institution.

The soft and slippery pants proved a menace to the shock troops of squad B as the varsity lined up for its last scrimmage session before the argument with the Jungaleers, and Bill Ingram drove him charges through the stiffest kind of paces, both offensively and defensively.

The whole crop of plays were rehearsed and went off with fine precision, and while on the defensive the big team showed it could cope with the Tigers' style of attack as emulated by the scrubs, in many instances the ball toters being thrown in their tracks or for a loss.

Navy's Starting Backs Uncertain.

With the exception of the back field quartet, Navy's starting line-up is about settled. Heach Coach "Bill" Ingram has been experimenting with three combinations of backs. Today Art Spring, a veteran, bore the brunt of the work at quarter in place of Williams, former high school player of Richmond, Va., who is the season's find. It is understood, however, that Williams will start. Joe Clifton, 190-pounder, is in good shape to start at full, and indications are that Jack Castree will be at one half, with the choice of the other half between the Bauer brothers, Harold, better known as "Joe," and Dale. Joe is heavier and more experienced and besides is a good drgopkicker. Dale is speedier and a close follower of the ball.

Heydler Takes Issue With Barnard

Statement American League Is 20 Pct. Stronger Denied.

Says Ruth Alone Beat National League in 2 World Series.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—President Heydler of the National League today challenged the correctness of a recent statement made by President Barnard of the American League, in which the latter declared the American League has been bringing in better players and is 20 per cent stronger than the National.

"That statement," said Mr. Heydler, "is hardly borne out by the facts or by the records of young players in the two leagues, and it needs more support than comes from the flush of pride over the American League's world series conquest." Continuing, the National League's executive asked:

Asks American League To Match Waners.

"Where are these better players, Mr. Barnard? For example, can your league match Klein, or Ott or Frederick, three of the greatest young outfielders in the game today? And which of your clubs would not give a fortune for the Waner boys, who are far and away the best pair of rungetters in either league?

"I know full well that the loss of twelve out of thirteen games in the last three world series is bound to give rise to the talk of all-around American League superiority, but impartial students of the game know there is no material difference in the playing strength of the two leagues. The 22-year record of the series as conducted under organized ball rules from 1905 to 1926, shows that the Americans won 12 and we 10; that out of 133 games played, the Americans won 66 and the Nationals 64 and 3 were tied. They made 430 runs and we made 440. They made 1,014 hits, while the Nationals made 1,083.

Hopes Pendulum of Luck Will Swing Back.

"In the last three series, we suffered severely by comparison of the totals, the 1927 and 1928 series, however, being won by a single super batsman, Ruth, whose long-range hitting we have been unable to match, except when Alexander stopped him in 1926. But we shall keep on trying and I have no doubt that the pendulum of baseball luck will swing our way in the next few years and we will offset their present advantage. Both leagues employ the same methods in securing their players and they have resources behind them in the same volume."

Culpeper High Star Breaks Collarbone

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Oct. 24.—Charles Apperson, lineman for the Culpeper High School Football Team, sustained a broken collarbone in practice scrimmage today. Apperson was running interference for Jack Lewis and attempted to block Roy Huffman, 251-pound guard. In the ensuing mix-up Apperson fell under Huffman and sustained his injuries. Lewis, who was carrying the ball, has only recently recovered from a broken collarbone, received in practice several weeks ago.

SEAT PLEASANT DRILLS.

In preparation for their game with the Mohawk Preps Sunday at Boyer Stadium, the Seat Pleasant Firemen will drill tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Taft Scores Amount Spent For Athletics by Colleges

Chief Justice Declares Money Could More Profitably Be Applied to Education. Calls Efforts Wasted.

(Associated Press.)

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT expressed the opinion yesterday that the educational institutions throughout the country were using too much money in promoting athletics.

The former President said he had read with interest the report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and, while unfamiliar with the facts on which the conclusions had been reached, he was firmly convinced that universities and colleges were devoting money for the advancement of athletics which could more profitably be applied to education.

"The subject is one to which I have given much attention," he said. "My views on the subject were given in a speech I made last spring at the convention here of the Psi Epsilon Fraternity. I believe that a great deal of time and money is being wasted on college athletics. I would not criticize our youths in college and universities who have vigorous bodies as well as minds, and they should have some stimulus and outlet for developing healthy bodies, but our educational institutions, generally speaking, are giving too much effort and money to athletics and are not making as great effort as I would like to see develop the standard of scholarship.

"Those who have given particular study to the subject are agreed, I think, that the turning point has been passed in our scholarship standards, and that we are on the upgrade."

Coaches Gave Drugs, Report Also Charges

New York, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Charges that some coaches had administered drugs to football players were included in the sensational indictment of college athletics drawn up by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Although some coaches, the report stated, "aim steadfastly to protect the physical health of their charges, yet evidence is to the effect that physical health has often been sacrificed to victory."

The report cited several instances where players had been given drugs either for their psychological effect or to deaden the pain of injuries. One coach said: "Bread tablets" had been administered for their psychological effect on "very nervous athletes."

Several other instances in which players painfully hurt were sent into important games were cited.

Eastern Elevens Optimistic As They Await Big Contests

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Reports today from Eastern football training grounds were mainly optimistic.

Harvard's warriors, preparing for a crucial engagement with the unbeaten Indians, of Dartmouth, offered an impressive defense against Dartmouth plays put on by the second team. So good was the workout that Coach Arnold Horween seemed to worry much less than might be expected over the injuries that will keep Huguley, Harper and Ben Ticknor out of the line-up Saturday.

Princeton showed more dash and zip in its drill on fundamentals than it has shown all year and Head Coach Bill Roper may be pardoned if he expects a better showing by the Tigers than they made against Brown and Cornell.

Ed Wittmer, star back field man, will be at quarter back position for the first time in his career against the Navy.

Army, ready to entrain for New Haven tomorrow, went through a long drill on offense in its last hard workout before the Yale game. The squad was in excellent condition. Yale plans to start Barres at right end against the Army instead of Walker.

Fordham, which meets the undefeated Davis and Elkins Team, was heatened by the return to the line-up of Harry Kloppenburg, 6-foot-4 inch end who has been out of the game for two weeks with a Charley horse.

With Notre Dame due to arrive tomorrow, Carnegie Tech took one last hard workout in a drizzling rain before going into seclusion. Yerina, a star end who has been on the injured list, may get into the game against the Ramblers from South Bend.

New York University ran through a signal drill at the Yankee Stadium in final preparation for the fray with Butler, and Pennsylvanai had no trouble stopping the reserves equipped with Lehigh plays.

Charles County Team Wins Shooting Contest

Special to The Washington Post.

La Plata, Md., Oct. 23.—A trap-shooting contest, to determine championship between Charles and St. Marys Counties, was held this afternoon at Morgantown on the Potomac. Thomas P. McDonagh, of La Plata, was captain of the Charles County team. W. M. Clements was captain of the St. Marys County team. Each team consisted of five members, and each member shot at 100 targets. The Charles County team was declared the champion by breaking 417 targets. The St. Marys team broke 415 targets. The members of the teams were: Charles County—Phil Stubner, Thomas P. McDonagh, Louis Groves, George Lynch, and R. Beavers; St. Marys County—B. Knott, B. Smith, D. Davis, B. Hayden and E. Mayor. A loving cup was awarded the Charles County team.

The winners of individual classes were: Class A—T. Bussey, of Davidsonville, first prize; Phil Stubner, of Benedict, second prize. Class B—Thomas P. McDonagh, of La Plata, first; Dan Davis, of Chaptico, second. Class C—George Lynch, La Plata, first; C. Hayden, Leonardtown, second. Class D—Kermit Hayden, first; W. Havvard, second. Class E—Frank Hamilton, of Bel Alton, first; Frank P. Hamilton, La Plata, second.

Harry T. Edel, a professional shooter from Baltimore, made the highest average of the day. He broke 98 targets of a possible 100.

Report False And Unfair, Is Reply

Sweeping Denial and Indignation Voiced by Colleges.

Ohio State Sees Good in Revelation of Commercialism.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—With reactions ranging all the way from indignant protest and sweeping denial to outright approval and commendation the country's colleges today faced the challenge contained in the Carnegie Foundation's sensational report of the commercialism and kindred ills in college sport.

At Brown University the report was denounced by Norman S. Taber, chairman of the athletic council as "in part false and in toto so misleading as to make it impossible to believe the authors could present it."

"Broken faith" was charged by Prof. B. W. Griffith, graduate manager of athletics, at Bucknell University, where it was declared the Carnegie investigator was given access to files and records with the understanding that "specific names would not be mentioned."

Report Is Unfair, Declares N. Y. U.

"The report is unfair," said Prof. Giles L. Courtney, chairman of the board of athletic control of New York University, "perhaps not because of intent but because of the technique of the investigation. If some of the statements which appear in the press also appear in the report, they are absolutely without factual foundation."

Allegations of an "intensively organized, sometimes subtle, system" of recruiting athletes at the University of Michigan were vigorously denied by Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics there.

Speaking for the Western Conference as a whole, Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner, averred Big Ten universities are cleaner athletically than any other ten universities anyone can name.

All of the Western Conference schools, except Illinois and Chicago, which were given a clean bill, also made emphatic denial of the charges. The University of Iowa watched developments with interest, believing that although that institution recently has been disciplined by the Big Ten for subsidizing, it is only a "minor violator" by comparison.

Ohio State Forsees Beneficial Results.

Representatives of Ohio State predicted that beneficial results would accrue from the report.

At Holy Cross, the Rev. John J. Fox remarked that "no worthy boy ever was turned away from Holy Cross" regardless of athletic ability, and that "many star athletes at Holy Cross have never received anything."

"We are compelled to give scholarships," declared Dr. D. C. Gossard, president of Lebanon Valley College, Annville, Pa. "Practically all colleges do it."

"Only four first-stringers on the varsity football team are holding scholarships," said Dean Herbert E. Hawkes, of Columbia.

The University of Southern California complained that it had been assured the report's statements in regard to that institution would be revised before being made public and that this had not been done. Charges of recruiting by members of the athletic department, as made in the report, were described as "without foundation and unfair."

Revelations Find South Indifferent.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The South today seemed inclined to adopt "ho, hum," and "well, what of it?" attitude toward the report of the Carnegie Foundation dealing with the subsidizing of athletes by a number of American colleges. Spokesmen for several institutions which came in for prominent mention in the report agreed with sporting editors that the

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 24.—The Washington-Lee High School will be here tomorrow afternoon to oppose Prex Wilson's George Mason High gridders, at Baggett's Stadium, the game starting at 3:30 o'clock. This is one of the district games, and the Generals are reported to have one of the strongest combinations in the Third district. They have played two games so far, losing their opener to the Devitt Prep and winning the other. The Masonites are much lighter than their rivals, but Coach Wilson plans to make up for the deficiency in weight by using an aerial attack. Schaefer, Masonite line man, who was injured in one of the early games, will be back in the game. Timmons, another who was injured, is still out of the game.

The officials for the game will be O'Meara, referee; Moncure, umpire, and Hayman, head linesman.

The Fort Leonard Wood Tank Corps Football Team will be the opponents of the St. Mary's Celtics Sunday afternoon at Baggett's Stadium, according to Director Charlie Corbett. Capt. Smith, of the Tank Corps, will bring his entire squad of 45 players to Alexandria in trucks.

The Camp Meade gridders played the Apaches, of Washington, in their first game and were beaten, 6-0.

Corbett is filling out his schedule for the season, having booked the Ginter Park Athletic Club, of Richmond, for November 17, and expects to schedule games with the Seamen Gunners, Mohawks and Apaches, of Washington.

Dixie Pigs Prepare For Court Activities

After a successful baseball season, the Dixie Pigs are practicing for basket ball. Last year, the Pigs won the Prince Georges championship and made a good showing in the South Atlantic A. A. U. tournament. The team is holding weekly practices at Langley Junior High with the following players in line: Hook, Zahn, Nicholson, Radtke, Adair, Smith Weigel and Lyles. For games phone Manager Bob Lyles at Atlantic 2151 after 5 o'clock. A practice game for next Tuesday is wanted.

MOLASSES JANE FINISHES FAST TO WIN AT LAUREL

Port Harlem Outrun in Stretch

Xalapa Filly Adds to Victories, Gaining Diana Purse.

Balko in Improved Form to Win From Kopeck in 4th.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Md., Oct. 24.—The Xalapa Farm's Molasses Jane, a big rangy filly by Ballot—Julia N. added another to the list of victories she has scored in Maryland this fall when she won the Dixie Handicap at Laurel this afternoon. Ridden by R. Leishman, and trailing the leaders for 6 furlongs, Molasses Jane came through next to the inside rail entering the home stretch to take command at the furlong pole and the finish found her drawing away under punishment to beat Port Harlem out a scant length for the major portion of the Diana Purse for fillies.

In the early running, Murky Cloud and Port Harlem drew away from their opposition and, racing head and head, showed the way down the back stretch. Rounding the far turn, Molasses Jane was trailing along in fourth place, but when called on she moved up with a good burst of speed Port Harlem and Murky Cloud staged a long desperate stretch drive and the pair finished noses apart as named. Nearby was fourth, beaten a length for third place.

Balko Scores by Neck In Chestertown.

An added attraction, the Chestertown Purse, a dash of 6 furlongs, brought a field of good sprinters to the post. Kopeck on his Maryland form was made the choice, as he had every right to be, and he would have won had the Sagamore Stable's Balko not woke up and showed one of his best efforts. In his two previous starts at Laurel, Balko was beaten off. The fact that he ran in full equipment this afternoon was noted by some sharp operators and they profited by it.

Forcing the pace from the start, Balko came through on the inside entering the home stretch and taking command at the furlong pole he fought it out the remainder of the trip, with Kopeck to beat the latter out a neck. In the early running, Sweep Out dashed to the front and in the run down the back stretch drew away into a lead of two lengths. The Coe filly tired after going 3 furlongs and in the stretch run dropped out of it and was beaten a neck by Silverdale for the short end of the purse.

Panda Pays $103 Mutuel In Opening Event.

Black Carse started like a winner in the first when she dashed to the front and before they had gone a furlong she was galloping with a lead of one length over Panda. Galla Start was third down on the inside next the rail. The Glen Riddle filly retained her advantage until straightened out for the final run when she began to tire and Panda caught and passed her in the llast furlong, to win going away at the end by two lengths and a half. Panda paid $103.40 in the mutuels.

Black Carse, tiring badly, managed to last long enough to stagger in a head in front of Chatterwood. Galla Start after racing prominently for three furlongs tailed off and was last of her field at the finish.

Sun Hatter, the full brother of Sun Beau, that races for Robert H. Davis Jr., won like a real good horse when he beat Donnatina a neck in the running of the second race. This was a dash of one mile and 70 yards and a field of five went to the post. On public form, Lisa looked in a soft spot and she was always favorite in the wagering. Despite the heavy support accorded the Whitney filly the odds on Sun Hatter kept shortening and the wise division backed him to a man. When it came to the running, Lisa showed a poor performance and at the finish she was beaten off four lengths for the place by Donnatina.

Legere Has Sun Hatter Under Strong Pull.

Legere rode Sun Hatter in a confident manner. Rating the latter under stout restraint he trailed Donnatina who was out in front making the pace. Making the turn for home, Sun Hatter moved up and, assuming an easy lead, was under a strong pull all the last furlong. Had Legere wished Sun Hatter could have won off by himself. Lisa, never a serious factor, managed to beat Faux Pas two lengths for the show money. Her showing was far below her previous efforts in Maryland this fall when she raced against much better horses than she met this afternoon.

Another upset came with the running of the third race when Make Haste scored an easy victory. Moving up stoutly in the run down the back stretch and passing Dorita going to the half-mile pole, Make Haste kept increasing his advantage the remainder of the journey and at the finish he had a lead of four lengths over Col. Crump, who beat Ping Coates a head for the place. Dorita was fourth, another half length back.

Dorita was ridden by G. Horn. The filly broke well and was in front making the turn into the back stretch where she led Make Haste by half a length. Horn then took his mount in hand and when it came to a finish he put up a weak effort.

Sandy Ford Outruns Genial Host.

Sandy Ford, running in improved form, beat a band of fair platers in the sixth race when he won by a length from Genial Host. In the early running Sandy Ford and Begin Over raced in close order. Going to the half-mile pole Sandy Ford took the lead and was never afterwards headed. In the meantime Genial Host, after breaking well, dropped back to last position and Legere was sitting still. Not until well around the far turn did Legere make an effort and when he did Genial Host responded with energy. At the finish he closed full of courage and at the end was going much stronger than the winner. Begin Over was a tiring third, beaten a length and a half for the place.

REMSENS SCRIMMAGE.

The Remsens Court Team will scrimmage the Hamline Team at the Hamline Church tonight at 8 o'clock. The Remsens are after games with unlimited teams. Those interested, call Georgia 4230.

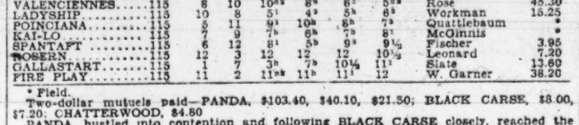
Two-dollar mutuels paid—PANDA, $103.40, $40.10, $21.50; BLACK CARSE, $8.00, $7.20; CHATTERWOOD, $4.80.

PANDA, hustled into contention and following BLACK CARSE closely, reached the latter when straightened out in the home stretch and, moving to the front inside the final furlong, drew out at will thereafter. BLACK CARSE had been early speed, saved ground, but quit fast when collared. CHATTERWOOD, always in a forward position, finished courageously at the end. AZIZ was hard urged all the way. VALENCIENNES finished very strong on the outside. LADYSHIP was outrun. POINCIANA raced good. SPANTAPT was away badly. GALLASTART quit.

PANDA, LONGEST SHOT, TAKES OPENER.



SECOND RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:17. Off at 2:18. Winner, R. H. Davis, jr.'s b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUN HATTER, $5.10, $5.30, $2.50; DONNATINA, $12.50, $2.90; LISA, $2.10.

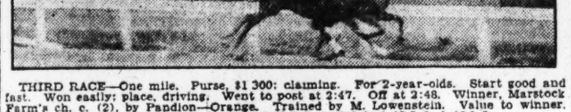
SUN HATTER, taken in hand going to the first turn, was rated in near pursuit of DONNATINA, displaced the latter when entering the home stretch and Legere had him under stiff restraint during the final furlong. DONNATINA went into a good lead, saved ground the entire trip and held on with good energy when put to a drive. LISA hard ridden all the way, was never able to menace the first two. FAUX PAS was outrun. LION HEARTED went well for seven furlongs.

SUN HATTER SHINES IN WINNING SECOND.



THIRD RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good and fast. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:47. Off at 2:48. Winner, Marstock Farm's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAKE HASTE, $15.60, $8.30, $5.00; COLONEL CRUMP, $6.60, $3.80; PING COATES, $7.50.

MAKE HASTE, away forwardly, displaced DORITA when approaching the far turn, opened up a winning lead and was never threatened thereafter. COLONEL CRUMP, unable to keep in early contention, responded to punishment and finished full of run the last quarter mile. PING COATES was going stoutly at the end. DORITA, prominent all the way, slipped through on the inside at the stretch turn to save a lot of ground, but faltered fast nearing the finish. IMA QUEEN tired when put to punishment. ULVERSTON was never a factor.

MAKE HASTE SHOWS SPEED IN THIRD RACE.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $2,000. The Diana Handicap. For all ages, fillies and mares. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:17. Off at 3:18. Winner, Xalapa Farm's b. f. (3), by Ballot—Julian. Trained by W. M. Wallace. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48, 1:13 2-5, 1:40.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MOLASSES JANE, $5.30, $3.40, $2.80; PORT HARLEM, $3.80, $3.10; MURKY CLOUD, $3.20.

MOLASSES JANE in a tangle when the break came, had good speed to reach a forward position when rushed to the first turn, raced within striking distance of the leaders and, slipping through on the inside when entering the home stretch, took command and drew out under stout urging. PORT HARLEM, hustled to keep pace with MURKY CLOUD held on grimly for the final issue. MURKY CLOUD was under a drive all the way and continued gamely after losing ground entering the home stretch. NEARBY faltered after a bold effort. The others were no excuses.

MOLASSES JANE RUNS SMOOTHLY IN FOURTH.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. The Chestertown. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 3:53. Winner, Sagamore Stable's b. c. (4), by Omar Khayyam—Rahu. Trained by H. Stotler. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 1-5, 1:12.

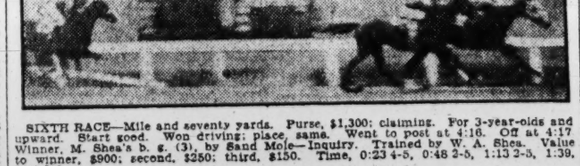
Two-dollar mutuels paid—BALKO, $14.50, $6.30, $4.20; KOPECK, $3.20, $2.50; SILVERDALE, $3.50.

BALKO, going in his best form and a keen factor from the beginning, raced SWEEP OUT into defeat, withstood a strong drive gamely when in command and outlasted KOPECK. Latter, under pressure all the way, closed resolutely. SILVERDALE, lacking early speed, finished with a tremendous rush the last three furlongs. SWEEP OUT set a fast pace, saved ground, but weakened in the final drive. PENNANT LASS was steered very wide entering the home stretch when racing stoutly. BARON KING was outrun.

BALKO TAKES MEASURE OF KOPECK IN FEATURE.



SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:16. Off at 4:17 at 3:18. Winner, M. Shea's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SANDY FORD, $13.40, $6.00, $5.20; GENIAL HOST, $6.70, $6.80. BEGIN OVER, $12.60.

SANDY FORD, favored by improved handling and racing to his best form, outran his field and steadied along, had enough in reserve to stall off GENIAL HOST. Latter broke slowly and slow to get into his best stride, closed resolutely through last half mile. BEGIN OVER showed a good test throughout. SANFORD made a bold effort when approaching the home stretch, but bung in the final issue. JUDGE BARTLETT tired after six furlongs. The others were outrun.

SANDY FORD RATTLES HOME IN SIXTH RACE.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start poor. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:51. Winner, Mrs. W. H. Denham's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PELLEGRINO, $27.70, $12.00, $7.70; NICODEMUS, $20.50, $12.10; VOLE, $10.40.

PELLEGRINO, showing a sudden reversal of form, raced close to the leaders from the start, assumed command under a drive at the far turn and, continuing with rare courage, just lasted to stall off NICODEMUS. Latter, far back early, improved his position on the outside and was gaining steadily at the end. VOLE away very slowly and a distant trailer, was racing the strongest of all at the end. PAULINA L showed a good test. FAIR BILL held on well. CORPOSANT was unable to make up any ground. SPEAR ROCK was outrun. DANGER SIGNAL quit. BOUNDING DEEP was in no position to break and was good as left.

MRS. HODGES AND MRS. NICOLSON GAIN FINALS

Miss Bowes Beaten on 19th Hole

Mrs. Cameron Beaten, 7 and 6, by Mrs. Nicolson.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE final round in the women's championship tournament of the Middle Atlantic Golf Association now in progress on the course of the Columbia Country Club will be played this morning between Mrs. J. Wm. Hodges, who represents both the Congressional and the Army, Navy and Marine Corps Clubs, and Mrs. Hugh T. (Dorothy White) Nicolson, of the Washington Golf and Country Club, who has won the title of District woman champion during the last three years.

Mrs. Nicolson reached the final round by an easy victory over Mrs. L. O. Cameron, Chevy Chase, in the semifinal round, 7 and 6, but Mrs. Hodges survived a strenuous battle with Miss Effie Bowes, Rodgers Forge, as her opponent. On the seventeenth tee Mrs. Hodges was 2 up and 2 to play, needing only a half on either one of the final holes to eliminate her opponent.

On the seventeenth hole Miss Bowes scored a birdie 3 for a win, leaving Mrs. Hodges only 1 up. On the eighteenth hole both were on the green in 3, but Mrs. Hodges lost the hole when she took three putts from a distance of about 20 feet.

Large Gallery Sees Finish.

The playing of the nineteenth hole was attended by a large gallery of women players. Both Mrs. Hodges and Miss Bowes had good drives down the fairway, but Miss Bowes, using wood in an effort to reach the green, pushed her shot into a hollow, from which point she played her third shot to the edge of the green. Mrs. Hodges, playing safely with an iron, went to the left of the green on her second and then seemed to jeopardize her chances when she played her approach shot across the green into a trap. A fine recovery laid her ball about six feet from the cup. She ran down the putt for a 5, while Miss Bowes took three shots from the edge of the green for a 6, missing a final putt that was not over two feet in length. The summary:

FIRST SIXTEEN.

SEMIFINAL ROUND—Mrs. J. M. Hodges (Army, Navy and Marine Corps) defeated Miss Effie Bowes (Rodgers Forge), 1 up, 19 holes; Mrs. Hugh T. Nicholson (Washington) defeated Mrs. L. O. Cameron (Chevy Chase), 7 and 6.

DEFEATED EIGHT. SEMIFINAL ROUND—Mrs. S. F. Colladay (Columbia) defeated Mrs. C. H. Parker (Columbia), 5 and 4; Mrs. Hume Wrong (Chevy Chase) defeated Mrs. R. A. Knox (Congressional), 3 and 2.

SECOND SIXTEEN.

SEMIFINAL ROUND—Mrs. Frank R. Cooke (Chevy Chase) defeated Miss Mary Wolf (Rodgers Forge), 4 and 3; Mrs. W. D. Bahn (Baltimore Country Club) defeated Mrs. J. R. De Farges (Columbia), 8 and 7.

DEFEATED EIGHT—Mrs. J. A. Marr (Columbia) defeated Miss Elizabeth Heuisler (Rolling Road), 2 and 1; Mrs. H. King Cornell (Columbia) defeated Mrs. Newman Little (Columbia), 5 and 4.

THIRD SIXTEEN.

SEMIFINAL ROUND—Mrs. Jerome Meyer (Town and Country) defeated Miss Bertha Israel (Town and Country), 3 and 1; Mrs. P. C. Hartle (Manor) defeated Mrs. N. B. Frost (Columbia), 1 up, 19 holes.

DEFEATED EIGHT. SEMIFINAL ROUND—Mrs. Fred Holtzman (Chevy Chase) defeated Mrs. J. H. Dowdall (Congressional), 1 up; Mrs. H. B. Hird (Manor) defeated Mrs. W. W. Nottingham (Columbia), 1 up.

FOURTH FLIGHT.

FINAL ROUND—Mrs. T. M. Beavers (Beaver Dam) defeated Mrs. J. T. Powell (Manor), 2 and 1.

PAIRINGS FOR TODAY.

FIRST SIXTEEN—Mrs. Hodges vs. Mrs. Nicolson. Defeated eight—Mrs. Colladay vs. Mrs. Wrong.

SECOND SIXTEEN—Mrs. Keefer vs. Mrs. Bahn. Defeated eight—Mrs. Marr vs. Mrs. Cornell.

THIRD SIXTEEN—Mrs. Meyer vs. Mrs. Hartle. Defeated eight—Mrs. Holtzman vs. Mrs. Hird.

The annual golf tournament of the Kiwanis Club, which was announced for today at the Columbia Club, has been postponed until next Wednesday at the Indian Spring Club.

TECH AND CENTRAL TO BATTLE TODAY

his pessimistic ways up through last night. The mentor of the championship-aspiring eleven could see little hope of his team stopping the combination of Pinckney, Colella and Hinkle, which has run through sturdy opposition this year. The Central team, it is true, has lost one game while the Tech eleven has won all three of its contests, but the Mount Pleasant eleven has been up against much heavier opposition than its rivals of the day.

Pinckney Holds Hope Of Central.

Central hopes will rest largely upon the broad shoulders of the aforementioned Larry Pinckney, former Gonzaga flash, who has led his team's offensive throughout its preseason games. The brilliant back has proven a source of extreme annoyance to all his opponents this year and he promises to cause the Techites plenty of trouble today. With Colella and Hinkle running mates in the backfield, the trio should be far from welcome to today's rivals.

Although not exactly what could be termed confident over the outcome, Rauber, nevertheless, expects his team to put up a strong battle which should force the Techites to the limit. Still smarting under last year's humiliating 48-0 trouncing received at the hands of the Manual Trainers, Rauber will have his men stepping to avenge that little matter this afternoon. And while not much could be gained from the Blue and White mentor, he openly admitted that he would be surprised if more than 7 points represented the difference in scores at the end of the day's play.

If Central exhibits the form of which it is capable today, the Blue and White team should win. Its back field possesses the punch and power necessary to drive through the green Tech line, while its own forward wall should stave off any onslaught of Nelson Goss & Co. But you never can tell what Hardell will do. If the diminutive wizard calls on any of his supreme gray matter today, most anything is liable to occur.

BIG EMERSON TEAM BEATS EASTERN, 21-0

weakened at the very start of the game when Tom Nally, its captain and left tackle, was injured on the opening kick-off and had to be carried from the field. His place was taken by Snifkin. The leader of the Kelley-coached aggregation was not seriously hurt, however, and may be expected back in the line-up within a few days. The losers suffered another casualty late in the game when Charley Millar, their punter and brilliant ball carrier, was roughed when attempting to punt, being unable to finish the game.

Eastern Appears in The Running.

For a while it looked as if the high school team might upset their visitors as throughout the first half it had the prepmen on the run, twice being within the very shadow of the Emerson goal. But with their backs to the wall, the Emersonians stayed off each threat and repulsed these only two threats of the losers. At the end of the first quarter, the ball was resting on the Emerson 6-yard line and at the resumption of play, Bennie McCullough carried the pigskin to within 4 inches of the last white line.

However, the next two plays failed to add an inch and Forney kicked out of danger. Seemingly undiscouraged, the Easterners started another drive to the enemy goal, but with the ball again on the 1-yard mark, Emerson once more held for downs and Forney's toe again booted the oval out of a scoring position.

Although on the defensive throughout the early part of the game, the Big Red team opened up with its scoring tactics after the resumption of play and scored its first touchdown in the third quarter, after which it added 14 more points in the final stanza. Although both scores were made through straight football, methods, each drive was started as the result of a punt blocked from the toe of Charley Millar.

Kilroy Plunges Over From 1-Yard Line.

Gaining this advantage on the Light Blue and White 33-yard line in the initial drive, the prepmen, with Kilroy doing the rushng, took the ball to the 1-yard line, from where he plunged over for the first marker. During the drive, Cabell threw a brilliant pass to Jakie Lewis, former Business star, which netted 15 yards. The second marker came during the middle of the last quarter, being started by another blocked punt of the same Millar. Kilroy again plunged over from the 1-foot line after the ball had been carried from the 25-yard mark.

The last touchdown was more spectacular than the other two for it was made on a long 20-yard pass which Kilroy threw to Cabell who ran the remaining few steps to the goal.

St. John's Handicapped By Injuries to Stars

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 24.—The St. John's College football squad has a casualty list likened unto a hospital ward, according to Athletic Director M. Talbott Riggs. Several are varsity players. John Lumpkin, junior varsity man, is in a precarious condition. The situation is a terrific blow in view of the Virginia game Saturday.

Hurt against Business College, of Washington, last Friday, Lumpkin, a Baltimorean, doctors, including his father, fear he has a broken back. He has been removed to a Baltimore hospital for examination.

Hampden-Sidney Meets Roanoke Eleven Today

Hampden-Sidney, Va., Oct. 24 (A. P.).—Hampden-Sidney and Roanoke, opponents in a game in Death Valley here tomorrow afternoon, will be almost evenly matched as far as poundage is concerned.

Statistics show that the Tigers have a 170-pound line, a 157-pound back field and a team average of 163 avoirdupois. The team from Roanoke weighs 178 pounds in the line, 154 in the back field and has an average of 167 pounds.

The contest this year assumes a more significant place in view of the home-coming celebration this week-end at Hampden-Sidney College. Former students from all over the South have indicated their intentions of visiting their Alma Mater homecoming day and one of the largest crowds ever to assemble in Death Valley is expected.

Russ Passes for Duke In Villanova Contest

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., Oct. 24.—If present plans are carried out Taft Russ, sophomore half back, and Don Hyatt, sophomore end, will work the Duke aerial attack against Villanova Saturday at Philadelphia.

Russ is slated to start the game at left half and Hyatt is back at right end again. Late in the Navy game this pair pulled off a sensational pass that netted 40 yards and Duke looked ready to score again, but the shorter passes failed.

If anything, Russ passes a little longer than does Bule. Most of his effective passes have been far down the field.

Duke's hard game with the Navy left some of the men a bit bunged up and the coaches considered it a good time to start Russ, who has been giving the regular backs a hard fight the last two weeks.

IROQUOIS PLAYS SUNDAY.

BYRD ELEVEN READY FOR VA. POLY

5 Sophomores Start in Annual Clash at Richmond.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND probably will start six seniors and five sophomores in its football game with the Virginia Military Institute in the Richmond Stadium tomorrow afternoon.

With Charlie Dodson definitely out of the back field and Augie Roberts not in shape to start, the quartet back of the forward wall doubtless will be composed of Shorty Chalmers, at quarter; Buck Miller and Bill Evans, half backs, and Julie Radice, full back. Evans and Radice are seniors and Chalmers and Miller are sophs.

Norris, Krajcovic and Carlis are the sophomores and all the others are seniors, except Fisher, who is a junior. However, there is just a possibility that he may start in the place of Lombard.

With Roberts out of the game, the kicking will fall upon the shoulders of Miller, who is capable of holding up his end with most punters of the section. Chalmers and Evans also are above the average booters. In fact, there is a good deal of versatility in the Maryland back field, as both Evans and Chalmers are clever passers and the latter is an excellent dropkicker.

The Old Liners had their last hard work yesterday for the clash with the Cadets and today will do nothing more than run through signals and listen to some instructions on defense and offense.

Maryland's team, accompanied by its topnotch band and an array of rooters, will leave for the Virginia capital by special train tomorrow morning, arriving there shortly before noon.

21-14 VICTORY SCORED BY CLEMSON

Passing Attack Leading Factor in Loss of S. Carolina.

STATE FAIR GROUNDS, Columbia, S. C., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—By means of a dazzling offensive, the Clemson College Tigers this afternoon defeated the South Carolina Gamecocks, 21 to 14, in their annual classic. Fourteen thousand spectators sat tense through the wild and wooly performance.

Clemson scored two of its three touchdowns directly on passes, one in the first quarter and one in the second. South Carolina came back to even the count by scoring a pair of touchdowns on interception of Clemson passes, one in the second and one in the fourth quarter.

The Clemson eleven scored in the early stages of the game, opening up a terrific attack on the South Carolina line, and mixing a passing offense. Johnny Justus shot across the Gamecocks' final chalk mark on a sweeping end run. McCarley place kicked the point.

Clemson kept up its rushing attacks throughout the second quarter and scored another touchdown, using the same diversified attack that netted the Tigers a score in the first period. McMillan passed to Jones for the second touchdown and McCarley kicked goal.

Rhame intercepted a Clemson pass on his own 20-yard line and raced 80 yards for a touchdown. Zobel kicked the goal.

Boineau Runs 80 Yards, Intercepting Pass.

Neither team scored in the third period, but the Tigers continued their passing attack. There was little of the unusual with the exception of the Clemson aerial game, which appeared to be "spotty" as the South Carolina backs covered the Tiger receivers.

Still covering the Tigers' passes in the fourth quarter, the Gamecocks turned another Clemson pass into a touchdown when Boineau intercepted a pass on his 20-yard line and sprinted 80 yards for a touchdown. Boineau place kicked the extra point.

Boineau's great sprint was wiped out a few minutes later when he fumbled on his own 18-yard line. McMillan dashed 18 yards through left guard for a touchdown and McCarley place kicked the point.

V. P. I. Line Is Strong For N. Carolina Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 24.—The line which Andy Gustafson and Lee Frank will hurl against North Carolina at Chapel Hill Saturday boasts but one man who helped Frank Peake and the Pony Express to a victory in Kenan Stadium a year ago. This veteran is Dex Hubbard, the lightest man in the line, but one of the most aggressive guards in recent gridiron annals at V. P. I.

Hubbard was the running mate of the all-State Hotchkiss last year and is considered the equal of that "mighty midget" of the '28 forwards. Both are small as linemen go but both are blessed with speed and football brains and a fighting spirit, fully in keeping with V. P. I. traditions. Coach Andy Gustafson says that these two lightweights are just the type that old Pop Warner liked on each side of his big centers. Hotchkiss has passed from the field to the coaching realm and Hubbard stands alone as the last of the 1928 invaders of Tarheel soil.

Capt. Nutter at left end did not play last year; neither did Walter Pattie, the other end. Harry Stark and Jim Swart are new men at the tackle posts, and Red Jones, left guard, and Hal Wimmer, center, are new to Carolina soil.

ON SOUTHERN GRIDIRONS

By EDDIE BRIETZ
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

DOWN at Gainesville, Fla., Maj. Charles Bachman is busy rebuilding the Florida Alligators for a try at stopping the mad dash of the Georgia Bulldogs tomorrow.

Bachman is trying to find satisfactory replacements for four or five line bulwarks who were laid out in the fierce battle with Georgia Tech last week. The 'Gators were hard hit by injuries, but Coach Bachman is hoping they will feel mad enough and mean enough after last week's walloping to take Georgia for a fine old buggy ride. Harry Mehre isn't at all pleased with the way the Georgia team has been showing this week.

Meanwhile, from New Orleans come reports of a dazzling overhead attack the Tulane Green wave is developing for Georgia Tech.

Recalling that last week the Golden Tornado took to the skies to beat Florida at its own game, Coach Bernie Bierman is said to be planning to use the same tactics against the Yellow Jackets.

Enough gloom to sink the Japanese fleet emanates from the Tech camp where Maree, the giant full back, is definitely out of pregame calculations with a game ankle and Thomason, another back field wheelhorse, is nursing a badly injured shoulder.

There has been no letup at Tennessee. Hackman and McEver are perfecting their act for the enlightenment and edification of Roanoke fans who will see them in action against Washington and Lee.

Virginia Poly, with McAuley McEver back in harness, counts on catching North Carolina on the rebound from the Georgia disaster and signalizing its conference bow with a victory.

Virginia Military is primed for Maryland. Duke is still looking for reserves to back up the regulars against Villa Nova. North Carolina State is en route to East Lansing to play Michigan State and Mississippi invades Dallas to meet Southern Methodist.

The other conference elevens have warmups booked.

FOUNDATION SURVEY ATTACKED, PRAISED

report revealed little information which was not generally known.

A number of educators admitted their colleges aided athletes, along with other deserving youths, but denied that aid was given more freely because of a boy's athletic prowess.

Sports editors, as a rule, treated the report humorously and the Atlanta Constitution suggested that the Carnegie Foundation next could be expected to send an expedition to the North Pole and report that there is no Santa Claus.

Both Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, and Dr. Albert B. Dinwiddie, president of Tulane, schools which received a clean bill of health, expressed gratification that their institutions had been found free of any taint of athletic subsidies or commercialism.

"We shall continue to fight such practices whether or not we ever win another game," said Dr. Alderman.

Chancellor James H. Kirkland, of Vanderbilt University, said that if there had been any infraction of ethical rules at Vanderbilt "I do not know of it in my official capacity."

Alabama came into the report under the head of "assisting athletes," but Dr. George Denny, president, pointed out that "many students are employed in part-time work" and added that "on the basis of worth and not for athletic prowess."

Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University, asked to be excused from making a statement.

Officials at Georgia Tech also were silent, while at the University of North Carolina it was announced that no statement would be made until the official copy of the Carnegie report had been received and scanned.

All these schools came in for more or less prominent mention.

Officials of the University of Georgia, which was accused of failure to cooperate with the investigators, could not be reahed for a statement, but the Demosthenian Literary Society in deciding a debate voted in favor of the prohibition of athletic scholarships by the Southern Conference.

Virginia U., Cleared, Gratified by Report

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 24.—President Edwin A. Alderman expressed deep gratification today at the University of Virginia being one of the 28 colleges in North America cleared by the Carnegie Foundation as being free from any taint of subsidy or commercialism in athletic events.

"It has been the policy at Virginia for nearly 20 years," said Dr. Alderman, "to fight commercialism and to protect the university from any form of subsidies that would tend to destroy the amateurism of sports.

"In so doing Virginia has probably lost standing as a winner of games, but it has maintained something far better—its reputation for square dealing. Athletics cease to have value as an educational process when it takes on the taint of commercialism.

ON VIRGINIA GRIDIRONS

(Associated Press.)

FIVE of Coach Oberst's Washington and Lee Generals were not present for drill early this week due to injuries. Capt. Bill Hawkins, star tackle, has a mashed hand; Martin, first string guard at the beginning of the season, continues hurt for the second consecutive week; Tilson, reserve tackle and center, will be unable to play for another week on account of a bad ankle, and Wilson and Stevens, substitute end and full back, respectively, complete those who have suffered injuries sufficient to keep them off the field.

This unfortunate circumstance comes to Washington and Lee on the eve of her meeting with the undefeated Tennessee Volunteers at Roanoke Saturday.

Spectators at Virginia's games have been impressed with the fact that the water bucket is never brought on the field when time out is taken. That is because the Cavaliers are not thirsty. Archie Hahn, the trainer, told the men the first of the season that they must get used to going without water during practices. They have gotten used to it now, and find they don't miss the drink they formerly thought they had to have.

With the Randolph-Macon game as the high light on the program Roanoke College will celebrate Father's Day, November 15, with entertainment of various types for the dads of students.

Beasts of the Jungle will greet V. M. I.'s flying squadron on the two week-ends succeeding the engagement in Richmond with the Old Liners of Maryland. The Wildcats of Davidson come first, November 2, at Davidson, and November 9 the Tigers of Clemson will go all the way from South Carolina to Norfolk to attack the Cadets.

V. P. I.'s coming battle Saturday with North Carolina brings up memories of last year's Gobbler victory in which Frank Peake and his pony express back field showed the Tarheels how good a fast back field can be. This year Peake's place is being taken (if it can be taken) by Tommy Tomko and Phil Spear, both of whom have shown up well in Tech's early engagements. Hooper again will preside at quarter and the monstrous Mit Owens is counted on to repeat last Saturday's sterling play.

Minor injuries probably kept two of Virginia's first line substitutes out of the V. M. I. game last Saturday. In the same afternoon of scrimmage last week, Freyhan Odenheimer, half back, received a severe cut on the hand and Norwood Orrick, end, suffered a slight shoulder dislocation. Both men should be able to play against St. John's this week.

C. U. PRIMED TO BATTLE RUTGERS

Blasi Only New Face in Line-Up; Oliver at Quarter Back.

WITH all of its regulars but Capt. Jack Malevich and Oscar Gerth in sound physical condition, and boasting a greater degree of smoothness than obtained in any previous game this season, the Catholic University grid machine departs this morning for New Brunswick, N. J., where tomorrow Rutgers will be met in the fifth game of the Cardinal schedule.

To a man, the Cardinals feel confident of defeating the New Brunswick outfit which thus far has compiled a record not quite as impressive as the locals'. Head Coach Jack McAuliffe and Back Field Coach Chick Gagnon anticipate Catholic's best showing to date in this game.

The same line-up, with one exception as that which started against Villanova last Saturday, will face Rutgers. Rocco Blasi probably will start at left end in pace of Gerth, who is suffering an ankle injury, the same ailment hampering Capt. Malevich. Johnny Lyons will take the right end berth.

O'Connor and Collins In the Line.

Bob O'Connor and Denny Collins will be seen in the left tackle and guard positions, with "Desperate" Ambrose at center. On the right side will be George Menke, guard, and Armand Raiche, tackle.

Johnny Oliver, sensational little sophomore, who ran back the opening kick-off 90 yards in the Villanova game, will handle the quarter back duties again. Gene Murphy, whom Oliver succeeded as signal-caller, will be seen again at fullback, while Joe Champa and Carl DeMello will get the call at the half backs. DeMello will do the punting in the absence of Malevich. His spirals last Saturday averaged about 45 yards.

A year ago Catholic and Rutgers clashed, with the latter taking the decision, 12 to 0. The Cardinals are in much better shape now than they were immediately before the 1928 game, and, judging from performances to date this season, are stronger than their foes. Grossman and Roberts, both backs, are the outstanding players for Rutgers.

OAKLAND CLUB SOLD.

Oakland, Calif., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Sale of the Oakland Club of the Pacific Coast Baseball League for $500,000 to A. R. Miller and Victor Devincenzi, local business men, and Carl Zamloch, assistant football coach of the University of California, was announced today by Cal Ewing, president of the club since 1915.

SWIMMER ENGAGED.

San Rafael, Calif., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Engagement of Eleanor Garatti, national 100-meter swimming champion, to Laurence Saville, a mechanical engineer of San Francisco, was announced today, the wedding to occur next summer. He is 29 and she is 20.

ELLA CINDERS— Don't Lose Your Head — By Bill Conselman and Charlie Plumb

Just when Ella's father was about to recover the $50,000 that Wah Kee had stolen from him, the latter called for help and then accused him. Samuel Cinders, who has been in China for a year, is telling Ella about it.
WHAT DID YOU DO, DAD, WHEN WAH KEE SAID YOU TRIED TO ROB HIM?
I'LL TELL YOU! THEY WERE LEADING ME TO PRISON AND I KNEW THAT MEANT I WOULD BE BEHEADED! THEY EXECUTE THIEVES IN CHINA! BUT AS I WAS BEING LED THROUGH THE NARROW STREETS WITH A MOB HOWLING AT MY HEELS—
A VOICE COMMANDED US TO HALT! I COULD HAVE WEPT FOR JOY! IT WAS MY OLD FRIEND, SING LO, THE CHINESE WAR LORD! IT WAS DOING A MISSION FOR HIM THAT HAD CAUSED ALL MY PRESENT DIFFICULTIES! HE KNEW THE TRUTH OF THE WHOLE MATTER AND HE SAW THAT JUSTICE WAS DONE AT ONCE!
SING LO ORDERED ME SET FREE AND PASSED SENTENCE OF DEATH ON WAH KEE AFTER SEEING TO IT THAT I GOT BACK MY FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS! THEN HE INVITED ME TO HIS PALACE! I HAD HAD A NARROW ESCAPE BUT I HAD ACCOMPLISHED MY PURPOSE! YOU CAN IMAGINE HOW HAPPY I WAS AT THAT MOMENT!

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM

Several Stocks Reviewed.

E. T. C.—Will you kindly advise me as to the financial condition of the following: Graham Paige Auto Co., Granby Steel, Hershey Chocolate Co., Maytag Washing Machine Co.

Answer—Graham Paige Motors, on which no common dividends are paid, with none in early prospect, is not unattractive as a speculation to hold over a period of years, although in its present stage it can not be considered an investment. Hershey Chocolate Co. as a corporation is only two years old. The present company took over the original company and have not yet placed it on a definite earning basis and at present the stock must be regarded without attraction for near term speculation, but has some possibilities for the long pull. Maytag is considered a speculative investment. The company has enjoyed the best half-year, ended June 30, in its history. Foreign sales show particular promise. Company is now earning at the rate of over $3 per share on its stock and it is considered to be reasonably priced, both with respect to earnings and dividends.

Standard Gas & Electric.

J. A. H.—I am interested in Standard Gas & Electric. Would you give me your opinion regarding this stock and advisability of holding same for long-term investment.

Answer—Unsatisfactory results over past two years reflect competition in gas appliance industry with productive capacity greatly in excess of consumption demand. Under the circumstances, the stock must be classed as a radical speculation not suitable for investment holding.

Calumet & Hecla.

H. F. W., Takoma Park, D. C.—Will you please tell me what you think of Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Copper Co. as a long pull investment?

Answer—Earnings of Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Copper, recent years have made poor showing partly due to large depletion write offs. Earnings amounted in 1928, after depletion to $1.55 per share, compared with 29 cents in 1927 and 75 cents in 1926. Earnings for 1929 will approximate those of 1928. At that rate it does not appear attractive as an investment.

Ford Motor, Ltd.

J. M.—Do you consider Ford Motor, Ltd., a good stock for investment purposes?

Answer—The stock has attraction only as a long pull speculation of the most radical type. However, under the guidance of the parent Ford organization it may ultimately become an extremely profitable concern.

Cooper Corporation.

W. M. P.—I hold a few shares of Cooper Corporation preferred. Would you advise taking my loss and investing in Procter & Gamble?

Answer—While it is generally pretty hard for any one to take a loss in any stock, and even harder for one conducting a column such as this to advise that such should be done, nevertheless it has often been found to be advantageous to do so and to reinvest in some other security having greater promise than the one in which an unprofitable venture has been made.

Inasmuch as the past record of the Cooper Corporation and its unimpressive earnings statements have left much to be desired, and considering that Procter & Gamble is very well regarded in conservative investment circles, it might be well for you to make the change of stock holdings which you suggest.

Ardsley-Butte.

W. C. B.—Will you be good enough to tell me what you know about Ardsley-Butte, a mine of Butte, Mont.? All too late, I began to follow your advice as to not buying "nonlisted" stocks. This is one of them.

Answer—The stock of the Ardsley-Butte Mines Corporation is not entirely "nonlisted," as it is listed on the Boston Curb and is also dealt in over the counter in New York, though apparently not frequently traded in. The company was incorporated July, 1926, in South Dakota to take over property of the bankrupt Butte Elk Park Extension Mining Co.

Property is said to consist of 1,000 acres in Jefferson County, Mont., located 15 miles from Butte and 55 miles from the plant of the American Smelting & Refining Co., at East Helena. Receipts, including those from ore shipments for the six months ended June 30, 1928 (latest figures available), amounted to $150,190. According to the records, no dividends have ever been paid on the stock. Its future prospects appear extremely doubtful.

North American Edison.

J. B. M.—Kindly advise me just what is North American Edison and by whom sponsored. Please name some municipal bonds that net more than Liberty bonds.

Answer—The North American Edison Co. is an intermediary holding company for the North American Co., by which it is controlled. The system controlled by the North American Co. is one of the largest groups of electric power utilities in the world under a single ownership. It controls properties which serve a population of nearly 4,000,000, and have an annual output of over 4,100,000 kwh. Capital stock of the holding company consists of 280,930 shares of $6 cumulative preferred and 450,000 shares of common stock, the latter being all owned by the North American Co. Both issues are of no-par value.

Dividends at the full rate have been paid regularly on the holding company preferred stock since issuance. Gross earnings have increased steadily each year from $66,315,000 in 1924 to over $89,800,000 in 1928. Net income has also shown continuous increases, reaching a high of $14,930,396 in 1928, equal to $53.15 per preferred share, based on 280,930 preferred shares, compared with $12,698,633 in 1927, equal to $63.50 per share of preferred, based on a smaller outstanding amount of shares.

Property and plant have increased rapidly in recent years, being carried at the end of 1928 at $442,241,157, an increase of almost $200,000,000 since December 31, 1925.

The North American Edison Co. was incorporated March 25, 1922, under the laws of Delaware.

Bonds of leading municipalities do not, as a general rule, yield very much more than the Liberty bonds, and while some of them carry a high rating, they are not obviously considered as safe as are the bonds of the Government. There are some "corporate stock" issues of the City of New York on which annual interest of from 4¼ to 4½ is paid and which have a considerable time to run on which the income yield at present ranges anywhere from around 4 per cent to almost 4½ per cent. Bonds of some of the smaller cities, with annual interest payments ranging from 4¾ per cent up to 6 per cent, yield to the investor at present an income ranging from around 4.80 per cent up to as much as 6 per cent. The 5¼ per cent bonds of Willowick, Ohio, due 1931, yield 6 per cent. The 6 per cent bonds of Asbury Park, N. J., due 1933-35, yield 5.35 per cent. The 4¾ per cent bonds of Asheville, N. C., due 1939-44, yield 5 per cent. Concerning the other bonds on which you seek information and advice, would refer you to any reputable local bond dealer, who will be able to furnish you with a list of such bonds.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

MARYLAND TO OPEN MILES OF NEW ROAD

Motor Caravan and Dinner Will Mark Celebration Over Highway.

HOOKS UP VAST SECTION

Celebration of the opening of an additional 10-mile network of State roads to connect several important Montgomery County communities will be held tomorrow at Damascus and other interested towns. The celebration will be featured by a motor tour of the new highway and a turkey dinner in the evening.

The program will begin with the assembling at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon of a motor caravan at Laytonsville, which will then proceed to Etchison and Damascus, returning over another strip of the new road to Browningville and Lewisdale, after which they will return to Damascus for a basket luncheon at the home of Denoah King. Four bands will furnish music.

After the dinner speeches will be made at the Damascus High School. According to plans announced by County Commissioner Downey Williams, who is in charge of the program; Robert G. Hilton, president of the Farmers Banking & Trust Co., at Rockville, will be toastmaster and master of ceremonies.

The speakers will include Maj. E. Brooks Lee, speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates and Democratic leader; Dr. George L. Edmonds, chairman of the county delegation to the House of Delegates, and Police Judge Charles W. Woodward.

After the exercises, county officials, civic leaders and others will be entertained at a dinner at the home of Marine Darby at Etchison.

The new road, which will be opened and dedicated, links several important communities. When the final link, about 2½ miles between Laytonsville and Olney, is completed next year, a new and direct route will be provided between this section and the Mount Airy sections of Frederick and Carroll Counties and the heart of Washington, by way of Georgia avenue and Sixteenth street.

Four Montgomery County Commissioners left yesterday from Rockville to inspect road building methods and machinery in operation in Virginia and West Virginia. The party passed last night in Winchester.

Those making the trip are Lacy Shaw, vice president of the board; Robert L. Hickerson, of Germantown; Clagett C. Hilton, of Barnesville, and Downey Williams, of Damascus. Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, of Bethesda, president of the board, was unable to accompany the group. John H. Hunter, of Silver Spring, accompanied the commissioners.

Mrs. L. C. Probert, of Olney, has resigned from the chairmanship of the woman's board of the county hospital at Sandy Spring. It is understood she resigned because she plans passing the winter in Chicago and will be unable to attend to details. Mrs. Mahlon Kirk 4th, has been appointed temporary chairman.

Residents of the Germantown section are petitioning the bus line which now serves Bethesda, Rockville and Gaithersburg to extend service to their town. A petition bearing 37 names has been filed with the bus company and the company's decision is expected soon.

Theft of three chickens from her hen yard was reported yesterday to police of the Rockville headquarters by Mrs. Margaret Dawson, of Rockville.

Miss Anna Louise Parent, of Rockville, was injured yesterday when her automobile, driven by Miss Kathleen Aud, teacher at the Sherwood High School, Sandy Spring, was in collision with an automobile driven by Francis M. Hawkins, jr., on the Colesville pike, near Indian Spring Golf Club.

A hearing on demurrer filed by the Maryland State Roads Commission in connection with the suit for an injunction filed by nine residents of Kensington, which seeks to force the commission to abandon plans to build an overhead bridge on Lincoln avenue over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks, will be held today at Circuit Court in Rockville.

The plaintiffs, Edgar W. Moore, a former mayor of Kensington; Frank P. Welsh, Harry K. Corrick, John A. Feeney, Clare M. Dyson, Frank S. Shipley, William A. Chapman, Charles D. Phillips and Joseph O. Murray, allege the commission is arbitrary, unreasonable and is abusing its power when it orders the construction of the bridge and allege that their property adjoining will be damaged by such a bridge.

The defendants, G. Clinton Uhl, Howard Bruce, John K. Shaw and the Maryland State Roads Commission, through Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Archer and Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners of Montgomery County, contend that the plaintiffs have no cause for action. The hearing will be before Judge Robert B. Peter.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt Will Attend Ball

Wife of New York Governor Among Other Notables on Guest List.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the Governor of New York and former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, has accepted an invitation to attend the second annual governor's ball of modern times at the John Marshall Hotel, Richmond, November 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred I. du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., have made reservations among others of State and national reputation.

These announcements were made today by Mrs. E. Burnett Farmer, director of the ball, in connection with a statement that preparations for the event have become intensified in the last several days and that the pretentious program will be carried out as planned.

The minuet dancers and hostesses already are holding meetings in anticipation of the ball, and other phases of the program are being attended to by the committee chairmen.

A special invitation has been issued by Gov. Harry Byrd to his personal friends, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, to attend.

Study Iron Rolling.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—A two-year research in to rolling iron and steel in the mills will begin this fall at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The board of directors of the Alexandria United Charities will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the chamber of commerce.

Winchester Mecca Of Shriners Today

Gov. Byrd Among Large Class of Candidates to Be Initiated.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 24.—Downtown sections of Winchester and many residences were gaily decorated today with flags and bunting and Mystic Shrine banners and pennants in honor of members of that order, who gather tomorrow for the first ceremonial to be held here in more than 20 years.

A large class of candidates, including Gov. Harry F. Byrd, is to be initiated. The class is understood to be so large that two sessions will be required for that feature, one before and another after an early evening banquet. The ceremonies will be in charge of Acca Temple, of Richmond, which will be accompanied by the million dollar Acca Temple Band and Chanters. The band and chanters are to give a concert Friday night at the Handley High School Auditorium. The local committee on arrangements announced today that between 2,000 and 2,500 Shriners from Virginia and nearby States of West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania, and District of Columbia were expected here during the day, many Shrine Clubs coming in uniform and with bands.

NAVY OFFICER SLAIN FOR $250, IS BELIEF

Lieut. Harold W. Northcutt, Lured From Portsmouth Home by Phone Call.

ABANDONED AUTO FOUND

Missing from his home in Portsmouth, Va., since Tuesday night when he vanished mysteriously, Lieut. Harold Wilson Northcutt, U. S. N., is believed by Navy officials and friends here to have been either kidnapped or slain for $250 in University of Virginia tuition fees which he had collected up to last Monday. Northcutt's automobile, which vanished at the same time he did, was found abandoned near Richmond, Va., late yesterday afternoon.

Navy officers and men, Department of Justice agents, State and local authorities are engaged in widespread search for the lieutenant, but at a late hour last night not a clew as to his whereabouts had been found.

The sinister, unidentified figure in the disappearance of Lieut. Northcutt is a stranger who made inquiries about the young naval officer at the Portsmouth High School on Monday night, had Northcutt pointed out to him and apparently knew the officer had collected funds for the University of Virginia.

Lured by Phone Call.

Northcutt, who is stationed with the Construction Corps at Portsmouth, for the past several weeks, has been teaching evening classes in the extension course of the University of Virginia in Portsmouth High School. From the pupils in this course, the lieutenant collected $250 in tuition fees. Recently he wrote to the university officials, asking what disposition he should make of this money.

Tuesday morning, the lieutenant received a telephone call at his home from a man who represented himself as an agent of the university. Northcutt was requested to take the money with him to Portsmouth High School when he went to teach his evening classes and after the classes had been dismissed, to meet this agent of the university at the Maury High School in Norfolk, Va.

According to Mrs. Northcutt, her husband took the money when he left to teach his evening classes. Persons in the Portsmouth High School saw Northcutt enter his automobile shortly after 8 o'clock Tuesday night apparently on his way to the Maury School, in Norfolk. That was the last seen of the young naval officer.

Janitor Tells of Stranger.

When he did not return to his home late Tuesday night, Mrs. Northcutt notified naval authorities who at once instituted a search. Later Department of Justice agents, State and local officials were called in on the case, but until this afternoon, when the missing automobile was found in Richmond, not a clew developed.

Investigation revealed that the janitor at the Portsmouth High School was approached by a stranger on Monday night and asked in which room Lieut. Northcutt taught. The janitor reported that he not only gave the stranger this information, but pointed out Northcutt in the hall of the school. The stranger departed without making himself known to the lieutenant.

A check-up with officials of the University of Virginia revealed that no one connected with the institution had authorized Northcutt to meet any agent at Norfolk nor has the money which the lieutenant collected been received at the college.

No Sign of Struggle.

James M. Hayes, motor vehicle commissioner of Virginia, who reported the finding of Northcutt's automobile in the business district of Richmond, declared that there were no signs of violence found in the abandoned machine. Several checks, payable to the University of Virginia were discovered in the automobile, but no evidence to indicate Northcutt's whereabouts was found.

Lieut. Northcutt is 28 years old, 5 feet 7 inches tall, of medium build and complexion. He graduated from the United States Military Academy with the class of 1923, standing third in his class in scholarship. Later he completed a post-graduate course in naval construction at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. For For the past year he has been on duty with the industrial department at the Navy Yard at Portsmouth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Northcutt of New London, Mo., and was appointed to the Naval Academy by the late Representative Champ Clark.

Well Known Here.

Lieut. Northcutt is well known in Washington where he was a frequent visitor and where in 1925 his wedding to Miss Betty Bryant, only child of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. C. Bryant, of 3611 Wisconsin avenue northwest, was one of the notable social events of that season. The marriage took place in the Washington Cathedral.

Lieut. and Mrs. Northcutt have one son, Bryant Northcutt who is 10 months old. Mrs. Northcutt's mother left Washington yester for Portsmouth to be with her daughter. The missing naval officer is the son-in-law of "Buck" Bryant of the New York World Washington Bureau.

Sons of Revolution Meet Hoover Today

President Hoover at noon today is scheduled to receive members of the executive committee of the National Society, Sons of the American Revolution, who this morning begin a two-day fall meeting at the organization's headquarters at 1227 Sixteenth street northwest. They will be accompanied by other prominent members of the society.

Among the executive committee members here for the event are Howard C. Rowley, of San Francisco, president general of the society; Lieut. Gov. Ernest R. Rogers, of Connecticut, past president general; Benjamin N. Johnson, of Boston; Ganson Depew, of Buffalo, N. Y., past president general; Loren E. Souers, of Canton, Ohio; Rulef C. Schanck, of Pittsburgh; F. W. Millspaugh, of Nashville, Tenn., vice president general, and Josiah A. Van Orsdel, of the Court of Appeals.

Jack Mullane Directs City Club Minstrels

An old-fashioned minstrel show was enjoyed by several hundred persons in the ballroom of the City Club last night. The show was given under the direction of Jack Mullane, prominent in entertainment activities of the club, who served as interlocutor.

Among those who were featured in the show were Barney Puck, Joe Howard, Bill Zeitler and Rodney Mallin, end men; Marian Lee, the Montrose Entertainers, the Carroll Sisters and Clara Railey's dancers. Sam Hollin served as accompanist.

Tobacco Receipts Rise Under Buying

1,000,000 Pounds of Leaf Are Stored at Danville; Japanese on Hand.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct. 24.—Marked improvement in tobacco prices reported generally in the Old Belt of Virginia and North Carolina during the last two days has stimulated deliveries, and Danville had almost a million pounds of leaf in the eight local auction warehouses. The buying forces barely finished the sale. Tobacco is now selling here at an average of 20 cents a pound after starting the season early this month at 14 cents. The cream of the crop is now coming in.

Japanese agents representing that country's government are here and are following the sales with their local representatives. This is taken to mean that the Japanese monopoly is defining its needs more clearly now that types usually bought freely for cigarette purposes are coming to hand.

The trade in the meantime is watching with interest the reported "all-China" movement, under which people of that country are being urged to buy commodities manufactured there. The movement, should it develop, might eventually affect the steady rise in the export of American cigarettes to China, though it might stimulate China's demand in this belt for the raw product for manufacturing purposes.

DOCTORS TO MEET IN NORFOLK IN 1930

Charles R. Grandy Is Elected President of Virginia Medical Society.

FOOD FADDISTS SCORED

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 24.—At the final business session of the Sixtieth annual meeting of the Medical Society of Virginia, Norfolk was selected as the place for next year's convention and the following officers elected:

Charles R. Grandy, Norfolk, president; J. Allison Hodges, Richmond, president elect; R. L. Raiford, Franklin; John A. Gibson, Leesburg, and F. H. Smith, Abingdon, vice presidents; Miss Agnes Edwards, Richmond, secretary-treasurer.

The society recommended to Gov. Byrd and the Legislature that sufficient appropriation be provided to enable State institutions for the mentally ill and defective to measure up to the standard of the best institutions in this country and to sustain efficient mental hygiene programs looking to the prevention of mental disorders, defects and delinquencies. Establishment of a professorship of psychiatry in each medical college of the State was also urged.

Resolutions presented by Dr. Fred Hodges, Richmond, against food faddists and in favor of a common sense diet were adopted.

Dr. Thomas Parran, jr., assistant surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service, told the Virginia Social Hygiene Council that the morbidity of venereal diseases is second only to respiratory infections. In pointing out that there are nearly two-thirds of 1,000,000 cases of syphilis in the United States, Dr. Parran said that early diagnosis and treatment is necessary if the usual later stages of heart disease, blindness, insanity, paralysis and deafness were to be overcome. There were 4,755 cases under treatment in Virginia last year, he said.

Responsibility for elimination of the scourge lies with the medical profession, Dr. Parran declared, asserting that it was an important public health question.

Railroad Blamed In Deaths of Four

Rockville Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict Charging Negligence of B. & O.

Negligence of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was the verdict of a coroner's jury at Rockville yesterday afternoon into the accident there early Wednesday morning in which four persons were fatally injured and three others hurt when a B & O locomotive backed into a motor-powered track car in which they were riding.

No other explanation was made by the jury, which was presided over by Justice of the Peace John Jones.

State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., announced that the report of the coroner's jury probably will be submitted to the Montgomery County grand jury when it meets on November 11.

Two Men Hurt as Auto Runs Into Phone Pole

Two men were injured yesterday morning when the automobile in which they were riding left the road on the Frederick pike near Gaithersburg and collided with a telegraph pole. Lester Weaver, of Derwood, Md., was cut on the head and body and Thomas Selby, also of Derwood, suffered several broken ribs.

The men were brought to Rockville police headquarters by E. J. Devore. The Washington Post route agent and then taken to Montgomery County General Hospital by County Policeman Windsor Poole. The men were riding in the automobile of E. P. Ganley, of Derwood, which police say they had taken without permission early yesterday morning. No charges have been placed against them as yet.

STATE TURKEY CROP SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Virginia Figures Top Those for Entire Nation by 6 Per Cent.

EARLY SEASON WAS BAD

Richmond, Va., Oct. 23 (A.P.).—Virginia's turkey crop is approximately 15 per cent larger this year than last, while the national crop increase is reported as but 9 per cent, Henry M. Taylor, Federal State statistician, announced here today.

The early season was unfavorable to turkeys, said Taylor, but Young birds surviving the June rains for the most part were favored by better weather in the middle and last part of the summer and the State crop will be better than average.

"About 51 per cent of the crop will be ready for Thanksgiving, another 40 per cent will be marketable by Christmas and the remainder will be available later, Taylor stated.

Large Increases in East.

"Practically all of the leading turkey producing States had increased production this year," says a Federal survey of the national situation, "but most of the largest increases were in the Eastern and Southeastern States where the crop for the two preceding years had been small.

"In the Western States, where turkey is becoming more of a specialized industry than in other areas, increases were again general this year, but these increases were less marked than those of last year. Increases in this area go very largely into commercial turkey supply and in the shape of carload shipments. Because of this fact increases in this area are apt to have a relatively greater effect on the turkey market situation than are increases in other areas.

"On the whole weather conditions in 1929 were fairly favorable for turkey raising over most of the country.

Better Methods Adopted.

"The adoption of better methods of handling turkeys and the commercial hatching and sale of young poults seem to be extending quite generally in most of the important turkey States. A considerable part of the increased production this year can probably be ascribed to these developments.

"The condition of the young turkeys about October 1, as reported by growers, was about average for that date. Those reports also indicate a disposition in some States to push the finishing of the birds so as to have a larger than usual proportion ready by Thanksgiving. In some areas a shortage and high prices of feeds may also tend to hasten marketings."

In connection with the announcement on the Virginia turkey crop, J. H. Meek, director of the division of markets, State Department of Agriculture, announced that turkey grading would again be available to those having a sufficient number of birds. The grading was instituted last year in Virginia.

Danseuse Given 90-Day Jail Term

Thais La Pe, Claiming to Be Wife of Colgate Scion, Denies Theft of Money.

Thais La Pe, 32-year-old French danseuse, who claims to be the wife of Gilbert Colgate, jr., son of the soap king, was found guilty in Police Court yesterday on a charge of petit larceny and was sentenced by Judge R. E. Mattingly to serve 90 days in jail. The woman also was ordered held for New York State police for alleged violation of a parole.

The woman, who was arrested Wednesday night on the complaint of Anthony Divico, declared she had not stolen any money, but had used the money to buy liquor with as he had instructed her. She told the court where she bought the whisky and said she had been introduced there by friends in the Diplomatic Corps.

In addition she charged that Divico was an agent of her husband and was trying to frame her, and requested the judge to have him arraigned on a charge of perjury. She represented to the court that she has an international reputation as a dancer and asserted that her legs were insured for $100,000.

Two Men Arrested At 30-Gallon Still

A 50-gallon still, 250 gallons of mash and nine gallons of corn whisky were seized and two colored men were arrested in a raid last night in the woods near Cheverly, Md.

The prisoners described themselves as Leo Smith, of Florida avenue northwest, near Fifth street, and Luther Brooking, of Quincy place near North Capitol street. The raid was conducted by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown, Constable Andrew Gasch and Policeman Claude Reese. Justice of the Peace Herbert J. Moffatt held the men on charges of manufacture and possession of liquor.

VIRGINIA TAXATION ANALYZED BY BYRD

Governor Answers Brown's Claim of Unfair Levies at Fairfield, Va.

250,000 AIDED, HE SAYS

Fairfield, Va., Oct. 24 (A.P.).—The full text of Gov. Harry F. Byrd's speech here tonight in support of the Democratic State ticket follows:

"Col. Anderson and Dr. Brown charge that under the Democratic administration the taxes have been increased on the poor and reduced on the rich. Let us examine the truth of this charge.

"On January 1, 1927, the General Assembly of Virginia completely repealed all tax on land and tangible personal property so that no taxpayer now pays any State tax upon his land, upon his house, upon his horse, mule, furniture, or any other property of like character.

"No other tax reduction could have given relief to as many people as this tax repeal. Two hundred and fifty thousand taxpayers directly benefited by this tax reduction

Reduction of $1,412,592.

"Notwithstanding the erroneous statements made by Col. Anderson and Dr Brown with regard to this tax reduction, the actual net taxes (considering both State and local) paid today by the owners of land and tangible personal property are reduced to the extent of $1,412,592.52 yearly. It was possible to have given a reduction to the taxpayers of $2,000,000 yearly, but certain cities and a few counties saw fit to reimpose for local purposes the tax removed by the State in part or in whole.

"The State, of course, could not control this action. The taxpayers even then have benefited, however, as more money has been available for local purposes without increasing the total tax burden on this class of property.

"For the protection of the local taxpayers, a law was passed requiring that no local taxes could be raised excepting after a public hearing with 30 days' notice on the intention to increase such taxes by local authorities and to give in detail the reason for the increase.

Eighty Counties Affected.

"The taxes on land and tangible personal property, State and local combined, has been reduced in 80 counties in Virginia and six cities and could have been reduced in all if the localities had not reimposed the State tax removed.

"The following counties enjoyed in 1928 a .25-cent reduction: Amelia, Appomattox, Bedford, Campbell, Chesterfield, Dickenson, Dinwiddie, Elizabeth City, Giles, Greensville, Hanover, Isle of Wight, Lancaster, Mathews, Mecklenburg, Nelson, Norfolk, Nottoway, Grange, Page, Shenandoah, Southampton, Surry, Sussex, Warren, Wise and Wythe; the following counties a .20-cent to .24-cent reduction: Albemarle, Amherst, Augusta, Botetourt, Brunswick, Caroline, Cumberland, Fairfax, Grayson, Henrico, King George, Lunenburg, Nansemond, Rappahannock, Roanoke, Rockbridge, Rockingham, Tazewell, Washington; the following counties a reduction below .20 cent: Accomac, Alleghany, Bath, Buckingham, Charles City, Charlotte, Clarke, Culpeper, Essex, Gloucester, Goochland, Greene, Halifax, Highland, James City, King and Queen, King William, Lee, Louisa, Madison, Middlesex, Montgomery, New Kent, Northampton, Northumberland, Pittsylvania, Prince Edward, Prince George, Prince William, Pulaski, Russell, Scott, Spotsylvania, Stafford and York.

County Tax Down 10 Per Cent.

"The total tax on the counties of Virginia have been decreased more than 10 per cent on land and tangible personal property and this tax reduction has gone to the poor much more than to the rich.

"The Federal Department of Agriculture, under Republican administration, in an analysis of the taxes of all the States of the Union states that the Virginia tax rate is the third lowest of all the States in the Union on the basis of actual value of property.

"In addition to reducing directly the tax on the land and tangible personal property, a new era of harmony and good will exists throughout the State by reason of the removal of the friction that heretofore existed on account of unequal assessments of the property between the 100 counties and 23 cities. If the tax on land and tangible personal property had not been removed, justice may have demanded the creation of a strong central tax board in Richmond to equalize assessments of property, thereby greatly increasing the machinery of government and increasing the tax on many sections of the State.

"Col. Anderson and Dr. Brown have called attention many times to the moderate increase in the income tax. Let us see exactly what the increase in income tax has been and what this tax amounts to.

Tax Law Rewritten in 1926.

"At the session of the general assembly in 1926 the income tax law was rewritten and made to conform more closely to the law. In order to compensate the State in part for the losses sustained by the reduction of the rates on intangibles, the rates on individual incomes were fixed 1½ per cent on the first $3,000 of net incomes; 2½ per cent on the next $2,000 of net income and 3 per cent on the amount in excess of $5,000; and the rate on corporate incomes was fixed at 3 per cent straight. The old rates for both individuals and corporations were 1 per cent up to $3,000 and 2 per cent on the excess.

"In 1926, however, the law was liberalized by increasing the deductions which will offset in part the increases in rate. Under the former law the value of property acquired by gift within the taxable year up to $1,000 only was exempt; under the present law it is exempt without limitation. Under the former law, the personal exemption of $2,000 allowed married persons living together did not extend to a widow or widower with dependent minor children; under the present law such a widow or widower is treated as the head of a family and the exemption of $2,000 is allowed. Deductions on account of repairs to machinery as well as building other than residence property occupied by its owner are expressly allowed under the new law and reasonable net deductions on account of depreciation of property used in a trade or business are not denied because a deduction is claimed on account of repairs.

More Changes in 1928.

"In 1928 the General Assembly made the following additional changes in favor of the taxpayer, effective for the taxable year 1929, which means that taxpayers filing their income returns in 1930 may take advantage thereof: (1) contributions or gifts will be allowed to be deducted under the same terms and conditions as under the Federal income tax laws; (2) all taxes paid except income taxes, inheritance taxes and taxes for local public improvements will be allowed every taxpayer who has had dependent upon him and who has entirely supported during the taxable year a person bearing the relationship to the taxpayer of father or mother, son or daughter, or sister or brother.

"These changes so made in 1928 were then estimated to save income taxpayers in filing their returns in 1930 the sum of at least $219,000.

"After all deductions the following income tax is paid: A man married and with three children having a net income of $3,200 pays nothing.

"The same man with a net income of $4,000 pays $12 per year. The same man with a net income of $5,000 pays $42 a year.

Tax Increased $4 Per Year.

"Under my administration the tax assessed against a married man with three children having an income of $4,000 has been increased $4 per year. The same man with an income of $6,000 has been increased $14 per year, but the greater reductions are allowed.

"Only 1 8-10 per cent of the population was assessed with State income taxes. The collections from the State income tax on individuals, exclusive of corporations for the year ending February 28, 1929, amounted to $1,818,040.

"The per capita individual income tax burden was therefore approximately 73 cents. This does not look like burdening the poor.

"The Federal Government under Republican control is annually collecting out of Virginia about $20,000,000 in corporation and individual income taxes, whereas the State government (under Democratic control) is collecting only $3,500,000 in corporation and individual income taxes.

Delinquents Rounded Up.

"Under the improved administration of our tax laws 23,000 delinquent income taxpayers have been compelled to pay taxes to the State. Is it increasing the taxes on the poor to add to the tax list 23,000 citizens not heretofore paying income taxes? From this source alone Virginia has received more than $2,000,000 and has thus been able to create a substantial surplus in the State treasury.

"It is true that the gasoline tax has been increased from 3 to 5 cents but every dollar of this tax is dedicated and set apart for the maintenance and construction of roads. Not one penny goes into the general treasury and therefore it directly benefits those who pay it.

"No tax has been increased the revenue of which goes into the general treasury except the income tax which is one of the fairest taxes ever devised as it is paid only by those who earn the money with which to pay the tax.

Other Reductions Noted.

"Other tax reductions made are as follows:

"Virginians owning shares of stock —repealed.

"Virginians owning bonds of the political subdivisions of this State—repealed.

"Capital in business reduced from $1.15 to 75 cents on every $100.

"Bank stock reduced from $1.10 to $1 on every $100.

"Nonresident transfer inheritance tax on intangibles—repealed.

"Taxes on seals of courts and notaries—repealed.

"This year there will be paid into the general treasury $2,163,767 less than for the year 1928. Some of these tax reductions will not be reflected until the bills are paid this fall and therefore many taxpayers may not realize that the reduction has occurred.

"It is obvious therefore that this charge against the Democratic administration is unfounded.

Queries Brown on Vote.

"Again I ask Dr. Brown whether he voted for or against the tax amendment to the constitution.

"The Hon. Jennings C. Wise is now publishing in the daily papers in Virginia a series of advertisements. Statements are made in these advertisements without one iota of truth or a single basis of fact.

"In an advertisement just published Mr. Wise said that the gasoline tax was increased under my administration for the purpose of making good a deficit in the State treasury. Any citizen of Virginia having the slightest knowledge of State affairs knows that from the time it was first established the gasoline tax has been segregated exclusively for the maintenance and construction of roads and not $1 of this tax finds its way into the general fund of the State.

Pollard "Misrepresented."

"Mr. Wise then proceeded to misrepresent the position of Dr. Pollard. Mr. Wise makes the positive statement that Dr. Pollard at Williamsburg favored tax reduction, but since his Williamsburg speech Dr. Pollard has said that no tax reduction is possible.

"This statement by Mr. Wise is false and is made for the purpose of misleading the voters. Never before in the history of Virginia has such an organized and heavily financed propaganda been conducted for the purpose of stating as facts conditions that are not true and that the authors knew were not true. It is a contemptible thing to mislead the voters about matters of State government when the facts are easily ascertainable and available to anyone interested.

"I am informed that at the eleventh hour that the State will be flooded by anonymous advertisements and circulars making attacks upon the Democratic administration. No voter should give credence to such charges unless proof is shown of their accuracy."

Danville Man to Face Jury on Girl's Charges

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Oct 24.—Purcell Nester will go on trial in the corporation court tomorrow for an alleged criminal attack on a 10-year-old girl here nearly a month ago. Nester, who is now in jail, was indicted three weeks ago by a special grand jury, soon after his capture in Patrick County.

Two attorneys have been retained to defend Nester and it has been indicated that they will attempt to show by medical testimony that a serious illness in childhood impaired his mind.

CUMBERLAND GIRL FREED IN KILLING

Testimony That She Shot Man as He Sprang at Her Wins Liberty.

MANY INSULTS REVEALED

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 24.—Eula Robertson, 16-year-old former junior high school girl, was acquitted of a charge of manslaughter by a jury in the Circuit Court late this afternoon after half an hour's deliberation. She was charged with slaying Thomas Sullivan, 45, a rejected suitor, in the back yard at the home of her mother, Mrs. Stella Miller, Pine avenue, early on the night of September 18.

The girl, who is a blonde of modest and rather attractive appearance, told the jury that she had repeatedly been insulted, threatened, called vile names, followed and annoyed by Sullivan. She said that Sullivan sprang at her and she shot when he was about eight feet from her.

The case lasted but the day. The principal witnesses for the State was Mrs. Millard Shipley, with whom Sullivan boarded, who declared Sullivan and Miss Robertson exchanegd notes on one occasion. This Miss Robertson denied on the stand, declaring that she sent back the notes Sullivan wrote to her with a request that he desist writing.

The 1925 court docket was introduced to show that Sullivan had been convicted of a statutory offense and given four years in the penitentiary. Magistrate Frank A. Perdew of people's court testified Sullivan had been sentenced to 30 days in jail after his return from the penitentiary on a charge of being disorderly and cursing Mrs. Miller's daughter. At the time of the shooting, Mrs. Miller was in jail at Bedford, Pa., on a charge of stealing an organ from the abandoned Reformed Church at Chaneysville, Pa., not far from the Maryland line. She was released on bond the next day.

Mrs. Miller was in court and joined her daughter immediately after the verdict was announced. Miss Robertson wept briefly upon the announcement of the verdict, but soon gained the composure which marked her manner since the time of the tragedy. There was handclapping in the jammed courtroom when she was declared not guilty, but the demonstration was quickly suppressed.

Four women teachers from junior high school were summoned as character witnesses, but they were not put on the stand. The plea of State's Attorney William A. Huster for conviction was that it would give an opportunity to get the girl away from her environment. She was defended by Estel C. Kelly, Charles Z. Haskett and Harry R. Donnelly, attorneys.
